PREPARE FOR LIFE

Object of Education in View of Teachers.

AIM IS NOT PRESIDENCY

National Educational Convention Talks on Training Young for Industrial Life—Elmer Brown for President.

DENVER, July 5.—A preparatory course to the presidency is not the object of public school systems of the United States, or rather, it should not be, in the opinion of the leaders of the Council of Education, who spent today in a discussion of conditions that must rule the twentieth century.

The final session of the council, preliminary to the sessions of the National Educational Association, the first of which was held tonight in the Denver Auditorium, took place this afternoon. James A. MacLeane, president of the University of Idaho, said that in the future, boys must be trained for the positions they will be called upon to hold in the various social or political groups. The question of the scope that should be given state school executives occupied most of the afternoon session.

H. H. Searley, president of the Iowa

State Normal School, said that uniformity should exist among the states in the government of schools, and that much better progress would be made in the future were the State Superintendent of Education given wider powers. He said, in substance:

The greatest problem in education today is the industrial training of the common people so as to enable them individually to give more productive service.

He said that agriculture should be taught in the country schools, and continued:

The work of conducting such training is to expensive to rely upon the country school districts alone, and the rest of the state must help. Nothing of large importance will be able to be shown until large amounts of money are invested in both state and nation so that teachers can be trained, and salaries sufficient for their support can be paid. Then agricultural education must depend upon men teachers and not women teachers.

This view was furthered by Edwin T. Fairchild, Superintendent of Public Instruction of Kansas, who suggested the commission plan for school government. Mr. Fairchild also suggested the appointment of State Superintendents by a board of education. This, he believed, would obviate the possibility of an incompetent person holding the office.

Elmer Brown for President.

The political side of the teachers' gathering has been felt but little thus far, except that an attempt has been made to throw politics out of the association. A few leaders believe this can be brought about by "taking the office to the man," instead of making the race a free-for-all.

To this end, it is proposed to nominate Elmer E. Brown, National Commissioner of Education, for president of the association. It is said that he is not an active candidate. Thus far, it seems as if Mr. Brown would receive the nomination. It is not believed there will be any opposition to Irwin Shepherd, of Winona, Minn., for secretary.

Industrial Teaching Demanded.

Lozenzo D. Harvey, president of the National Education Association, delivered his annual address at the general session of the organization. It was a discussion of the widespread demand for industrial education in the public schools and the efforts made to satisfy it. He concluded:

Our educational system is the result of an evolutionary process. The demand for industrial education is a demand for a continuation of the evolutionary process to meet new conditions. That type of education will appeal to hundreds of thousands of youths who now leave school because they do not find in it that which appeals to them, or because its work does not appeal to their parents. It will hold them longer in school, and the more of this work existing types of public schools can offer the greater the gain, because side by side with the new type of work the best of the old will be continued.

Kansas Champions Women.

Woman suffrage came to the fore for a moment this morning when John McDonald, editor of the Western School Journal, Topeka, Kan., took up arms for the women.

Mr. McDonald was comparing the ease of the present-day County Superintendents, the use of a carpet being extended him as against the horseback circuit-riding of ex-Superintendents, when he suddenly left his subject and shook a finger at his audience.

"In Kansas," he said, "50 out of an approximate 100 County Superintendents are women. Now, then, what a narrow being a man is. He is willing to let more than half the county schools of his state be ruled by a woman, thereby acknowledging that she knows more than he, but he is not willing to admit that she knows enough to vote for the incumbent of that office."

Nathan C. Schaffer, Superintendent of Schools of Pennsylvania, offered an innovation when he said he believed that Superintendents should be appointed by the boards of directors of counties and removed if found incompetent.

INDIANS PRESENT DRAMA

Many Notable People Attend Exercises at 300th Anniversary of Discovery of Beautiful Lake Near Border Line.

POINT HENRY, N. Y., July 5.—With bright skies overhead and picturesque ruins forming a background, the first event of the 300th anniversary celebration of the discovery of Lake Champlain was held here today. The exercises were held at Crown Point, almost in the shadow of the ruins of Fort Amherst and Fort Frederick, where the intrepid explorer for whom the lake is named first met the Iroquois in battle.

The celebration was arranged jointly between the states of New York and Vermont, and will continue throughout the week, representatives of France, England and Canada and the Indians joining with those of the two states and of the Federal Government in the exercises commemorative of the history-making struggles throughout the Champlain valley.

H. Wallace Knapp, of the New York commission, during the week will entertain President Taft, United States Senator Root, Ambassador Bryce, of Great Britain, and Ambassador Jusserand, of France, members of the New York Legislature and other distinguished guests.

Thursday and Friday the party will be the guests of the state of Vermont.

Governor Hughes, of New York, and Governor Proouty, of Vermont, the state commissions and their guests participated in today's exercises. The programme included a sham battle between companies of the Tenth Regiment, which has been in camp for a week at Crown Point; an Indian pageant, and literary exercises late in the day. Speakers were Governor Hughes, ex-Mayor Seth Low, of New York, and Judge Albert C. Barnes, of Chicago.

The Indian drama of "Hawatha," which formed a picturesque part of the day's programme, was produced by 150 Indians, descendants of the Algonquians and Iroquois, who participated in Champlain's battle, under the direction of L. O. Armstrong, of Montreal, on a floating island constructed on barges. The island, which is several hundred feet in length, depicts among other scenic effects a stockade, the point of attack in the battle by the besieging bands of Indians, who reached the beach in canoes.

Late in the day there was a dress parade of the Tenth Regiment, following which the gubernatorial party left on a steamer for Ticonderoga, which will be the scene of tomorrow's observations. Wednesday, at Plattsburgh, will be the big day of the celebration. Thursday, Burlington, Vt., will be the center of interest, and Friday the exercises will be held at Lake Champlain at the northern end of the lake. At each of these places Indian pageants will be presented, the floating island having been so constructed that it can be towed from place to place on the lake.

Vermont City Celebrating.

BURLINGTON, Vt., July 5.—Bright skies and cool, bracing air favored the tercentenary celebration of the discovery of Lake Champlain here today. Special tercentenary exercises were held in City Hall Park this morning. The speakers included Governor Proouty and Right Rev. A. C. Hall, Protestant Episcopal Bishop of Vermont.

The programme for the afternoon included a matinee driving meet in Riverside Park, a balloon ascension and a Marathon race on Centennial Field, in which are entered Black Hawk, Johnny Hayes, Ted Cook and Pat White. An elaborate display of fireworks on the lake front is planned for this evening.
