

KECHEL BEATS PAPKE IN THE THIRD ROUND

Papke Has Lead, but Referee Gives Ketchel Decision on Points.

ROBBERY, CRIES LOSER

Both Men Show Lack of Punching Power and Fight Like Old Women—Ketchel Says Hand Broken, but Fights With It.

gruelling battle, during which the champion was constantly on the aggressive, he was awarded the decision over Billy Papke, of Illinois, at the end of the 20th round—the scheduled number. Ketchel said he had broken his right hand in the sixth round and this assertion subsequently was verified. His left thumb also was dislocated. The decision of the referee was greeted with a mixture of cheers and hoots.

Referee Roche after the contest made the following statement: "Ketchel was the aggressor at all times. Furthermore he landed the cleaner and harder punches, and scored the only knockdown in the fight, although nearly everybody seems to think that Papke had slipped to the floor. There is absolutely no question but that Ketchel earned a clear-cut decision." As to the fight itself, the referee said it was a contest between two old women, both of whom were fighting with a straight left to the face. The feature of the fight was the extreme viciousness with which both men fought and the apparent hatred that apparently lurked behind every punch.

Why He Could Not Knock Out.

When seen in his dressing-room, Ketchel gave out this statement: "I broke my right hand in the sixth round and later on the eighth round I dislocated my left thumb. But for these mishaps I would have made short work of Papke. I could not hit effectively when the opportunity came, particularly in the tenth round. I will be only too glad to give Papke another change." Ed Papke, promoter and manager of the defeated pugilist, said he was disappointed in showing his displeasure over the decision. He said that his brother should at least have been given a draw.

Defeated

The defeated said nothing further than that he would fight Ketchel at any time again. Willie Britt said that unless Ketchel's hands improve, the champion will not be able to fight Jim Flynn in Los Angeles on July 14 next.

Round 1.

Ketchel opened up with a right smash to the stomach, and Ketchel's body punches separated the men from clinches. Ketchel landed a succession of rights and lefts to the body, and a clinch against the ropes. Ketchel shot in a fearful rip to the jaw, and a moment later a right to the chest. Ketchel landed a vicious left to the jaw, and the round ended with the men fighting at close quarters. Ketchel had the advantage.

"He ain't started yet," yelled Willie Britt, as Ketchel started the round. The men fought entirely at close range, with Ketchel forcing his man against the ropes. Ketchel landed a vicious left to the jaw, and a moment later a right to the chest. Ketchel landed a vicious left to the jaw, and the round ended with the men fighting at close quarters. Round 3.

Round 4.

Ketchel planted a straight right over the heart, but Papke's eyes were closed. Ketchel landed a vicious left to the jaw, and a moment later a right to the chest. Ketchel landed a vicious left to the jaw, and the round ended with the men fighting at close quarters. Ketchel had the advantage.

Round 5.

Referee Roche exhausted his patience, sternly separating the men. Ketchel then shot two left uppercuts to the jaw, and forced Papke through the ropes by sheer strength. Into the laps of the newspaper man. A vicious right to the jaw, and a vicious left to the jaw. Papke doing considerable execution with right and left to the jaw. Papke's round.

Round 6.

Papke rapped Ketchel on the jaw with a right uppercut, rocking the latter's head. The men fought so fiercely that they fell to the floor from exhaustion. Ketchel then planted two lefts and a right to the head. Immediately afterward Ketchel swung two short-arm lefts to the jaw, and forced his man against the ropes. Papke Ketchel shot a straight left to the face, where he put in three body punches. The round ended in a vicious but ineffectual rally. Ketchel had a slight advantage.

Round 7.

They went at each other like tigers, but most of the blows were harmless. Ketchel forced his man against the ropes, uppercutting his left to the jaw and right to the body. Papke landed a right to the face, and Ketchel retaliated with a left shift to the stomach. Ketchel all the time landing out with right and left. Most of these blows, however, were ill-directed and no damage resulted. Even round.

Round 8.

After some fruitless exchanges, Papke uppercut with right to the chin. Ketchel's face was partly covered with blood, as the song terminated an even round.

LONDON, July 5.—The Meadowbrook, L. I., polo team, composed of Lawrence Waterbury, J. M. Waterbury, Jr., H. P. Whitney and Devereux Milburn, won the second match played here today for the American polo cup 8 to 2.

The first game was won by the Americans, June 18, and as the cup was to go to the side winning two out of three matches, the victors by their victory today, have gained the trophy for America. A crowd which numbered 6000 cheered the Americans when the final result was proclaimed, and again when the quartet of players who have carried everything before them since the trophy was in England, went up to the royal stand to receive the cup which has been in England's possession for many years.

The Meadowbrooks scored early in the first half, and a rousing cheer went up when England's second goal was scored. The Americans scored a goal with a penalty hit. From that on the English team never had a chance, three more goals going to the Meadowbrooks in quick succession before the bell rang for half-time.

Three more were added soon after play was resumed in the second half, while England had her only other score just before the last interval. This was followed by still another goal for the victors.

The Prince and Princess of Wales heartily congratulated the Americans on their victory.

The Riverside Driving Club's final day of the three-day meet was handicapped yesterday afternoon by the rain, and only one race was run, and that only between the owners of the horses insisted that mud should not interfere with the performance of their entries. This lone race was between J. P. Shea's Lady Lovelace and L. W. Watts' Blue Jacket, and the former mare won in three straight heats.

The Shea entry won the first heat in 2:30, a good time despite the mud. Lady Lovelace took the second heat, just as easily as she had won the first, yet it was three minutes slower. The third heat was made in 2:32, the slowest of the three heats, but Lady Lovelace had all the best of the matinee. The few spectators assembled enjoyed the going fairly well.

The Riverside Driving Club deserves great credit for the races on the earlier days, for the meet in general has been most successful.
