

SUGAR TRUST NOW LAWS GLITCH

Indicted for Conspiracy to Close Segal Refinery in Philadelphia.

SIX OFFICIALS INVOLVED

Prosecution Is Latest Chapter in Story of Plot Which Came to Light Through Hipple Failure and Suicide.

NEW YORK, July 1.—The United States Government today laid the groundwork for another gigantic anti-trust suit in the indictment of the American Sugar Refining Company as a corporation, six of its directors and two prominent lawyers.

Sugar Magnates Indicted.

The individuals indicted are Washington B. Thomas, president of the American Sugar Refining Company; Arthur Donner and Charles H. Sniff and John E. Parsons, all of New York; John E. Mayer, of Morristown, N. J.; George H. Frazer, of Philadelphia. All are directors of the company.

Outgrowth of Segal Case.

The events leading up to today's indictments can be traced back to 1896, when Adolph Segal, of Philadelphia, sold to the American Sugar Refining Company a refinery which had built for a time operated in Camden.

Exposed by Hipple Failure.

Segal also borrowed heavily from the Real Estate Trust Company of Philadelphia, with which he deposited the securities of the company.

Parsons and Kissel Prominent.

The indicted men are all prominent in financial circles. John E. Parsons, counsel for the American Sugar Refining Company, was formerly president of the Bar Association of New York City.

women is an "oath-bound marriage club." This is an offshoot of the Professional Woman's Suffrage Union, and each member is required to sign the following pledge:

"We, the undersigned women, hereby declare that we will not marry any man who is not willing to sign an agreement of the 'obey' clause of the marriage contract. Miss Helen Murphy, secretary of the suffragettes, said today:

"Within six months I expect that we will have the pledges of over 100,000 handsome and intelligent young women. Our new battery is going to be 'Votes or no wives.' If all single young women will join us it will only be a short time before man has capitulated and woman comes into her own.

"To Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont belongs the credit of the idea. When she first suggested it I did not think it feasible. Then I talked it over with our members, and we decided to make a genuine test of the proposition. I hope that the unmarried women of New York and the entire country as well will see this, their great opportunity, and adopt our method or a similar one of advancing the great cause.

"A man who will not promise to work for suffrage does not deserve a good wife. He would probably beat her if she married him and ever crossed his wishes."

Great Parade and Campaign.

The suffragettes are also planning to mark next December by a day of parades. They will select the date on which their petition is to be presented to the long-suffering Congress.

It is the intention to have simultaneous processions in New York, Philadelphia, Chicago, Boston and other large cities in which all the trades and professions in which women figure shall be represented. They have decided that in New York the paraders must be at least 10,000 strong, and that the destination is to be Madison Square Garden, where there will be speeches and enthusiastic gallops.

The women have also planned a "demonstration week" which will be observed beginning next Monday. Here is the programme:

Monday, July 5.—Representatives of the suffragettes will be on duty at the Polo Grounds. They will tackle members of the audience and sell them "perfectly lovely match boxes" at less than cost.

Each match box will bear the inscription "Votes for Women," and the salesmen will be the prettiest girls who can be induced to contribute their services to the cause.

Tuesday, July 6.—Billed for a "grand assault" upon the bulls, bears and lambs of Wall street. Brokers, as they emerge from the Stock Exchange, will be accosted by suffragettes, garbed in white with yellow sashes, who will urge them to buy "Votes for Women" fans, and also to join the Men's Auxiliary.

Wednesday, July 7.—In front of every theater the white-robed fighters for the franchise will hold out to members of their own sex the "contact" powder puffs, wet dainty celluloid "votes for Women" tops.

Thursday, July 8.—This will be an off day, designed to give the earnest workers a breathing spell.

Friday, July 9.—There will be a trip to Coney Island, and the lure for pocket-books is to be in the form of big yellow balloons, with the cry for freedom inscribed in letters, which all who pass, even at a distance, may read. At night street plans will be pressed into service, as many as the union can afford to hire. Over each organ will be draped a yellow "Votes for Women" banner, and suffragettes will accompany the moving musical machines to act as collectors.

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, who is regarded as one of the leaders of the suffragettes, has recently returned from a trip to Europe. She announced that her New York sisters have no intention of adopting the "militant" efforts of the English workers, and explains that the intention here is to confine work to "persuasive methods." And she adds:

"I do not want the word 'militant' to be applied to anything that I may do or to anything that may be done by an organization with which I may be connected. Mrs. Catt made this statement at a meeting of the Interurban Woman's Suffrage Council. She also outlined a plan, which was adopted, designed to have an effect upon 'recalcitrant' legislators.

"We will strike them in their tenderest points, namely, their constituencies," she explained. "Any man who has taken a stand against woman suffrage will be attacked, and those who have expressed themselves in its favor will be supported, regardless of political affiliations. In this way we will help our friends and strike stunning blows at our enemies."

Before election time comes around, however, Mrs. Catt will supervise a "campaign of persuasion" at Coney Island. A petition headquarters will be established there, in charge of Mrs. Fricilla D.
