

PORTLAND SENDS 6000 TO SEATTLE

Big Crowd Is Surprise to Fair Managers.

BOOSTER BANNERS ATTRACT

Mayor Simon Too Busy Sighting to Make Speech.

FRIENDLY SPIRIT SHOWN

Thousands Pass Through Receiving Line in Oregon Building—Many Portlanders Plan to Remain Over to See More of Fair.

SEATTLE, Wash., July 20.—(Staff Correspondence.)—Portland day at the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition was a marked success, the attendance of fully 6000 people from the Oregon metropolis being a very pleasant surprise to the officials here, who apparently had expected not more than half that many people.

From early this morning until late tonight throngs of persons bearing the banners and wearing Portland booster ribbons and buttons were everywhere in the beautiful grounds, the weather being excellent and everything most auspicious. The efforts of the Commercial Club to get out a large crowd were entirely successful.

Fair People Surprised.

That the officials of the Exposition were greatly surprised at the showing made by Portland was very evident, and from President Childberg down the list they expressed themselves as highly pleased with the day. There being no programme, everyone followed his natural bent, and went where he pleased, the nearest approach to a formal feature being at the Oregon building from 8 to 5 o'clock. At this a large portion of the visitors were present.

Those in Reception Line.

President Childberg, Director-General and Mrs. Nadeau assisted the Oregon Commissioners in the receiving line. Portland women who were also in the line are Mrs. R. Lutke, Mrs. W. J. Hofmann, Mrs. J. Labarr, Miss A. S. Monroe, Mrs. J. C. Hara, Mrs. I. N. Brown, Mrs. W. Wynn Johnson, Mrs. W. H. Wehrung, Mrs. E. W. Rowe and Mrs. M. D. Wisdom. President Wehrung and Vice-President Rowe represented the Commission. Music was furnished during the reception by Portland young women.

Outside the Oregon building throughout the day punch and wafers were served not only to Portland and Oregon people, but to all who wished. The Commissioners having provided an ample supply. Many thousands of people partook of the refreshments.

Mayor Escapes Making Speech.

A good deal of surprise and not a little amusement was created by the fact that Mayor Simon and his party became so interested in sightseeing about the city that neither he nor President Wetherbee of the Portland Commercial Club was present at the reception. The Oregon Commissioners felt half inclined to be a trifle angry at the absence of the distinguished officials, but as it was more or less of a misunderstanding, they were willing to forgive and forget.

As a matter of fact, Mayor Simon never promised to reply to any address of welcome, as he does not like to make public speeches, and he did not know that he was expected to respond to proposed remarks by President Childberg, and therefore spent the day viewing mounted improvements, such as the parks and boulevards, City Hall, garbage crematory and pavements, and did not make his appearance at the Exposition grounds until late in the day. When the Mayor did not appear, the address of welcome was eliminated.

Thousands Attend Reception.

The reception continued nearly two hours, a constant stream of people from Portland passing along the line and meeting the distinguished Exposition officials and hostesses from Oregon. It was quite evident that the Seattleites were much surprised at the thousands who flocked into the building and thronged the grounds, and many expressions of gratitude to Portland people for their interest in the success of the Fair were made by the Exposition officials.

The accident happened when Anderson tried to keep a pig from being blown by the wind. He slipped on the sidewalk and fell against the hook. HEAR SEVERAL WITNESSES

Adams Tells of Attempts Made by Sutton's Family to Get Admissions From Him After First Inquiry.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., July 20.—The proceedings at the discussion of the court of inquiry investigating the death of Lieutenant Sutton, of Portland, Or., took a sensational turn when First Lieutenant William F. Bevan, of the Marine Corps, now attached to the battleship New Jersey, testified. He related his part in the tragedy of October 15, 1907, when Young Sutton met his death.

Bevan was officer of the guard in the marine camp on that night. Like Lieutenant Adams, he testified that Sutton deliberately shot himself, but his description of Sutton's alleged suicide varied from the story told by Adams. The most glaring disagreement with Adams' story came when Bevan swore that he and two other officers were on top of Sutton and trying to hold him down to prevent him from using his revolver, when Sutton fired an arm and fired a bullet into his own brain, after some one remarked that Sutton had killed Lieutenant Roelker.

Sutton on Rampage.

Bevan's testimony also revealed that a situation bordering on a Wild West rampage had existed in the marine camp prior to the shooting, when Sutton had been trying to make Lieutenant Roelker dance by leveling two revolvers at his feet, and afterwards rushed from the camp, disregarding his arrest by the officer of the guard and shouting that he would quit the marine camp for good and all.

Lieutenant Adams, Osterman and Bevan occupied the time today. Lawyer Davis, Mrs. Sutton's counsel, soon completed his cross-examination of Lieutenant Adams, and then Lieutenant Osterman testified. Osterman, as a member of Sutton's automobile party on the night of October 12, corroborated Lieutenant Adams' story, except to add that he believed Sutton was badly intoxicated that night.

Adams Sticks to Story.

Mr. Davis, counsel for Sutton's mother, went over the scene of the shooting again with Lieutenant Adams, and dwelt on the details of distances and time, in an effort to place the exact spot where, and the time at which Sutton was shot.

The witness could only remember approximately these details. He said he was sure Sutton was an overcoat and did not remember Sutton's taking it off any time previous to the first altercation between him and Sutton, when both stripped to the waist preparatory to fighting. The lawyer read excerpts from Lieutenant Adams' testimony at the first trial.

DEADLOCK CAUSES APPEAL TO TAFT

Payne in Minority for Lower Tariff.

ANGRY CLASH IN CONFERENCE

Aldrich and Cannon Take Bill to White House.

LUMBER CAUSES BREACH

Fordney and Aldrich Demand Vote, but Payne Breaks Up Conference in Rage—Insurgent Senators Will Support Taft.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—The tariff bill was today transferred bodily from the Capitol to the White House. Deadlocked because of the attitude of Representative Payne, who apparently has become convinced that he is in the minority, the conferees abandoned the usual afternoon session. Senator Aldrich and Speaker Cannon went to the White House to consult with President Taft, taking the bill with them. What happened between the President and the Senate and House leaders is a sealed book.

When Aldrich and Cannon returned to the Capitol, they minimized differences that had aroused bitterness in the conference room and insisted that nothing unusual had occurred. Aldrich said that tomorrow would find the conference committee again at work, and he expected that by night, when all the conferees were to be entertained by the President at dinner, most of the problems would have been solved.

Clash on Lumber Tariff.

Nevertheless, there has been trouble. Some say that the differences between Aldrich and Payne have taken such form that progress is impossible unless the President has influence enough to compel action. It is not denied that there was a clash yesterday between Representatives Payne and Fordney of Michigan. From a credible source it was learned that a crisis was reached when an effort was made late yesterday to vote on the lumber schedule. Payne protested and argued that such a move would be unfair to the President, as this was one of the subjects practically submitted to him for adjustment, provided he could get votes enough in the two Houses to adopt compromise rates.

"If we cannot agree, let's settle the question by voting," Fordney is reported to have suggested. It is said that Aldrich acquiesced.

Payne Defies Aldrich.

That Payne had little part in selecting the House conferees is well known. Payne made recommendations that were ignored and the Speaker made his own selection. Payne is said to have complained that the conference committee had been "packed" with high protectionists.

When Fordney said, "let's vote," Payne protested with a vehemence that startled his associates. Some one said that the majority should rule. This remark, it is declared, came from one of the Senate conferees, and it incensed Payne still more. Payne told Aldrich that he could vote the Senate members of the conference if he chose, but that he could not vote the House members so easily. Full

CARMEN BILKED BY SMOOTH IMPOSTOR

WEARS REGULATION CAP AND BORROWS FROM MANY.

Stranger at Fifth and Washington "Touches" Crews of All Cars Until Caught Repeating.

Catching them coming and going and keeping all the change is a penchant developed by a man whose name is known only to the Sheriff's office that will get him into trouble when he is located. Wearing a regulation straw streetcar employe's cap with the number 747, this individual stood at Fifth and Washington streets yesterday morning, boarded every car that came along and struck the conductor or motorman for a small loan, ranging from 10 cents to $1.

The impostor was a very busy man for about an hour and a half, trying to get all the cars that stopped there, both on the Fifth-street and Washington-street lines, and is believed to have obtained many dollars. Then he made a slip. He struck the same man twice. "Seems to me you come pretty frequently for 10 cents," said the conductor, who had already given up the small loan requested.

"Excuse me," said the grafter, and forthwith jumped off the car and hurried away.

The conductor called up the Sheriff and Deputy Sheriff Bulger was put on the case. He announces hopes to make an arrest soon.

OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU, Washington, July 20.—In the remarks of Representative Tawney, printed in the Congressional Record this morning, appears this quotation from a letter of Attorney General Wickersham of recent date:

"I have given general instructions in all cases in which Mr. Hency is retained to make careful examination of the cases and, if they cannot be brought to trial within reasonable time with any prospect of success, that the indictments be dismissed, and have caused some indictments to be dismissed under these instructions."

Inquiry at the Department of Justice today brought forth the statement that "Binger Hermann will be brought to trial at Portland early this coming Fall. Mr. Hency will personally conduct the prosecution."

No information was obtainable as to the case of J. N. Williamson or other land fraud defendants yet untried. No specific date has been fixed for beginning the Hermann trial, it is said.

When the above dispatch was read to him last night, United States District Attorney McCourt said he had been instructed by Attorney General Wickersham several months ago to examine all the cases pending here and determine which of these could be brought to trial within a reasonable time. Those that could not be disposed of without considerable delay were to be dismissed. Mr. McCourt said he had acted accordingly. He has investigated every case in his charge and has made recommendations concerning all of them. He was
