BUSY DAY SPENT ON RIFLE RANGE

Drills and Target Practice Take Up Every Minute of Camping Troops.

BENSON TO VIEW GUARD

Will Be Given in Will Visit Clackamas Station on Thursday.

An active programme of instruction in military work, including a little of everything from camp routine to target practice and dress-parade, was carried out by the Third Oregon Infantry and Regulars at the Clackamas Station camp yes terday. The camp began its work at 5:30 clock in the morning and there was no essation of activities until dark.

Company, battalion and regimental drills in close and extended order, and target practice occupied the forenoon Camp routine and a dress-parade and re law were the chief features of the afternoon's work. The first battalion, under Major May, spent a busy day on the rifle ange, firing over the marksman's course, 60, 300 and 500 yards. Today the drills will be altogether in extended order formations and there will also be minor problems in company outpost, advance guard and rear guard movepost, advance guard and rear guard move-ments. It is the plan gradually to get the command into shape for the field maneuvers that are to conclude the week. Saturday was settled upon by the camp commander. Colonel McDonell, yesterday as the day for the principal maneuver in which blank ammunition will be used and conditions of actual hostilities will be simulated so far as is possible.

Troops to Clash Saturday.

Early Saturday morning all the troops in camp. National Guard and Regular Army, will leave in heavy marching order, divided into two forces, which will operate against each other until noon Sunday. The opposing commands will be instructed, in a general way, as fo the objects to be accomplished, and it will be left to the commanding officers to work out their own salvation. Strict secrecy will be observed as to the nature of the out their own salvation. Strict secrecy will be observed as to the nature of the Equipped with shelter tents and field rations, the two opposing commands will leave camp and proceed eastward several miles from Clackamas along different leave camp and proceed eastward several tables from Clackamas along different troutes. At dark the troops will bivouace buf both will doubtless move during the early hours of the morning in an effort to gain an advantage. The movement will afford excellent instruction in advance guard and outpost duties and will test the endurance and efficiency of those engaged under conditions required by warfare.

Target practice by the machine gun Target practice by the machine gun platoon from Vancouver Barracks, under Lleutenant Davis. United States Army, will be a feature of today. The platoon will be attached to Major Baker's battalion and will accompany that command on a baftalion skirmish advance from 600 yards to the target butts. In this way it will be determined just what the effectiveness would be of the National Guard battalion, supported by a machine gun detachment in an sdvance on a line of trenches.

Benson Will Visit Camp.

Governor Benson, as commander-inchief of the Gregon National Guard, will pay his official visit to camp Thursday afternoon. He will be tendered 2 dress-parade and review. A band concert will be given by the Third Regiment's band in the evening. Thursday will also be visitors' day and a large number of people from Portland. Gregon City and Willamette Valley points are looked for.

A dress-parade and review was given in honor of Adjutant-General Pinzer, chief of staff. The regimental band was taken out from Portland for the occasion. The troops appeared to splendid advantage on parade, demonstrating that they are quite as effectively instructed and drilled in ceremonial movements as in field work. A band concert was given last night. A large number of visitors were in camp during the afternoon, fully 200 people soing to camp on the 4,30 P. M. train and remaining unfil the 10 o'clock train.

REAL NEED OF WORLD

Ethical Sermon Based Upon Another Recent Sermon.

PORTLAND, July 12.—(To the Editor.)—I read in The Sunday Oregonian the article under the caption "Salvation Nell" with admiring interest. I have not seen the play under discussion, but believe the ground taken by the writer as regards the enactment of vice upon the stage is correct. While the entire article makes valuable reading, the assertion which ends it enlisted particularly my interest and sanction.

I am far from desiring to "give a sop to emotions," but would echo the crying need mentioned, viz-the need of the world for a religion that is vital, that will in very truth make new creatures of us. tures of us.

"Marvel ye that I have said ye must be born again?" is by no means obsolete in meaning and effect. The need of the world is made up of the need of individuals.

With an eye single to his own sale.

With an eye single to his own salvation, each should understand that in no other way than by dying in the flesh and being born again in the spirit, can he become this new creature; then with a sincerity in which "the eye of God can see no lack," he should take hold of that promise, making it effectual by becoming as the little child without fear and without condemnation.

In so far as all shall come into this interitance to that extent shall the inheritance, to that extent shall the tide of existing misery be checked. Having admitted the lesson learned from "Salvation Nell," let The Oregonian hasten the "conversion of thou-sands" by declaring that through hav-ing paid the price which is just and reasonable, viz, the presenting of the body a living sacrifice, "lo, old things have passed away and all things have become new."

COUNCILMAN BAKER ASKED TO INTRODUCE ORDINANCE.

Scheme of Turning Clocks Ahead One Hour Not Favored by Man Whose Business Is at Night.

A "daylight" ordinance by a man whose business is conducted under cover of darkness may be the next thing in Portland. Councilman Baker, theatrical manager, promises just this sort of combination. While he will not declare himself definitely, he has promised to investigate the proposition during some of his daylight hours, and he may take a notion to assist the National Daylight Association of Cincinnati in its efforts to secure a universal shoving ahead of the standard time five months in the year.

The object of the effort of this or-ganization, as stated in a communication received yesterday by Mr. Baker, is to secure more daylight for the people. Their proposal is "that from and if it is the wish of the administration," ple. Their proposal is "that from and after 2 o'clock on the morning of the first day of May in each year, until 2 o'clock on the morning of the first day of October in each year, the standard time shall be one hour in advance of the standard time now in use. "This, it is stated, is to be accomplished "by advancing the hands of the clock one hour on May 1 and moving them back one hour October 1."

Great things are claimed for humanity by the enthusiastic people back of the movement, among them being better health and more enjoyment for all.

They allege that it is of more importance than the tariff revision proposition or the digging of the Panama Canal, and urge Mr. Baker to do his Canal, and urge Mr. Baker to do his utmost to have an ordinance passed in Portland to advance the time, as stated.

"I have not had time as yet to investigate this matter sufficiently to say whether I will take any stock in it," said Mr. Baker last night. "You see I am opposed to daylight on general principles. Being in a business where darkness is required, I naturally feel a litle backward about advocating more daylight. What would happen to my business if we should do away altogether with darkness? It is a weighty subject, and I can't be quoted too seriously or definitely until I ed too seriously or definitely until I have given more thought to the subject."

Mayor Simon expressed the idea that hayor sinon expressed the idea that the proposition is that of some "crank." He said he would not regard it very highly at first glance. There is, he remarked, no law now against enjoy-ing all the daylight one wishes while It lasts, and he is not particularly im-pressed with the purpose of the new organization, which operates from Cincinnati, where the subject had its birth in America. In some foreign countries it has been tried with great success, Simon Says Police Department Is Harmonious and Chief Cox Sees No Reason for Transfer of Head of Sleuth Bureau.

Mayor Simon announced yesterday afternoon that the administration will continue Captain Baty as head of the detective bureau of the police depart-ment. The decision was reached at a conference held between the Mayor and Chief Cox at the City Hall late in the day, after which it was made public. Baty's request to be transferred to uniform duty will not be granted, as it is the desire of the Mayor and Chief that there be no changes in the force at this everything is working nicely in police circles," said Mayor Simon. "There is no reason for a change in the force at this time, and none has even been contemplated. Captain Baty will be re-tained as chief of detectives, as Chief Cox wishes, and there seems no reason why he should be changed. The department is in good condition. I am highly pleased with the manner in which Chief Cox is doing his work, and I believe the city will get good results from the conduct of the department under his guidance."

There have been rumors from time to time to the effect that the Simon regime would transfer Captain Baty From detective duty to that of a patrol captain, and that Patrol Captain Balley would be shifted to the command of the detective hursay Monday morning. detective bureau. Monday morning Captain Baty expressed to Chief Cox a desire to be changed as stated, but this is now officially denied, and affairs

June 20 last The Oregonian said: "The principle of historical interpretation applies to the Jewish and Christian scriptures the same as to other records; the fundamental principle of all criticism is that every book principle of all criticism is that every book or document is to be interpreted by the conditions of the time that produced it, and so it is to be estimated or judged."

But who is to estimate or judge? Is the work of the fathers of the church to be undone as the work of the fathers of the republic has been undone with the consequence. done as the work of the fathers of the republic has been undone with the 'consequences so forcibly set forth in your leading editorial this morning? Let us look backward. The divinity of Jesus is the central idea of all Christian Instructions. The Catholic Church existed as an organized society having powers from her divine founder to teach all nations, before the scriptures as a whole existed, and before there was question or dispute about any part of the scriptures. Some ten generations of Christians lived and died before that collection of sacred books called the Bible was universally known and received and the Christian writers of the first three centuries were unanimous in accepting Yasutaro Numano, Imperial Japanese a cause had a more patient hearing in the bitterness of unparalleled religious controversy, scholarship has not revealed it. In 1546 Rome spoke with its inherent authority and listed the canonicity of scripture in the Council of Trent, which books, taken together with the cauon on revelation in the Vatican council of 1870, stipulate "no one relying on his own knowledge, shall presume to interpret scripture; in matters of faith and morals relating to the edification of Christian doctrine, distorting the sacred scripture to his own senses contrary to that sense which holy Mother Church—who is to judge of the true sense and interpretation of the Holy Scriptures—hath held and doth hold; or even contrary to the unanimous consent of the fathers without anathema."

But as Mgr. Seton states, a deep and a cause had a more patient hearing in the anathema. But as Mgr. Seton states, a deep and profound knowledge of the scripture is encouraged by the church, nor are Catholic commentators of the Bible restricted to a service repetition of such interpretations as may already have been given; they may differ from the greatest and most orthodox of their predecessors, only they are not at liberty to attach to scripture a meaning in conflict with the unanimous consent of the fathers or a doctrinal decision of the church. "I would not believe the gospel unless on the authority of the church." said St. Augustine, the greatest of the doctors; Catholics believe in the authority of the church, to whom infallibility was promised and given.

The solidarity of religion is completed or destroyed with equal fidelity by the workings of invariable and irresistible law. Amid the din of opposing creeds intellectual protestantism longs for a religion without theology and without authority, a religion, for example, defined by Hunkey. "Reverence and love for the ethical ideal, and the desire to realize that ideal in life." The dead faiths warn us of any such dream. They bear witness to man's need of a rule of faith expounded by a church with divine authority to develop a capacity to know God and to serve him. The dead religions had no spiritual selidarity, Protestantism is crippled by its sessential character. It has no real unity of thought, it will disintegrate by the workings of the same invariable and irresistible law; its germs have entered our divil polity, representative government is no longer venerated, interpreted and executed with the wisdom and leaching of the fathers of the republic; the two great forces that conserve religion, morals and haw are Judaism and Catholicism and the two least understood by persistent sectarian narrowness. Judaism calmiy meets the wild outbursts of the extremist safe with Israel. Its pariotism to country speake through a learned rabbi, Dr. Berkowitz: "The hetty contested social questions and the two least understood by persistent sectarian narrowness.
