Officer Says He Shot Himself While Trying to Kill Man Who Held Him Down.

CAUSE OF SUDDEN ANGER

Nose Partly Artificial and Blow From Adams Disfigured It and Made Him Furious-Suicide Theory Exploded.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., July 13.—(Special.)-'Lientenant Sutton did not try to shoot imself. He shot at a man who was at the back of his neck, holding his head to the ground. This explains the fatal shot and the whole affair, as I believe the new board will agree."

Thin is the version given today by an officer of high rank, who had much to do with the first investigation and who will win the first investigation and who will be an important witness in the coming investigation, to be held on July 19, to determine what caused the death of Lieutenant James Sutton, of the Marine Corps, early on the morning of October 13, 1997, near the officers' camp at the Marine Barracks here. There are many other officers who share in this view, and believe that the first court of inquiry's believe that the first court of inquiry's verdict of "suicide" will be changed to a verdict of "death by accidental shooting."

Aimed at Another, Shot Himself. "I examined Lieutenant Sutton's wounds shortly after the shooting," the officer explained. "Inc next day before we held the court of inquiry, I tried holding the revolver in the position in which Lieutenant Sutton must have held if when the shot was fired. I found it could be fired in that register but that when the shot was fired. I found it could be fired in that position, but that it was not likely that Lieutenant Sutton would have aimed it as he did, had he tried to shoot himself. I am convinced that he believed the shot would lift the man on his back, but in his anger and excitement he aimed at the wrong angle and sent a bullet crashing through his own head. How many members of the first hoard believed this at the time I do not know, but it is cortain that it was far more but it is cortain that it was far more but it is certain that it was far more charitable to Lieutenant Sutton and his family to call it 'suicide' than to bring out all the facts which will develop at the next investigation."

Adams Hit His False Nose.

Link by link important evidence hearing on the case is coming out here. It developed today that Lieuten-ant Sutton had had a painful opera-tion performed on his nose prior to the fatal quarrel and that his nose was built up with parafiles. When was built up with paraffine. When Lieutenant Adams struck him, he is said to have injured Lieutenant Sutton's nose, disfigurifig him and infurlating him beyond control. Officers at the barracks say that Mrs. Mary Sutton Parker told the commandant, Colonel Doyen, that her brother was extremely sensitive about his nose, which had been broken while he was a midship-

"It had almost made a coward of my brother." she is quoted as saying. "Refore it happened he was afraid of

Will Prove He Killed Himself.

From present indications there will be much conflicting testimeny at the new hearing, although officers are unanimous in saying that the vital issue will not be affected and that it will be clear to all that Sutton fired the shot which ended his life. All the officers concerned agreed that Sutton fired the last shot and that Lleutenant Willing took the revolver from him within a few seconds after the shot was fired. In fact, the testimony covering this point coincides with the statements made by all of the officers to the authorities at the barracks immediately after the shooting.

On the other hand, no one appears to know who handed Sergeant DeHart the first revolver. It is not likely that Sergeant DeHart will recollect at the second hearing, as he has been asked a hundred times and each time has said he did not know. About four out of every five per-sons here believe that Lieutenant Sutton fired the shot that killed him. Lieutenant Sutton's friends take his side of the quarrel that led to his death, and do not believe he was murdered. Sutton's Insurnace Involved.

Insurance mer said tonight that Lieutenant Suiton carried $20,000 insurance and that his being officially declared a suicide invalidated the policy.

WILL NOT CHANGE FINDINGS

Navy Officials Think New Inquiry Will Injure Sutton's Memory.

OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU, Washington, D. C., July 13 .- In Navy circles in Washington it is not expected that the board which convenes at Annapolis next Monday to inquire into the death of Lieutenant James N. Sutton will re-port findings materially different from those returned by the original board. Officials of the Navy Department re-frain from publicly discussing the case at this time, but those cognizant of the record and evidence declare that, out of regard for Sutton's family, the never been made public.

Much of the suppressed testimony does not reflect credit upon the dead officer, and places him in a different light from that represented by his other in her many newspaper inter-iews. If the new inquiry is in public, these facts must come out. Navy offi-cials disapprove trying the case in the newspapers, and regret that Mrs. Sutdeemed it wise to pursue this cised by the grand exalted ruler, who suggested that a fund of $216,000 be raised by the order during the next ten-years, by an annual assessment of 5 cents a member, and that a new home be built in some other location from this fund. The consideration of the matter of a sanatorium in connec-tion with the present home was also left without recommendation.

The report states that a memorial to Congress has been prepared asking for the creation of a National Elk pre-serve. The report shows that the last year has been one of unprecedented prosperity for the order. Forty-two new lodges have been established, and the total number of members is now more than 300,000.

The report decries the use of mem-bership in the order for political purposes, and recommends the expulsion of any member so abusing his membership. The exalted ruler points out that several such attempts were prevented during the last Presidential campaign.

ELKS SPEND DAY AT BEACHES

Out-of-Town Delegates Visit Noted California Resorts.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 13.—(Special.) — Today was Santa Monica day with the visiting Elks, and this resort, together with Ocean Park and Venice, were thronged with thousands of visitors. Aside from the members of the grand lodge, very few of the Portland delevation remained to Los Angeles to delegation remained in Los Angeles to learn of the progress of the struggle of the rival forces in the selection of a grand exalted ruler.

Among the callers at the Portland headquarters today and who registered from Portland and Northwestern points were the following: W. B. Ames and wife, formerly of Portland but now of Los Angeles, where Mr. Ames is president of the City and County Bank; Charles W. Ennis, formerly a real estate dealer of Portland; W. B. Stock, once a great Portland fan; P. C. Peterson, of Port Townsend; J. C. Snodgrass

FINGERS CAUGHT IN DOOR

Butter Merchant Loses Digits as Result of Pinching.

His fingers caught by the fall of a heavy iron trap door leading to the basement of the Gerlinger building, corner of Second and Aider streets, yesterday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, Albert Richau, a butter merchant, received injuries so severe that the maimed digits were amputated later. Richau, who lives at 27 Wibers lane, was delivering some of his wares at this building yesterday afternoon, when the accident happened. He tried to let down the door and before he could withdraw his hand his fingers were caught. An ambulance from the Central Stables was summoned and Richau removed to St. Vincent's hospital. Surgeons had to re-move his fingers at the first joint.

What the Press Agents Say.

Marie Doro in Comedy at Bungalow. Marte Dore in Comedy at Bungalow.

The charming and brilliant actress, Marie Doro, and her spiendid supporting company are presenting the delightful comedy, 'The Morais of Marcus,' at the Bungalow Theater, Twelfth and Morrison streets, tonight and temorrow night at S.12 o'clock. This winsome young star is presented by the well-known theatrical manager, Charles Frohman, who has given this, his latest advance to stellar honors, a most magnificent and complete production.

"The Blue Mouse" at Lyric. "The Blue Mouse," which Shuberts' New York company is presenting this week at the Lyric, is a sorrow-slayer pure and simple. There are 200 hearty laughs in it, half a hundred complicated situations that cause merriment. Dainty Elsa Ryan heads the cast and gives a performance that is all that could be desired. "The Blue Mouse" will be at the Lyric all week, with a special matinee Saturday.

NEW MATINEE POLICY AT THE STAR Special Performances to Be Given During July, Beginning Next Week.

Special Performances to Be Given During July, Beginning Next Week.

At the Star Theater the management, beginning with Monday, July 16, will insugarate a system of special matinees. On Monday's the subjects that will be specially introduced will be of a religious or Hiblical character, and those lovers of sacred pletures who are thus inclined will find many pletures strictly of this nature. At the Tuesday matinees, pictures which the public request the management to repeat will be presented. Frequently there are pletures which have made such a hit that many people desire to see them a second time. These great hits will be repeated, every Tuesday afternoon.

Thursday matinees will be deveted to the trying out of those who are ambitious in music to place their talent before the public and those who are so inclined are requested to call at the Star Theater, giving in their names and to attend rohearsals so that whatever talent they may possess can be fittingly shown to the public. Friday matinees will be wint is termed "Up-side-down matinees." Pictures, song slides and music will all be topsy turvy, upside down, and backwards, so as to give the public an idea of what the effect would be if the regular order of nature were reversed. Saturday matinees will be especially devoted to the education and amusement of school children, and subjects that are fitted for this purpose as well as educational in character, will be presented, together with a lecture explaining same.

The management desires the public to distinctly understand that these specialities will be introduced at matinees only, from 2 to 5 on the afternoons named.

AT THE VAUDEVILLE THEATERS.

"Trimmed" at Orpheum. of all the mirth-provoking programmes which go to gladden the hearts of amusoment-loving Portlanders, the bill at the Ornheum this week gets the blue ribbon. This gorgeous array of talent means something, "Trimmed" is the title of a decidedly funnylittle playlet, plentifully interspersed with bright humor and is proving a great feature.

Rapid Change by Actors.

The science or knack of changing clothes quickly is the specialty of Miss Eva Mudge, the headliner at the Grand this week. Miss Mudge can change from one costume to another almost as quick as a flash, the change requiring but a few seconds. The change is made so rapidly that the performer almost meets herself coming back.

Immense Business at Pantages. Twelve hundred people stood outside the Pantages Theater last night waiting to get in for the second performance which commenced at B o'clock. That the Pantages management is putting up a great show, goes without saying, as this week's bill is one of the best ever seen on the Pantages eircuit.

COMING ATTRACTIONS.

"Three Weeks" Next Sunday. The nuch-talked-about play, "Three Weeks," will be the attraction at the Burgalow Theater for one week, beginning next Sunday night, July 18, with a special matinee Saturday. This is a dramatization from the widely-read sensational novel by Piless, Chyn.

BEFUKE HUSBAND

"You Haven't Cared for Me and I Am Tired of Life," She Writes in Note.

FATHER PORTLAND SEXTON

Mrs. J. W. Cook, With Bullet Wound Near Heart, Is in Dying Condition in Omaha Hospital. Husband Pleads in Vain.

OMAHA, Neb., July 13 .- (Special.)-Standing in the yard before her home, while her husband on the sidewalk a few feet away begged her not to take her own life, Mrs. J. W. Cook, formerly of Spokane, shot herself under the heart this morning and is now in a dying condition at Wise Memorial Hospital.

This forenoon she sent her husband to a near-by grocery on an errand. When he returned she was standing in the shadow of the house with a revolver pressed against her bosom. Horrified, Mr. Cook pleaded with her not to pull the trigger, and neighbors who caught a few of the words say that he made most impassioned plea to her, but in a few seconds, whispering "Good-bye," she sped the bullet into her breast. She sank to the ground, mosning, and her husband instantly had her in his arms.

Several letters were lett by Airs. Cook. All were sealed but one which was addressed to her husband, and which read: "You are so tired of me, I hope I am out of your way. I love you, but you haven't cared for me so long I am just tired of life and won't burden you any onger, so good-bye, sweetheart." One of the letters was addressed to E. . Buck, of 736 Tenino avenue, Portland, Or., a relative of Mrs. Cook.

E. C. Buck, of 736 Tenino avenue, whom the letter referred to in the Omaha dispatch was addressed, is the father of Mrs. Cook. He lives alone at 726 Tenino avenue, Woodlawn, and is employed as sexton of Milwaukie Cemetery. He was surprised to learn of his daughter's tragic attempt at suicide, and is at a loss to account for it.

"My daughter has been in perfect health," he said, "and I am sure that domestic affairs were congental. Mr. Buck is 70 years old and came to Portland four years ago from Nebraska, his native state. His agod wife does not like to live in Portland because of her children, and over a year ago she went back to Omaha and has not re-turned since. Buck is a tall, patriarchaioking man, a Union veteran, and is of the old Puritanical type.
