They Attempt to Storm Parliament, Slap Police and Knock Off Caps.

OVER 100 ARE ARRESTED

Many Attempts to Rush Cordon of Police Repulsed-Women of Blue Blood Among Leaders of Female Mob.

LONDON, June 29.-The 13th vain attempt of the militant suffragettes to obtain access to Premier Asquith resulted in exciting scenes in Parliament Square ionight and the arrest of more than 100

The plan of attack followed the lines previously employed by the suffragettes.
The woman's parliament assembled in Caxton Hall and sent a deputation, headed by Mrs. Pankhurst, to see the Prime Minister, who had previously decided not to receive it. Enormous crowds sassembled in the vicinity of Parliament Square hours before the time set for the raid upon the house, around which several thousand police had taken up stragetic positions

Flings Down Asquith's Letter.

The first noteworthy incident was the arrest, after a great deal of trouble, of a buxom equestrian suffragette who tried to penetrate the police cordon to take a message to the Premier. Next appeared the deputation under command of Mrs. Pankhurst, and it was received with wild cheers. Escorted by the police, the deputation arrived at the St. Stephens' entrance to Parliament, where it was met by Chief Inspector Scantiebury, who handed Mrs. Pankhurst a letter from the Premier regretting his inability to receive the deputation. Ansrily throwing the letter on the ground, Mrs. Pankhurst exclaimed:

The police tried to induce the women to disperse quietly, and then began to lead them away. To the surprise of the spectators, who were massed around the entrance. Mrs. Pankhurst slapped inspector Jarvis in the face, knocking his cap in the mud. There were cries of "shame," and several spectators told the suffragette leader she had no provocation to do such a thing. A moment later another member of the deputation, Mrs. Saul Solemon, knocked off the Inspector's cap a second time, while others made determined attempts to rush the corden of police. Eventually the entire deputation was placed under arrest.

This, too, was unsuccessful, but for two hours the whole district was in an uproar, the police dispersing the crowds and arresting women by the wholesale. The windows of many of the government buildings were smashed with stones wrapped in paper bags. aper bags.
Altogether 112 women were arrested, in-

Vast Crowd Sees Sport.

Probably 50,000 persons gathered t watch the attempt of the Suffragettes t force Premier Asquith's hand. All ave nues of approach were cordened by th police and ambulances were provided to deal with cases of accident. Within the cordon were a large number of member of both houses of Parliament and societ people watching the scene. Among these were Lord and Lady Granard Lord Morley, Lord Wolverhampton and Lord Althorp. Just before 3 o'clock the Prime Minister himself drove away from the house unobserved by the crowd.

In Caxton Hall were Viscountese Harberton, Mrs. Israel Zangwill, Miss Beatrice Forbes-Robertson, Miss Elizabeth Robbins and Miss Beatrice Harraden, besides all the well-known Suffragette leaders.

Great excitement was caused among the crowd by the movements of the equestrian Suffragette, Miss Vera Howe, who rode back and forth, carrying messages be-tween the different deputations, and who tween the different deputations, and who ultimately was arrested. Throughout the demonstrations the police behaved with the utmost forbearance, but the Suffrageltes in many cases forced them to some rough handling. The great crowds indulged in considerable horse-play, but generally no active sympathy was extended to the Suffrageltes. At a o'clock the police had orders to clear the whole vicinity of Parliament and they gradually pressed the crowd back.

President Hadley said that many of the strongest men in England and the United strongest men in England and the United States have decided that the study of Greek takes more time than it is worth. Continuing, he said in part:

Seek Practical Results.

'In trying to get more practical results in the way of knowledge or culture, a great many American college boys have lost the training which Greek would have given them, and gained nothing of equal value in its place. But colleges cannot teach a thing to a public which does not want to study it; and we must recognize the fact that an increasing part of the American public does not care to of the American public does not care to have its sons give the time necessary for the effective use of the Greek language as a means of competition and discipline. $5000 bail to await the arrival of the Missouri officers.

The verdict was reached by the jurors within a few minutes after the presiding justice had charged them that the question of the genuineness of Cleveland's signature was immaterial, and even the question of the genuineness of the article was only secondary.

The main consideration, he told the jury, was whether the defendant had stolen $500, the price paid for the article by the New York Times.

The kidnaping, which Brandenburg admits, occurred after the writer jumped his bail while under indictment for the sale of the Cieveland article. He was found in San Francisco with the Cabanne

Brandenburg declared he was justified in taking the boy, because the boy's

Off Alcatrax Island the steering gear went wrong and the engines were stopped while repairs were attempted. As the vessel drifted with the tide, a tube in one of the starboard boilers blew out, opening a long crack, from which a cloud of hissing, scalding steam escaped. Five men were in the boiler-room at the time and they scrambled toward the hatchway and deck, fighting their way through the dense vapor, with scalding water dripping on them from the deck plates above.

King was the last man to reach the ladder, and as he stumbled to the bottom rung a second tube blew out, King receiving the full force of its charge of steam. Aided by his comrades, he reached the deck and a few moments later the exhaust valves emptied the crippled boiler of steam. Working on her remaining boilers, the Hull headed about and hastened back to Mare Island before the accident was known of here.
