BACK TO ASYLUM THAW IS ORDERED

Judge Declares His Release Would Be Dangerous to Public Safety.

STILL HARBORS DELUSIONS

As Much Paranoise as When He Shot White-Evelyn Thaw's Story Wild and Improbable-Thaw's Mother Scores Jerome.

WHITE PLAINS. N. Y. Aug. 12.—
Harry K. Thaw's latest attempt to gain his liberty was defeated today, when Justice Issac N. Mills dismissed the writ of habeas corpus and declared the release of the petitioner would be "dangerous to public peace and safety." An order sending Thaw back to Matteawan will be signed tomorrow.

There is no crumb of comfort for Thaw in the 7800 word opinion handed down by Justice Mills. All the contentions of his old adversary, District Attorney Jerome, are supported, and it is declared that Thaw is still insane, still suffering from persistent delusions, and ettil as much a paranolac as on the day he shot Stan-

Thaw Is Calm, Will Appeal.

Thaw, waiting in the White Plains jail, received the news with an outward calm-ness that appeared more forced than real.

The members of his family and his attorney seemed stunned by the thoroughness of their defeat. Thaw declined to give out any statement, contenting himself with the assertion that he was not disbearened and would at ne was not disheartened and would at once continue his fight for liberty.

"My next efforts," he said, "will be centered on the Court of Appeals, through which I expect to secure a hearing by a tury in my effort to have my commitlury in my effort to have my commit ment to Matteawan set aside."

Appeal Once Denied.

The case before the Court of Appeals to which Thaw referred is one which has been under consideration for some time. It came before Justice Mills last Octo-It came before Justice Mills last Octo-ber, when Thaw applied for an erder setting aside his commitment on the ground that the court which had com-mitted him was without power to issue such an order, as Thaw at that time was such an order, as Thaw at that time was such an order, as Thaw at that time was not on trial on a question of sanity. At the same time he asked to have the question of his mental condition submitted to a jury. When Justice Mills promptly denied this application, the case was carried to the appellate division, which sustained Justice Mills. Thaw's attorney has already made a second appeal and it is upon this appeal that Thaw says his efforts will now be based.

Not Safe to Be at Large.

Justice Mills, in his opinion today reached three formal conclusions.

(i) That Thaw was insane when he killed White; (3) that he has not yet recovered; (3) that public peace and safety would be endangered by setting him at large.

He characterizes Evelyn Thaw's tale of the Madison Square tower room and sim-lar stories about White as "wild and grossly improbable, and evidently to any normal mind grossly exaggerated." He asserts his belief in the testimony of Sissan Morrill regarding Thaw's alleged rveried practices, and points out the atrast between Thaw's chivalrous atsitude as a protector of young American womanhood and his private life.

Horrors of Matteawan. Justice Mills expresses deep sympathy for the prisoner's mother and her expo-sition of the "horrors of Matteawan" on the stand evidently prompted his rec-ommendation that Thaw be allowed greater privileges at that institution. Not the lenst significant sentence in Justice Mills decision, in the opinion of lawyers here, is one which declares that Thaw's "delusions had become fixed and established prior to the time of his marfor the prisoner's mother and Thaw's "delusions had become fixed and established prior to the time of his marriage." It is pointed out that this sentence may prove ground for proceedings by Mrs. Evelyn Thaw for divorce.

Mrs. Mary Copley Thaw tonight made the following statement:

"Let no one imagine for a moment on reading this opinion of Judge Mills that it means a victory for the District Attorney of New York. Every prop was taken from under that arrogant, vindictive persecutor of a sane, acquitted man.

live persecutor of a sane, acquitted man. Meanwhile my son, my daughter and I have no alternative but to take up again the burden I had every reason to believe was behind as forever. strict discipline for them, two pretty young girls, who arrived here last night, were taken back to Portland today to be placed in St. Mary's Convent. The girls are aged about IN and IS years, respectively, and were taken back to the Rose City in the custody of Detective Hawley, of the Boye's and Girls' Aid Society.

At the Waucoma Hotel, where they were apprehended, they were registered under the names of Carmen and Carmel Reeve. The first news that the runaways were in this city was received by Sheriff Morse at a late hour last night, when he was notified from Portland that they were thought to be at Hood River, and had $60 with them. Finding them at the hotel, a search revealed $60 of the money. When notified that they would be detained and returned to Portland they stated, between sobe, that they were three of the strict discipline of the convent and had run away on a little sight-seeing trip. Both the runaways are still in short dresses, and on their promise that they would not leave the hotel they were allowed to remain there until the arrival of the detective this morning. They said that the names under which they registered were assumed, but refused to reveal their identity.

The two young girls brought back by Detective Hawley ran away from their homes in Portland on Wednesday morning. Both live on the East Side. They were traced to Hood River by the parents of one, who asked for the services of a police officer from Chief Cox. The father of one of the girls defrayed the officer's expenses there and return, believing that the moral effect of having the officer bring them home, instead of a relative, would have a lasting effect upon the runaways. Only Stay-at-Homes Belligerent.

"I am satisfied from all I could see and hear and learn that the men who stood upon the firing lines in the Southern Confederacy had had enough of the war and were anxious and willing to support the Government of the United States under its flag, and that, were it not for others who did not participate in that great struggle, but who are still laboring to keep alive the lost cause, there would be no difficulty in cementing the bonds of union between the North and South."

Reports not having been completed, he said, it was impossible to give the numerical strength of the Grand Army on June 30, 1909, but on December 31, 1908, there were 220,618 members in good standing, 8528 having been suspended. During the year 1908, 10,128 members died and the total gains were 21,154, of whom 7434 were new members. He recommended a reduction in the number suspended. "I am satisfied from all I could see
