

OREGON MILITIAMEN ON WAY TO CAMP

TROOPS AT RANGE

Regulars and Guardsmen Ready for Maneuvers.

400 MEN UNDER CANVAS

Lively Programme Begins Today With Close Order Drills and Skirmish Runs by Battalions. Night Problem Scheduled.

The rifle range at Clackamas Station, 12 miles south of Portland, took on a martial aspect yesterday when 400 men from the Third Oregon Infantry and the Regular Army completed their camp for the annual field exercises. Through the remaining days of the week a military programme is to be carried out that will include every phase of field work. The 12 companies of the National Guard regiment reached the rendezvous yesterday, the Portland companies and the Oregon City company marching from their respective armories. The companies from Woodburn, Salem, The Dalles, Baker City and Pendleton arrived by train. Company G, First United States Infantry, and a machine gun detachment from Vancouver Barracks were already on hand, having marched from Vancouver Saturday afternoon and Sunday morning. Establishment of camp was effected by the officers and men of the Third without hitch. As each company arrived it was allotted space and left to work out its own problems. Commissioned and non-commissioned officers appeared to know exactly what was required of them. While the afternoon was given over to the work of adjusting the troops to camp, all were employed while the range, tents, headquarters and all the details had been perfected and the regiment was being marched to the rifle range, which begins in earnest this morning. From 5:15 o'clock this morning until sunset both regulars and guardsmen will be employed in instruction work. Close-order drills were announced last night as the programme for this forenoon for the Second and Third Battalions will occupy the morning. The first battalion will be drilled by the Second Battalion, which has its innings tomorrow. The second battalion will be drilled by the First Battalion, which has its innings today. Major Robert H. Noble, First United States Infantry, and Lieutenant James W. Everington, Third United States Infantry, reported at the camp during the day for service with the regiment as instructors. Major Noble will inspect the troops. Both officers expressed themselves as pleased with the manner in which camp was established and with the bearing of the men generally. The field maneuvers are to be held several miles east of Clackamas, beginning probably on Friday. The district was gone over during the afternoon by Colonel Charles E. McDonald, camp commander; Major Noble, Major L. May and composed of companies E, H, C and K of Portland, will be taken over the course today. The Second Battalion, which has the range for Thursday, is in command of Major T. N. Dunbar. Major Robert H. Noble, First United States Infantry, and Lieutenant James W. Everington, Third United States Infantry, reported at the camp during the day for service with the regiment as instructors. Major Noble will inspect the troops. NEW BILLS OPEN AT THE VAUDEVILLE HOUSES

Orpheum. BY ARTHUR A. GREENE. It is a difficult thing to discover novelty in a trained animal show, and sometimes one is inclined to wonder what else is left for the trainers to do in teaching their dumb pupils. The answer is to be found at the Orpheum this week in Sam Watson's Farmyard Circus. There is full justification for saying that this is one of the most entertaining exhibitions of its kind Portland has seen. Sam Watson is an English expert, a fat, kindly Johnny-Bull-looking person, and he knows his business thoroughly. His educated scholars include a donkey, a number of fascinating dogs, a surprisingly intelligent cat, a pair of geese, a lamb of the genuine Mary variety and lastly a trashed pig, of much interest. These remarkable animals give an exhibition that cannot fail but be popular during the week. It's a genuine hit. "Trimmed" is a clever sketch set in a manicure shop, in which Madge Pierce, Bruce Clayton, Albert Peters and William McKelvey appear advantageously. It is a funny little farce and is assuredly calculated to please. All rights the third number in point of interest on the programme is the clever clowning of Griff, an English music hall star of established reputation, who is a real humorist. He is a rare delight. Two talented girls, Elizabeth Banks and Bernice Brazzale have a beautiful and dainty musical act, in which the principal feature is Miss Banks' cornet work. Mr. Grannon possesses a fascinating voice and sings a number of attractive new songs. A bit of amusing slapstick is offered by Walter Schrode and Lizzie Mulvey in a skit called "A Theatrical Agency." Herbert and Willing, blackface performers, trail along with the pictures.

Mr. Collier left Kentucky for Missouri in 1870 and moved thence to Pendleton, Or., where in 1906 he joined Carson Post, G. A. R. He resided in Pendleton until last Fall, when he came to St. John to be near his sons. He was an invalid since February, 1908. He is survived by his wife, a daughter, Mrs. Annie Foster, of Buffalo, Wyo., and three sons, C. S. Collier, of Lapcombe, Alberta, Canada, and Attorney H. E. and J. A. Collier, of St. John.

AILING, HE KILLS SELF

H. L. ENGLISH IS SUICIDE AT IMPERIAL HOTEL. Consumptive Bookkeeper 40 Years Old Uses Pistol to End His Life.

Despondent because of ill-health, enduring for the last year and a half, H. L. English, 40 years old, a bookkeeper, who came here last Friday from Pendleton, Or., shot himself with a .22-caliber revolver in his room at the Imperial Hotel yesterday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. He died at the Good Samaritan Hospital at a late hour last night. The bullet entered just above the heart and lodged near the spinal column. Dr. H. J. Keeny was called and despite the dying man's protest administered opiates from time to time, which prolonged his life several hours, though at no time was there any hope for his recovery. G. E. English, of 198 North Fifteenth street, an employe of the Southern Pacific Terminal Company, is a brother of the suicide. English was afflicted with tuberculosis and for the last year had been a patient in the Sisters of Mercy Hospital at Pendleton, where he was employed last. When Dr. Keeny arrived, he found English unconscious. The surgeon used a hypodermic injection to bring him to consciousness. English later raised himself on his elbow and said: "Better let me die, doctor. If I get well I will put it here (pointing to his forehead) the next time, so there won't be any mistake."

OUTLOOK FOR NEW CITY JAIL IS GOOD

Mayor and Council United as to Importance of Project, and Will Move Soon.

SITE IS TO BE SELECTED

Ways and Means Committee Will Bring Subject to Attention of Council, Which Will Ask Executive Board to Act.

Mayor Simon and members of the City Council are united in the belief that Portland must have a new, modern City Jail, Municipal Court, police headquarters and emergency hospital building, and this will probably be built in the immediate future. The Council ways and means committee, yesterday afternoon, voted a recommendation to the Council that the Executive Board be authorized and requested to select a site for the building, and to furnish a design and all necessary data, with the cost of the whole undertaking, and to send the facts to the Council at the earliest possible date.

While some differ in their opinion as to where the new municipal building should be located, it is generally believed it will be placed on the site of the present City Jail building, at Second and Oak streets. A proposition has been made to the Council to purchase a strip 25x35 feet, adjoining the north side of the property on which the present structure is located. This is controlled by J. A. Taylor, who has offered it to the city for $60,000; or he will travel the grounds to the city or the rights in the Stark-street slip on the river on even terms. This matter has not been discussed officially, but when Mayor Simon was informed of the price asked for the property on Second street, he said that it is too high.

"I am heartily in favor of a new building for the police headquarters, Municipal Court, emergency hospital and City Jail," said Mayor Simon, when asked for his views on the matter. "Portland must have this improvement; we cannot get along without it any longer. It is a shame to have such an old, worn-out, dilapidated thing for human use as that building the police are now housed in. That was one of the few things I spoke about prior to my election, and I intend to build the new structure right away."

It has been discovered that there will probably be enough money in the general fund to build this new structure and also a crematory, and it is thought that these two needed improvements can be had without the sale of any bonds, but the Mayor declares that bonds will be built, and if it is necessary to sell part or all of the crematory bonds, that he will sanction the sale, as he declares the city cannot longer go without either of the projected buildings.

Members of the Council ways and means committee spoke very strongly in favor of a new municipal building. Councilman Wallace finally moving that the Council pass a resolution, requesting the Executive Board to furnish the necessary data, and to select a site for the building at the earliest possible date. The Council will undoubtedly act upon this recommendation tomorrow. The Executive Board will meet Friday afternoon and the matter will thus be promptly taken up and the project carried forward rapidly.

The present City Jail has for years been the subject of severe criticism on the part of the municipal administration. Numerous grand juries have censured it in strong terms, and the city has been made by various regimes to improve the situation, but never with any success. The building is too small for the needs of the city, and the conditions under which the Police Department is run greatly cripple its efficiency. It being impossible to properly house the officers, and the Municipal Court is crowded with large enough to accommodate the court requirements. The detective bureau was recently moved into the rooms in an adjoining building because of lack of room in the city's structure.

DAY'S PISTOL BLUFFS MOB

Sleuth Points Weapon as He Manacles Alleged Pickpocket.

Detective Day held a crowd of circus men at bay yesterday afternoon with a cocked revolver, while he placed the manacles with his free hand on John Scullin, an alleged noted pickpocket, at the Wallace-Hagenbeck circus grounds. This action followed an attempt on the part of a crowd to wrest the prisoner from the sleuth.

Two reports of clever pocket picking were reported to the police Sunday night, and Detective Day and Snow were assigned to the cases. They sought out the circus grounds under the theory that the "dip" would attempt operations there in the crowds yesterday afternoon.

Scullin, whose picture is prominent in the regies' gallery, was shadowed during the early part of the day after he had been found at the circus grounds. When Detective Day arrested him, a circus pickpocket attempted to wrest him from the detective's grasp. A scuffle ensued during which the detective drew his revolver and repulsed the man, and a crowd of other circus hands gathered about in a threatening circle.

A John Doe warrant was issued last evening for the circus hand at the instance of Day. Scullin was placed in jail and an effort will be made to have the pickpocket victims identify him.
