HIGHBINDER STILL SOUGHT

It is thought clues have been obtained as to the whereabouts of the Highbinder accused of threatening the lives of Wong Non Ger and Chuck Fong, of Portland, and Chinamen of Boise, Idaho, and that the same Highbinder are wanted for crimes said to have been committed in San Francisco and Sacramento. The Highbinder in question, who are named as Fong Wah, Lui Wee Dung and Lui Yuen are, it is stated, engaged in running a lottery and a truck garden. Lui Wee Dung, also known as Ah Fong, and Lui Yuen, it is said, disappeared from San Jose four years ago when they were under bail to appear in court on a charge of sending anonymous threatening letters. A bond of $10,000, celestialists declare, had been put up by their attorney for their appearance in court, and when they disappeared, the cost had to be met by the lawyer, who has since tried in vain to locate them.

WILL INSIST ON APPROACHES.—The committee from the North East Side Improvement Association visited the Port of Portland office Saturday and inspected the plans for the railroad bridge it is proposed to erect over Oregon and Gilsan streets. It was found that the bridge deck bridge is provided for there seems to be no provisions made for the approaches. Joseph Euchtel, town engineer, Elletts company might erect the bridge according to the plans and leave the approaches to be provided for by the city, which would heavily tax the committee. It is insisted that wherever the bridge is built, provision shall be made to take care of all kinds of traffic and that the city shall be held to provide for the same. It was decided by the committee to ask the Port of Portland Commission to call a meeting when the interested citizens can be heard.

NURSES FINISH THURSDAY.—The graduating exercises for the 1909 class of nurses of the training school of the Good Samaritan Hospital will be held Thursday evening in the Good Samaritan Hospital chapel. Following the exercises a reception will be tendered the graduates and their friends at the Nurses Home, corner of Twenty-third and Marshall streets. Members of the class are: Misses Jessie Johnson, Wilma Roland, Stella E. Brown, E. Jeannette George, Evelyn L. Ramp, Ida Bennett, Elizabeth Elliott, Benita Ruth Stroud, Birdie Laura Jansen, Laura O. Hale, Eleanor Elizabeth, Emily Devereux, Emily G. S. Booth, Mary Edith Love, Beulah Viola Lucas, Nellie Johnson, Laura C. Heslon and Beryl Day.

BABE WANDERS FROM HOME.—A baby girl, so small she could hardly toddle and could only talk a little bit, was picked up by Patrolmen Henson and Keith, in front of 45 East Twelfth street North, last night at 6:45 o'clock. She was unable to tell her name so she was taken to the police station. She was afterwards identified as Malvina Perrihan, not quite 2 years old, whose parents live at 147 Stanwood street. She had been absent from home since 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Wandering away from her home she had become lost. When the police were alerted they telephoned the parents, who were relieved to learn that she had been found. Her father took her home.

I have a large stock of special savings and the linings and finish of garments made on orders taken during this sale will be the same as though you paid the regular price. Sale until 20th of Washington street, entrance to Rothchild building; in addition, 406 of room and work shop, in rooms 403, 404 and 405 of the building. W. J. Smith, merchant tailor.

TREAT FOR CHILDREN.—All members of the Portland Automobile Club who can spare their machines are requested to be filed with them for the purpose of entertaining children at the playgrounds of the Union-avenue bridge, which will probably be held on a charge of burglary. Detective Joe Adams, of the K. K. N., yesterday stated that the goods had been identified as belonging to E. I. Parks, who charged a car loaded with household goods from Hutchinson, Kan. Adams stated he found the jewelry and documents under the bridge, where they had been cached.

ORATORS DENOUNCE POLICE.—The general tenor of speeches yesterday of the socialistic orators, who make addresses in front of the various public places almost daily, was denunciatory of Portland's Police Department. Of late several members of the organization found illegal around the streets were arrested and last Friday in front of the City Free Employment Bureau, when a laborer was arrested by Patrolman Gill for refusing to move on, has tended to incite some of the Socialists to bitterness.

LOCAL CELEBRATION PLANNED.—North Albina will celebrate the Fourth of July in old-fashioned style. The celebration will be held in the new Smith park recently acquired by the city, and will be under the auspices of the Peninsula Band. A dance platform will be erected and there will be races and sports of all kinds. Several prominent speakers will be invited to deliver addresses. Work of the evening ground will be started at once.

ALL BUTCHERS HAVE AGREED to set aside Thursday afternoon of each week beginning on Thursday, June 24, and continuing until September 1, as a holiday, during which time the places will be closed at 12 noon.

JUST RECEIVED.—Car of Eastern hardwood flooring. Place your orders now for hardwood floors. Oregon Planning Mills, Main 230, A. 604.

BY ARTHUR A. GREENE.

The rare old days of real comic opera have come again and it is such a fine, refreshing relief from the clap-trap musical comedy era we have been passing through this decade or two that one feels devoutly calling down blessings on the head of Franz Lehár and Henry W. Savoy and all others to whom we are beholden for "The Merry Widow." Portland waited a long time for last night, but waited until almost every man in the brilliant score was an every-day familiar through the efforts of local orchestras and pianos, but despite this handicap our first hearing before the Viennese opera more than fulfilled expectations. The temptation was so strong that Mr. Savage to have sent an inferior company and production to travel on the reputation of the piece that it is almost remarkable to record the great success of the present organization, enough to have given "The Merry Widow" its American premiere. This latest demonstration is only another evidence that the Savoy trademark is a positive guaranty of excellence and that the public has come to know it. Both the company and the splendid orchestra are calculated to draw superlatives from a dyspeptic.

A sensuous symphony, in tone, coloring, motif and development—a feast in which the eye and ear are served with absolute impartiality. Always sensuous, the unforgettable waltz in the second act, the keynote of the whole, is languorously sweet with the sweetness of an after-dinner cordial, one will not gain great enjoyment from it, but will be delightedly entertained with the pleasure of a mild intoxication, an intoxication with a subsequent headache. So far as music goes, one may contend that it is less cumbersome than the music of Prince Danilo are, after all, rather frivolous incidents in the fling of a habit, the widow is not at all sinister and the minor peccadilloes of divers and sundry things, the ensemble are never so dull as to make us blush for them.

The music is perfectly sustained from overture to finale, the score is consistent throughout, quite different from the dreary piffle we are accustomed to tolerate that we may listen to two or three feebly members during the course of the evening.

In the person and voice of Mabel Wilber we have a well known ideal Sonia. Her acting, her singing, her social performance and her vocalization merit satisfying to the last degree. Her waltz is an Oriental poem set to exquisite orchestration and her singing, with a touch of grand opera, is hauntingly beautiful. In Miss Wilber we lose nothing because we miss seeing her predecessors in the role.

Owing to a severe cold which he manfully strove to overcome George Damerl was seriously handicapped in his rendition of Danilo, but yet he gave a veritable "Prince Charming." The principal comedy roles, Popoff, the guileless old Marquise ambassador, and Mish, the ancient messenger, were ably well accounted for by Oscar Figman and Thomas Leary. Mr. Figman is an old favorite here, but has never done such well sustained legitimate footling as Popoff. In the part of Natalie, the ambassador's feckless young wife, Georgina Leary, an understudy, proved a delightful surprise. No one would have thought she stepped into the part on short notice but for foyer gossip. A number of others in the long list of principals deserve individual attention, the performance in fact being balanced to a nicety.

The chorus is a dream of fair women, dressed with peckish extravagance and the scenic accessories might serve as models for all musical shows that promise "original New York productions." No small degree of the credit for last night's enjoyment is due the special orchestra, the same which was heard here with "Madame Butterfly" and it is a noteworthy innovation that it plays the entire score without a bar music before it. It is an unprecedented experience here to listen to an orchestra that has memorized all the music of a long piece of music, and it is a pleasure to hear it in a much appreciated relief. While the Bungalow stage is not so large as the one at the Lyric, the production is not curtailed in the least and the big company which appears on it does not seem to be uncomfortably crowded. Take my advice, do not miss "The Merry Widow." There is a treat in store during the week of its stay here.

RAID ON CAR GLEANS 5

TWELVE DEPUTY SHERIFFS NAB ROUGH QUINTET.

Peace Guardians Board Owl Mount Scott Coach to Break Up Ruffian Gang.

A raid by 12 Deputy Sheriffs on the owl mount Scott car early Sunday morning resulted in the arrest of five men who were taken to the County Jail and booked on charges of being drunk and disorderly. In the pocket of J. C. Coates, of Luther Station, was found a dirk. The dirk will appear before the Municipal Court this morning. The men arrested are: F. H. McClintock, of Gray's Crossing; J. Coulant, of Arleta; C. Newton, of Anabel; A. J. Logan, of Arleta, and Coates.

The raid was made by Deputies Lillis, Beatty, Boyer, Giltner, Sweeney, Huckybay, Constable, Morton, Drought, Slater, McCann and Storey. Deputy Lillis said last night that between 20 and 25 on the owl were in a state of complete or semi-intoxication, but that only the five who were "starting things" were taken into custody.

"They came from a saloon near Grand and Hawthorne avenues," said Lillis, "with beer and whisky. Their intention was to throw to the pavement with a crash just before the last car started. They were making a load and bolterous, and the men were arrested and brought to the County Jail. The car was C. J. Franklin, general superintendent of the O. W. P. division, said last night: "I was in the owl mount of a lot of youths on the Mount Scott and St. John lines late Saturday night has gone so far that we must put a stop to it, or stop running our cars. We have arrested as many as 20 or 30 people before the raids we have made on the Saturday night owl cars on the two lines. But that custom, when a casket is furnished into whose heads it is hard to drum the idea that they must behave. They drink enough before boarding the cars to feel that they are on a mission, with whom we have to deal. If it were not for the toughs sent to the rockpile, but these boys haven't been sent there and we don't want them sent there. But we must put a stop to this ungentlemanly conduct, and obscene talk which has been going on in the cars in tones loud enough to be heard by the women passengers. We have used the police and while the police are aboard the cars the young fellows behave. As soon as they leave the rough house starts again."
