

JEALOUS HUSBAND
LATEST SUSPECT

New Brackett Case Deductions Involve Woman Other Than Mrs. Brown.

MAN MAY BE IN CHICAGO

He Has Not Been Seen Here Since Shooting and Had Made Dire Threats—Wife Lived Near Yamhill-Street Scene.

Another woman, not Mrs. R. M. Brown, another man, neither Main nor Quimby, nor Carlton, by latest deductions, involved in the mysterious shooting of Mrs. Brackett on Yamhill street, between Fourteenth and Fifteenth, last Wednesday night, and today the Chicago police will be asked to question there an insensate jealous husband who is supposed to have left Portland Thursday morning. That he mistook Mrs. Brown, in the company of Brackett, for his wife, fired at the electrical engineer on his way home and fled the next morning, leaving her to wonder who was the man on a date with his wife, is now considered the sanest solution of the shooting mystery. At all events the latest suspect has not been seen since the night of the affair, and, adding color to the newest deductions, the most recent woman in the case lived within a stone's throw of the scene of the shooting.

She has left her lodging-house for other quarters here, thus far not known by the probers, but that she is in Portland is a certainty, anxious inquiries for her for her husband over the telephone being heard daily at the place where she is believed to be. "He has skipped. I don't know where," she is reported as saying to an acquaintance yesterday.

Constant delving failed to bring out one point to disprove the theory that Brackett had been shot by mistake or underestimate the deduction that the jealous Portland husband had fired the shot and fled, believing he was an unwritten law fugitive. His name and the identity of the new woman in the case are withheld pending the result of an investigation at Chicago which will be directed today.

Seen Night of Shooting.

Seen with a companion peering suspiciously into a drugstore near a saloon, where his wife was a frequent patron, the new suspect is said to have shaped his course up Yamhill street between 11 and 12 o'clock the night of the shooting. Two weeks before, outside the saloon his wife was accustomed to visit, the jealous husband struck down the accused of intimacy with his wife. Then and a few days later he threatened the bartender and waiters of the same saloon to shoot them "full of holes" if he found any of them had attempted to make advances to the woman they called "May." Thereafter May was barred from the place, but her husband dropped in frequently and invariably repeated his revolutionary threats.

About two months ago May and her husband lived in an upper block of Yamhill street. When residents there they separated and the wife moved to a lodging-house below, within call of her former home. This place in turn was deserted by the woman, who, upon departing, left her trunk behind, saying she would call for it when she had obtained a position as waitress in a local restaurant. In leaving she said she had hired a room in a downtown building, but this has been proven a subterfuge; the landlady of the house mentioned denying all knowledge of her and scanning of the lodgers failing to bring to light any woman answering the description. On July 1 the man now suspected of shooting Brackett was discharged by the firm by which he had long been employed as foreman. His ugly disposition, causing grudges to be felt among his subalterns, was responsible for his discharge, said his former employer. His penchant for quarreling was noted at many places other than the shop over which he had charge. In several resorts where boxes are provided for women he is known as extremely suspicious and always on the lookout for men with whom he knew his wife was acquainted. If not restrained, say persons acquainted with him, he would see into every box and it was his custom to walk outside to make certain that the women escorted by men did not include his wife.

Men Escorted Woman.

That the woman was accompanied by men other than her husband frequently was vouchsafed by an employe of the saloon near which the suspect fought with a man he thought had paid attentions to his wife. The employe saw the woman and the man who was escorted by her across the street from the saloon the night of the shooting. "I cannot swear he was the man," said he, "but I am morally certain he is the person I saw with another fellow that night. He is a big man, smooth shaven and inclined to be ugly when drinking. I saw him in the saloon only once before, but the day men saw him frequently and we were all inclined to be a little afraid of him on account of his wife. That is why I would not allow her to patronize the place any longer."

ELKS TO COME IN DOZENS THIS WEEK

Delegates to Los Angeles Convention Returning East Through Portland.

SOUTHERN MEN HERE FIRST

Steady Stream of Returning Elks From Convention Will Begin Today and Keep Up Throughout Entire Week.

Those merry folk, the Elks, will rule Portland for their own this week. With the arrival early this morning of three special trains over the Southern Pacific, there will reach the city the vanguard of a vast throng of the antlered herd whose jolly nickname is "the best people on earth" is world-wide in its acceptance, on their way home from the big convention of the Elks' grand lodge at Los Angeles, which ended Saturday night, and who will stop off here awhile to enjoy the hospitality of the city and their Portland brethren.

The first two trains, consisting of two sections of the "Cotton States Special" with 250 Elks aboard from south of the Mason and Dixon line, will pull in at the Union Depot at 8 o'clock, and two hours later, at 9:55 A. M., will arrive a delegation of Milwaukee and Cincinnati Elks, 125 strong, and the Garry Hermann, ex-Mayor of Cincinnati, and defeated candidate at the Los Angeles convention for grand exalted ruler.

Elks Coming by Score.

Still another special is expected later in the day, and by every regular train Elks will drop into town by the score. Many of the Portland delegation are looked for on the two early-morning regular trains, which will arrive later on the Shasta Limited.

City to Be Shown Off.

Observation cars will be waiting at the depot and under the guidance of the committee, the visitors will be taken around the city and shown the sights. This afternoon the visiting Elks will be taken to the Oaks, where the big amusement park will be turned over to them. This evening there will be a reception in their honor at the Elks Temple, at which there will be music and refreshments. The third day of the convention over the Northern Pacific for Seattle after midnight.

Among the Portland Elks to return yesterday was J. J. Jennings. Mr. Jennings was mightily impressed with the convention and with Portland's chances of getting the National Convention here. He was also impressed with the number of Eastern delegates who expressed their intention of coming through Portland and stopping in the city on the return.

10,000 Elks Coming.

Afraid of Ghosts.

Many people are afraid of ghosts. Few people are afraid of germs. Yet the ghost is a fancy and the germ is a fact. If the germ could be magnified to a size equal to its terrors it would appear more terrible than any fire-breathing dragon. Germs can't be avoided. They are in the air we breathe, the water we drink.

The germ can only prosper when the condition of the system gives it free scope to establish itself and develop. When there is a deficiency of vital force, languor, restlessness, a sallow cheek, a hollow eye, when the appetite is poor and the sleep is broken, it is time to guard against the germ.

PARTIAL PARALYSIS

MAY BE ENTIRELY OF A FUNCTIONAL CHARACTER.

It is Not Necessary to Accept it as Hopeless Since There Are Many Well Authenticated Cures.

There is absolutely no way of reaching the nerves with medicine except through the blood. The nerves receive all of their nourishment and support from the blood which, under healthful conditions, carries the elements needed to rebuild wasted nerve tissue.

Let the blood become deranged and deficient in these elements and the nerves will be badly nourished and headaches, neuralgia, sciatica, functional paralysis and a host of other nervous troubles may result.

In severe nervous disorders Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have accomplished many seemingly impossible cures. Such an instance was the cure of Mrs. Elizabeth Stratton, of No. 1136 Dewey avenue, Beloit, Wis. Mrs. Stratton has lived at her present address for the past six years and there is no room for doubt regarding her statement. She says:

"I had been ailing for some time through overwork and worry, when my right side suddenly became partially paralyzed. I could not move for some weeks without taking hold of a chair. My right leg and arm were affected so that I could not use them. My nerves were in a terrible state. I shook all over and was excited by the least little thing. For weeks I could not sleep. My appetite was poor and I was a nervous wreck."

"I doctored with local physicians at Quincy, Ill., who said I had partial paralysis caused by a nervous shock. I did get a little relief from them but it was only temporary. Through a friend I was induced to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. This was after I had been sick for over a year. I was then up and around but could not walk. The pills soon helped me and finally entirely cured me. My daughter also used the pills for a run-down condition of the blood and they helped her at once."

While so promptly effective, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain no harmful stimulants or opiates. They are perfectly safe and create no drug habit. Our booklet, "Nervous Disorders," will be mailed free on request to any address. Send for a copy today.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

BACK HANDS BETRAYED

BOY CONFESSES MURDER AND NAMED ACCOMPLICES.

Chicago Italians Form "Society of Justice" for Robbery of the Rich by Blackmail.

CHICAGO, July 19.—Tony Baffo, an 18-year-old Italian boy, who has been in this country three years, confessed here today to killing Giuseppe Filippelli, a grocer, at the same time naming three of the inner workings of the Black Hand.

The organization to which young Baffo belonged was called the Society of Justice, and its members were named. The murder was committed on April 12. Baffo said:

"I came to this country three years ago and worked as a laborer on a railroad. I met Antonio Nudo, Raffaele Nudo and Pasquale Nudo, Joseph Cara and a man of the name of Ernesto. They wanted me to belong to their gang and they promised to give me a sister of the Nudos to marry. The visit the city during the week. The gang was formed to get money out of people who were supposed to be well off, by sending letters and telling the person to bring the money to a certain place."

"We were laying for Filippelli for three months, but we had no chance to get him, because he always had his wife with him or a baby. His arms were always in his pockets and he carried his money in his pockets. I was killed we waited until he came out of the store carrying the baby."

Pasquale and I walked toward a vacant lot where Filippelli passed. Pasquale hit at him with a club, but missed him. Filippelli turned around and grabbed me and I pulled a revolver and shot two times. The others cut him.

"These men wrote Filippelli letters demanding money, and, because he did not pay it, they were angry."

The police later arrested Antonio Nudo, Ernesto Ferres and Giuseppe Carl, and expect to apprehend others.

TO PROBE BABY'S DEATH

Roseburg Woman Criticised for Failure to Call Assistance.

ROSEBURG, Or., July 19.—(Special.)—Suspicious circumstances attending the birth and death 23 hours afterward of an infant son born to Mrs. Myrtle Young, of this city, Friday morning, led to a subject of official inquiry by a coroner's jury here today.

The coroner's jury brought in a verdict that the child had been injured inflicted unintentionally by the mother, but they also reported that Mrs. Young should have summoned assistance at the time.

Mrs. Young was divorced from William C. Young, who is now in Edmonton, Alberta, Canada, at the October term of the Circuit Court of this county. Her father, Frank Worley is a resident of Perdue, this county, and until recently she has been living there, coming to this city about two weeks ago, since which time she has been employed as a waitress in local restaurants.
