TEACHERS FINISH WORK AT ALBANY

Pedagogues Take Trains for Home, Seaside or Mountain Resorts.

BETTER SCHOOLS IS AIM

Improvement of Rural Districts Is Urged and Suggestions Are Offered to Bring About the Desired Results.

ALBANY, Or., July 2 .- (Special.)-The ALBANY, Or., July 2.—(Special.)—The Oregon State Teachers' Association completed the work of its ninth annual convention and adjourned at noon today. This afternoon the 800 teachers who attended the successful gathering are taking trains for their homes in all parts of the state or are starting for seacoast and mountain for their vacations.

This convention was distinctive in that

This convention was distinctive in that It had a more comprehensive programme with better speakers than any convention ever held by the association. There was also a greater and a more united spirit for progress in all of the schools of the state than was ever apparent at a former convention and a former of the state than was ever apparent at a former convention and a former of the state than was ever apparent at a former convention and a former of the state than was ever apparent at a former convention and a former of the state than was ever apparent at a former convention and a former of the state of the sta convention and a demand for more up-to-date methods and the improvement of all schools, particularly rural schools.

Before adjournment, the teachers by resolution recommended to the executive committee that the next convention be held in Portland in December, 1910, just before the Christmas holidays. Definite action on the recommendation will not be taken until later. At the next convention the preposition of making Portland the permanent meeting place of the association will be taken up for final action.

The greater part of the closing session was devoted to business matters, principally committee reports. The principal report of the session was that submitted by the committee on rural schools, which vas adopted. The report was in part as Better Rural Schools Urged.

In our opinion the rural schools have im-roved materially during the last few years, he state course of study, the uniform eighth rade examination, the library law, the in-coase of teachers' salaries and the general pilit in the state have improved the con-tion of the schools of the state to a marked school, the committee finds that one of the main ses of the lack of progress of the counschool is the lack of supervision. In city school, there is some one to help supervise every group of 20 teachers, the country, many counties have as many 200 teachers scattered over as much in the country, many counties have as many as 100 teachers scattered over as much territory as some of the principalities of Europe. The remedy lies in more supervisors in the larger counties and office help for the superintendents of the smaller counties. In the second place, we find that about 700 new teachers take up the work of teaching each year and that most of them have had no training and but little work, if any, above the work of the Elighth Grade. Most of these untrained teachers are employed in the rural schools and as soon as they have gotten training they are then employed in the town or city schools. The ramedy lies in giving all a chance to get training and then requiring a minimum amount of training before certificates can be granted. We realize that this is a difficult problem and that it may take years to bring it about.

Another cause of the backwardness of many country schools is the lack of local pride in the school district. This is shown by the poor buildings, unimproved grounds, lack of equipment, lack of paint and walls innocent of pictures.

To create local pride in buildings and grounds, we recommend that pictures of the hetter school houses be published in the daily papers of the state and as far as possible in the local papers, so that the people of other districts may catch the spirit of improvement and go and do like-wise.

The committee further recommended that debating societies be encouraged and that school entertainments be held to raise funds for decorating the school-The county high school plan as operated in Lane County was recom-

The big problem for the National com mittee to solve is whether or not it is entitled to declare a state election illegal. There are several ways it can do this. One would be to decline to recognize the present state officials as declared Spokane delegation today held the third of a session of indignation meetings in Ellers Hall, with 70 of the dele gates of state clubs present. Resolutions were proposed, among which was one stating that the ejected clubs should hold separate meetings from the national cor vention until an spology had been re-ceived, and that any statements made in regard to the present situation and the opinion of the executive committee be ignored until a final and decisive answer be given by the proper authorities.

Mrs. Hutton Threatens.

In an interview with May Arkwright Hutton, who was on Wednesday un-seated as vice-president of the State Association, she said:

"Last year when I attended the state convention the delegates gladly received se as vice-president of the organization ecause of my social standing in Spe kane, and because of my financial backing. Why, I have to have two secretaries to take care of my personal business, and it is all they can do to take care of the press clippings about myself, which

When asked about the progress of this morning's session, Mrs. Hutton warned the inquirer that she had had reporters arrested who persisted in quizzing her when ahe told them to leave. "You can't fool me," continued Mrs. Hutton, as a parting shot. "I have not mingled in the business world for nothing."

licity today in the sessions of women suffragists when it became known that no less than 35 fair suffragists from Spokane were locked behind closed doors, unwilling and involuntary prisoners, while the election of officers was going on at the first day's session of the State Federation. The affair has reached the ears of the National body, and a hot time is promised when the Spokane delega-tion's case is finally taken before the executive committee.

The fair suffragist prisoners effected their escape by crawling out of a window which opened on the ground in the rear of the church building. Their escapade, by mutual consent, was to be kept secret. One of these women in the confusion that followed, became hysterical and fainted. She was revived and was helped out of the window with the in jail here, charged with attempting to kill his wife.

Bennett and his family have been living in a tent on the Lyda farm near Thatcher. Washington County, 12 miles northwest of this city and the husband has been working at the carpenter trade. He is a hard drinker and yesterday indulged freely while working on a barn with C. O. Farnsworth, a cousin of his wife, who has been living with the family.

Bennett refused to eat dinner or supper, and about 5 o'clock went to Banks. Returning at 9 o'clock went to Banks. Returning at 9 o'clock he opened fire on his wife with a revolver, firing two shots at close range, neither of which took effect. Mrs. Bennett escaped and hid behind a tree. Her husband then secured a 22-caliber rifle and fired a score of shots at C. O. Farnsworth without hitting him.

Bennett was arrested by Sheriff without hitting him.

Bennett was arrested by Sheriff Hancock this morning, and tonight the wife swore to a complaint charging Bennett with an attempt to commit murder. The prisoner begged hard for mercy, and the wife agreed not to appear against him provided he would not contest a divorce suit, and would permit her to take the two minor children.

Bennett and family came here recently from Tillamook.

SESSION OPENS AT BURNS

Need of Money to Develop Vast Resources of Harney County Is Keynote of Address by Prominent Resident of Inland City.

BURNS, Or., July 2.—(Special.)—The ninth session of the Oregon-Idaho Development Congress opened here yeaterday with a good attendance. President Hofer delivered his formal address and some preliminary work was done. Upon resuming business in the afternoon, the address of welcome was given by Frank Davey.

A request for capital for development of the latent resources of Harney County was the keynote of Mr. Davey's address, "People are anxious to come, and the materials are here when suitably treated," he said. A portion of his address follows:

You have discovered here not a contiwhen suitably treated," he said. A portion of his address follows:

You have discovered here not a continent, but an empire, little known outside of the comparatively few who have been within its borders long enough to realize its vastness and its possibilities. Nature has been generous in its gifts to this section, but they are so placed that only by the influence of developing agoncies of modern character can they be made to yield full and satisfying fruits.

The first requirement toward this desired end is the means of reaching the markets of the world. So long as our country is isolated from railroad stations there is no incentive to general cultivation and the raising of crops. It is chiefly secause you are the harbingers of the improvements and utilities needed in this region that we have a warm welcome for you.

Experts from the Oregon Agricultural College were with us the past Spring and made an extended investigation of the soils and conditions predominating in Harney Valley. They told the farmers of this county what they could accomplish with wheat of well-selected variety, with alfalfa, with Canadian peas, with oats and barley, with sugar beets, with the soveral root crops and with fruits, leaving no doubt that every acre of land, the elevations as well as the valleys, could be made to yield with enormous profit. The success with which the staple crops can be cultivated shows at once the success making can be carried on; hoss, fine stock and horses raised and every wealth-producing industry pursued.

But for all these things, gentlemen, we must have capital to promote the enterprises.

There are many other sources of wealth in this country besides the cultivalle and

There are many other sources of wealth in this country besides the cultivable land, but they cannot be utilized or developed without the aid of capital. There are mountains of rich mineral—gold, sliver and copper—in its northern and southern portions. There is an unlimited amount of excellent building stone in various localities. There is an unquestionable field of gas and oil underlying the country around Malheur and Harney Lakes; there are immense beds of sait and borax deposits in several places and there are large hills of what is claimed to be a good quality of coment. There is also a mountain of fine limestene only a short distance from Burns.

which they have treated us."

Mrs. Smith Devoe, who was re-elected president of the Washington Equal Suffrage Association during the row, said:

"The Spokane women may do anything they like," but I cannot see how they are going to do anything at all. Surely I and my followers have no intention or desire to do these people an injustice. What we did we did fairly and squarely, and I do not see why they are making such a fuss about nothing."

The American Woman Suffrage Association decided today to establish National headquarters in New York City, When discussion of the removal from Washington was begun some of the delegates objected on the ground of the heavy expense of maintenance in New York. They were assured, however, that plenty of money was obtainable in New York.

in the works of development which are indicated by existing conditions—in the construction of reservoirs and canals, in the harnessing and utilization of water powers, in the drainage of Malheur Swamp and the lowering of the outlet of Silvies River; in the prospecting of our oil and gas fields, our mines and our sait and borax bads.

AGENT ACCUSED OF FRAUD

George S. Geis, Realty Dealer, Arrested in Corvallis.

Wanted in Portland on divers charges of securing money through false representations, which, according to sworn witnesses, netted him in the aggregate a neat sum of money, George S. Gels, real estate man, with offices at Fifth and Morrison streets, was arrested yesterday morning at Corvallis, Constable Lou Wagner was immediately advised by telephone of the arrest and Deputy McCulloch left yesterday afternoon to bring Culioch left yesterday afternoon to bring the prisoner here. Mrs. Anton H. Swanson is the principal complainant against Gels. She says that Gels represented to her that he was the duly qualified agent of the owner of several lots in Portland additions which she contracted to nurchase paying him to eral lots in Portland additions while she contracted to purchase, paying him $29 a lot to bind the bargain. George Edwards, who bought a rooming-house on Washington street, between First and Front, is likewise complaining against Gels, who, he says, sold him the rooming-house, representing that it was unincumbered. He paid $2300 for it and it later developed that there were several outstanding mortgages against the property. Edwards declares.

Gels made an offer over the telephone to make good on all the deals, but his importunities were to no avail and he will be brought back to face the charges in court.
