LATHAM'S FLIGHT ENDS IN CHANNEL

Falls Two Miles Short of Landing at Dover and Rivaling Bleriot.

MAKES MARVELOUS SPEED

NOTED FLIGHTS IN FRANCE. CHALONS SUR MARNE, July 27. might here tonight of I hour 28 minutes 20 sconds. NANCY, France, July 27 -- Miss Morgan, daughter of J. Pierpont Morgan, of New York, made a 1rtp abourd the dirigible balloon Ville de Nancy.

DOVER, July 27.-Hubert Latham's second attempt to fly across the English Channel, ended disastrously today. Almost in the moment of victory his noplane fluttered down into the sea. two miles beyond the Admiralty Pier. Thousands of persons crowding the water front saw the fall and for nearly half an hour they were uncertain as to flie merchant's fate.

A flock of large and small craft raced to the scene of the disaster and a pinnace from the British battleship Russell picked up the unlucky fiyer and put him on board the French torpedo-boat destroyer Escopette. After a surgeon had attended to his injuries, the destroyer brought Latham ashore and he was taken to a hotel. His face was bandaged and bleeding and his nose was broken. machine, badly wrecked, was holsted from the boat to the dock.

Only 60 Minutes in Air.

Latham's flight to the moment of its sensational finish, in some respects, eclipsed Bleriot's. He made greater speed -being only 29 minutes in the air from the time he left the coast of France. Apparently he steered more nearly straight than Bieriot, as he was making direct for Dover when he fell.

The disastrous ending of the flight furmaked a dramatic scene. Shortly before 6 o'clock the clamor of strens and bells on the ships in the harbor notified the town that another attempt was to be made to cross the channel. In a maryelously short time the waterfront, the piers and the cliffs behind the town were crowded. Thousands gathered many of them carrying felescopes, marine and field glasses and cameras. Soon two French torpedo bosts, which preceded the aeroplane, were seen approaching at a furious pace, thick clouds of smoke puffing from their funnels.

Suddenly Falls in Sea.

Fourteen minutes after 6 o'clock an airship was discerned heading straight for the center of the town. The rapidity of its flight was evidenced by the quickness with which it grow larger and assumed bird-like outlines. Suddenly it began to slacken speed, at the same time gliding down toward the surface of the ocean. It fluttered a few times and

The aeroplane dropped with a lateral incline to the surface. There it floated and those with glasses could make out that it had not sunk. The excitement, while the boats were going to the rescue, intense. Soon a fleet of all kinds of craft gathered around the wreck

Cheered on Going Ashore.

The force with which the aeroplane had fallen caused fears that the aviator might have been killed in the wreck if he had not been drowned, but signals he had not been drowned, but signals from the ships finally told those on shore that Latham had escaped. It was rearly 8 o'clock when the Escopette came alongside the pler to land Latham and his machine, which was seen to be much larger than Bieriot's little flyer. The crowds cheered the bandaged here enthusiastically and he was followed to the hotel by thousands.

Before his attempt to cross the channel, Latham had made several success.

nei, Latham had made several success-ful flights at Mourmelon-Legrand, France, where, on June 6, he made a new monoplane record by remaining in the air 1 hour 7 minutes and 47 seconds.

Latham's Story of Flight.

"It is another cose of real hard luck."

said Mr. Latham, in discussing his falluse. "When I started, everything was ready. The wind was just right, and the for the entertainment. That the President m Ing Dover, and I felt confident of reach.

That the President may not be deprived of his favorite pastime, golf links are becoming triumph thrilled me; I felt victor of a pagoda and bathham.

coming triumph thrilled me; I felt victory was within my grasp.

"The engine was working with rythmical accuracy, a delightful sound to me. I seemed to stand over a moving plateau of hime, but in reality I was traveling at great speed. Almost in a few moments it seemed I could discern the dim dry graund of the Dover cliffs. In ten minutes I must have gone at least eight milles. The coast seemed to rise, to grow miles. The coast seemed to rise, to grow with every pulsation of the motor.

Victory Near, Motor Stops.

"When half way across I felt There is Dover: I am going splendidly." I looked at the motor. All was right. Within 20 minutes, I thought, I shall be on those cliffs. Calais and its great tower were more hazy lines. Dover was growing. I even thought I could see the people. Then within three miles of the coast, I heard the aircus and hooters.

"My heart beat rapidly at the inexpressible feeling of coming victory. I oaked for the moment of descent. Then looked for the moment of descent. Then came the tragedy. I was only a mile and a half from the harbor mouth. A dead silence; the pulsations of the motor appeared to hesitate; they stopped. My speed slackaned, the engine gave sparmodic throbs and then ceased. For these moments I had been gradually descending at 10 feet above the water I critical. At 30 feet above the water I drifted like an injured bird fearing to alight, realizing that I had failed again.

Fare Cut in Descending.

"My thoughts turned to my own safety, and I lay down in order to lighten the force of the blow as much as possible. Away in the distance I ould see the torpedoboats and wor the splash that accompanied my previ-

"The accident was due to the metor failing much as it did on the former occasion. I do not think that the rain had anything to do with the failure. It was very unfortunate, because another couple of minutes would have taken me over Shakespeare Cliff. However, I will have another try as soon as I am fit. I do not think the machine was much damaged; it will be repaired probably before I am."

The physician in attendance reported that Mr. Latham had three stitches in his forehead and two in his nose, but he did not believe the asronaut was greatly hurt. Mr. Latham returned to Calais by the midnight boat.

Islanders Will Test Attitude of Turkey and European Powers at Very Start.

CANHA, Crete, July 21.-The Greek flag CANEA. Crete, July 77.—The Greek flag has been run up at the fortress and the Cretan militia barracks here. As the evacuation of the international troops was completed only yesterday, the Cretans lost no time in testing the disposition of the powers who have promised Turkey that they will protect her rights. The outcome of this assertion of the Cretans' determination to join Greece is awaited with some concerts.

determination to join Greece is awaited with some concern.

After more than 70 years of almost continuous insurrection, Great Britain, Russia, France and Italy intervened in Cretan affairs and in 1898, constituted the Island, with adjacent islets as an autonomous state under a high commissioner of the powers subject to the surerainty of Turkey, but paying, however, no tribute to that country. Since August of 1996, the right of the King of Greece to propose the Commissioner has been recognized by the protecting powers, under whose sancthe protecting powers, under whose sanc-tion Greek officers have taken over the direction of the gendarmerie. In May, 1908, the powers decided to withdraw gradually the international troops from gradually the little was announced. Crete declared for union with Greece and public feeling became intense. Early this morning the diplomatic representatives of the powers at Constantinople presented a note to the Porte in which it was said that the time was inopportune for the Turkish proposale relating to the future of the Island, but as the protecting powers were to station a warship in Suda Bay, the supreme rights of Turkey would not be affected by the withdrawal of the
