

Klickitat Town Is To Be Model City

Samuel Hill, Son of Railroad King, Establishes Utopia on Banks of Columbia.

SETTLEMENT FOR QUAKERS

Prosperous Easterners Invited to Enjoy Comforts of Maryhill. Founder Has Already Spent $300,000 for Lands.

SEATTLE, Wash., July 19.—(Special.)—Planning an ideal farming community, with all modern urban conveniences, such as daily mail delivery, daily newspapers, telephone, water and sewer system, on a scale never before attempted on the Pacific Coast, Samuel Hill, the famous quaker roads advocate and son-in-law of James J. Hill, has completed the purchase of 800 acres of land in one body on the Spokane, Portland & Seattle Railroad and will colonize the tract with prosperous farmers from the East, drawn largely from the Quakers of Pennsylvania.

The tract cost Mr. Hill more than $300,000 and it lies in a particularly favored spot in Klickitat County, in Eastern Washington. It is to be known as Maryhill, after the daughter of the founder, and the railway station where the traveler alights from his car to reach the tract has already been named Maryhill.

Now, there is a delicious bit of sentiment in the naming of the settlement which Mr. Hill hopes some day will be a pattern and a model to all.

The story is told quickly. "Why Maryhill?" the question might be asked. Well, simply because Mr. Hill's mother-in-law was christened Mary and his wife, the daughter of James J. Hill, was likewise christened Mary and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Hill was named Mary, so all three of the Mary Hills shared in the honor.

Mr. Hill has a number of Eastern investors associated with him in the scheme of improving and planting the 800-acre tract at Maryhill. Small farmers will eventually become the rule, and a hotel, schoolhouse and other improvements have already been provided. A systematic effort will be made to enlist the support of Pennsylvania Quakers in the Maryhill enterprise. Mr. Hill being an old member of that faith.

They were taking a canoe ride from Camas to Vancouver. The steamer Kellogg came down the river, but the young men steered away from it, and the boatmen saw the two and thought that they were clear, when suddenly they seemed to run into an eddy and over went the canoe.

SCIO DRUGGIST IS FINED Sells Liquor on Dentist's Prescription, Which Is Contrary to Law.

ALBANY, Or., July 19.—(Special.)—That liquor cannot be sold upon a dentist's prescription under the terms of the Oregon local option liquor law was the decision of Judge George H. Burnett in the State Circuit Court here this afternoon. He made this ruling in the case of the State of Oregon vs. Edward Peery, and fined the defendant $50.

Peery, who is a Scio druggist, was indicted by the Linn County grand jury last month for violation of the local option liquor law. He admitted selling liquor upon a prescription of Dr. T. K. Sanderson, a Scio dentist, thinking the procedure was legal. The facts in the case were stipulated and submitted to Judge Burnett today, and the court held that a dentist was not a physician under the terms of the local option liquor law, and adjudged Peery guilty. His sentence was made without criminal intent the minimum fine was imposed.

Smith for a continuance of the case against Smith until the October term of court. Smith has been in the hospital for some time and is suffering from acute indigestion and other ailments.

His defense of the charge of holding up a local jewelry store will be insanity. The only witnesses heard today were Dr. F. E. Smith and Dr. Griffith, the latter of the asylum staff, both of whom were called by the state. It is probable that when the trial comes on again Smith's alleged connection with the case will be introduced to show sending of threatening letters to Banker A. Bush.

SUFFRAGISTS? SURE Prominent Club Women Deny Contrary Reports.

TAUGHT BY MISS ANTHONY Mrs. May Wright Sewell Firmly Tells Reporter She Was Reared on Catechism Which Contained Suffrage Article.

SEATTLE, Wash., July 19.—(Special.)—Owing to a report that both Mrs. May Wright Sewell and Mrs. Mary Wood Swift, both high National Council of Women officials, are anti-suffragists, they state positively and unequivocally that they are now and always have been advocates of woman suffrage.

"As to suffrage," said Mrs. Sewell this morning, indignantly, "I was brought up on a catechism that contained a suffrage article prepared by my father when I was a little child. At Miss Susan B. Anthony's invitation, I made my first suffrage speech 21 years ago."

"From that time until the organization of the National and International Councils of Women in 1888, my chief public work was on suffrage. I have always spoken for woman suffrage whenever opportunity offered."

With the idea of joining other women in the uplifting of the world as a whole, and doing many things for the women and children, especially those who must work for a living, the preliminary organization of the Seattle Council of Women was effected at the Plymouth Congregational Church this morning.

The meeting was called to order by Mrs. May Wright Sewell, secretary of the National Council of Women, and was attended by a representative body of women from Seattle, and visiting women from all over the country.

Mrs. W. A. Pitt Trimble was elected permanent chairman of the proposed Seattle Council, with power to organize by such means and such manner as she deemed best for the interest of the council, and with further power to select her own committee.

SURVEYORS HELD TO TRIAL Harriman Crew Accused of Blocking Trails Against Hill Men.

LEWISTON, Idaho, July 19.—United States Commissioner O'Neill this evening held Charles Nash and J. A. Kincaid, O. R. & N. surveyors, for trial by the District Court on a charge of obstructing the trails in the Clearwater National Forest. Bonds were fixed at $500 and $250, respectively, the money being supplied by Attorney Wilson, of the Portland office of the railroad.

The men put up the defense that the trails were built as a part of the railroad survey and not for public use and that they had the right to obstruct them and to prevent their use by rival surveyors of the Northern Pacific.

A question of law was involved regarding the validity of the rule that the trails of the Forestry Department and application will be made at once to Judge Dietrich to reverse the finding of the Commissioner.

DESCHUTES CANAL BREAKS Water for 125,000 Acres of Land Will Be Shut Off for Ten Days.

REND, Or., July 19.—(Special.)—A break occurred at midnight Sunday in the big canal of the Deschutes Irrigation & Power Company, and before the headgate could be closed, 20 feet of fluming was carried away. The damage to the irrigation company will amount to $3000.

A force of men was put to work early this morning to repair the break, but it is feared that water will be shut off for at least ten days and as the farmers are much in need of water these warm days the loss will be extensive to the 125,000 acres supplied by the canal.

The break occurred near the intake on the bank of the Deschutes River.
