MOVE IS BEGUN TO DROP COURT PROBE

Legislative Committee Goes Into Executive Session at Olympia.

JORDAN IS PUT ON STAND

Seattle Doctor Appears Very Nervous When Asked About His Connection With Alleged Attempts "Fix" the Court.

OLYMPIA, Wash, Aug. 12-(Special) -Facing a movement, incipient as yet, -Facing a movement, incipient as yet, to bring about its dismissal, the House committee engaged in probing rumors concerning the Supreme Court went into executive seasion tonight to consider the situation, after interrogating very briefly Dr. J. Eugene Jordan, the Scattle physician who has financed a large number of land title lawsoits and whose name has become involved in an alleged attempt improperly to influence court decisions.

the lack of sufficient authority to sum-mon and compel witnesses to testify, lack of funds to employ counsel, the presence on the committee of Reprepresence on the committee of Repre-sentative E. B. Palmer, whose name has become involved in the rumors, and the action of the State Har Association in what the committee looks upon as the casting of discredit upon its work.

Palmer May Drop Out.

All these matters were discussed in exexecutive session tonight. Mr. Faimer was not present, but it is understood that by reason of the implication of him in the rumors now being probed he does not desire to participate in the report of the committee, and that if the committee is centinued he will ask to be relieved. The members of the committee concur in the opinion that this is the proper course for Mr. Paimer to pursue.

C. Will Shafer, secretary of the State Bar Association, was present during a portion of the executive session and was Bar Association, was present during a portion of the executive session and was told by the committee what it thought of the action of the association in ordering disbarment proceedings instituted against Herbert N. De Wolfe, whose charges originally brought about the appointment of the committee. While the Bar Association has ordered disbarment proceedings instituted against De Wolfe, it has deferred action until after the committee completes its work. upletes its work.

This action, according to committee members, makes it difficult to secure the testimony from lawyers who other-wise would be willing to appear.

Jordan Is Very Nervous.

The Halsey committee is required to report to this special session of the Legislature through members of the House who are friendly to the committee. It is likely a resolution will be introduced broadening the scope of the committee's powers and providing for the filing of a report after the adjournment of the present special session if the work of the committee cannot be completed prior thereto.

Dr. Jordan, who appeared before the committee tonight, was plainly nervous and excited. He was given no oppor-tunity to give his version of the story of attempted blackmail told by Don Mor-row on the stand yesterday. Dr. Jor-dan admitted that he had helped finance the quiet title suit of Ramsey vs. Wilson in conjunction with Mrs. Sarah L. Brown. Mrs. Brown, he said, had paid out about $1000 and that he had put in between 25000 and $5000. He kept no record and could not remember the exact amount. The money, he said, was paid over to P. Morrow, the witness denounced yester day by his son, Don, and by Mrs. Brown.

Lose Confidence in Jordan.

Dr. Jordan declared that he had never advised Mrs. Brown to go to E. B. Pal-mer and had never talked to Morrow about going to Palmer's office. Dr. Jordan was asked to identify a signature to a letter and admitted it to be his own. This letter is to P. F. Morrow and asks him to come to his office, as he had something to tell him that could not be conveyed otherwise. Members of the conveyed otherwise. Members of the committee said that the letter was correborative to previous testimony as to conferences over the Ramsey case.

After the meeting one of the committee members expressed a lack of confidence in Dr. Jordan and said that the black-malling story told on the stand yester-day was so plainly concocted that they did not care to hear more about it.

SCHIVELY LOSES BY VOTE

(Continued From First Page.) fore the rolls were called on the quali-fication of the 16 Senators challenged by Schively. Attorney-General Bell replied to Attorney Israel's argument of yester-day, and Mr. Israel closed. The following voted to sustain the challenge as to Chalrman Allen, of the investigating comes his argument of the desired to the Spokane perjury count.

"It is reasonable to suppose," said Mr. Israel, "that exact justice will be meted out to Mr. Schively on this charge in the Superior Court of Spokane County. If found guilty, he will be out of office under the statutes of this state. Why should the state and the defendant be put to the expense of superposition a heat of should the state and the detendant be put to the expense of summoning a host of witnesses from Spokane? Is it fair to John Schively to try him here on this charge, when no matter what your ver-dict be will have to be tried there? In charge, when no matter what your verdict he will have to be tried there? In the interest of justice, fair play and expense, and because no harm can come by its elimination, this article should be held to be redundant and immaterial."

In replying, Representative Edge, of the impeachment managers, argued that rhis trial was not for the purpose of punishing Schively, but in the interests of the state. He pointed out that this charge was not subject to the statute of limitations or the argument that the crime

Assistant Attorney-General Lee also replied to Israel's argument accusing largel of trying to induce the members of the Senate to violate a provision of the constitution on the ground of expense.

the constitution on the ground of experse.

"I am not here pleading solely for the saving of expense," replied Israel.
"Personally I don't care anything about the expense. I am here pleading horse sense. The meaning of the constitution is that if a man is impeached for a lugh crime and the people of the state believe he has not been punished enough, they may then reach out for him and try him some more in the courts. The criminal proceeding was instituted in Spokane before you took it up. Why should you thresh it out ahead of them? Why should you wish to sit as a criminal court, when for two days you have been contending that you were a political court?"

The overruing of this demurrer was followed by the commencement of an argument on the demurrers to the other 35 articles. These have been arranged in about a half dozen groups, and Israel was on the first group when the Senate adjourned until tomorrow.

Israel Takes Up Law Point. In this argument Israel laid great stress on rule 20 adopted by the Senate, which provides that procedure shall be governed by the common law and the stote statutes. On this theory he contended that article i, charging extertion of $200 each from several companies by Schively, not only failed in being specific as required by the criminal statutes, but was without the pale of the statute of limitations, the charge relating to transactions more than one year old. Israel declared that the law permitted Schively to collect from the companies his actual exsituation, after interrogating very briefly Dr. J. Eugene Jordan, the Scattle physician who has financed a large number of land title lawsuits and whose name has become involved in an alleged attempt improperly to influence court decisions.

The movement to dismiss the committee has not yet taken the form of a resolution, but is being discussased by House members. The members of the committee are not yet ready to report and are unanimously in favor of continuing the investigation. There are some matters, however, that are interfering with the committee's deliberations. These are the lack of sufficient authority to sumnon and compel witnesses to testify, ful midsummer entertainment.

The plot of the play departs from conventional lines and unfolds the story of a young bareback rider in a circus which is playing in a small town. The young woman is thrown from her horse and injured, and the village parsonage being the nearest house she is carried there and left under the care of the minister, who have an horse and a factorized. who has as housekeeper and factotum a faithful colored couple.

Upon her recovery she finds that she has been weaned from the charm of the sawdust ring and love has come into the ife of both herself and the minister. The life of both herself and the minister. The latter's congregation being of the extremely orthodox variety, they enter a vigorous protest at her presence in the parsonage, of which she becomes aware, and to spare the man she loves rejoins the circus, which a month later appears again in the village in which she had met with the accident. The manager had with the accident. The manager had with the accident. The manager had upbraided her for her poor work since returning and after he has announced that she will be unable to appear, she rushes into the ring and demands that she be permitted to ride, which he roughly refuses, striking her down. At this climax the minister rushes to her side and the curtain falls on a situation which leaves only the inference that she returns to the parsonage as the minister's wife.

The setting of the last act, showing the dressing-room of the circus and later the ring full of performers, riders, clowns and ring fall of performers, riders, clowns and "real" horses and trained animals is realistic and works up to a dramatic climax that arouses the audience to a maximum degree of enthusiasm. With the exception of Miss Ida St. Leon, who plays the part of the circus rider and who incidentally comes from a circus family that has produced several generations of performers, the cast is not marked with the parts are acceptably. great ability, but the parts are acceptably given. DENVER, Aug. 12.—Within a month a hearing will begin in Senttle, that, Government officials say, will disclose proof of gigantic frauds in connection with coal land in Alaska. This investigation will be followed by similar hearings to be held in a score of cities.

The best coal engineers and lawyers connected with the General Land Office have been assigned to duty in connection with the hearings, and special agents who have been working quietly for months securing evidence will testify.

Dennett Orders Action.

The facts pertaining to the alleged frauds are known to Secretary of the Interior Bailinger and Fred Dennett, Com-missioner of the General Land Office, and they have given the word to their subthey have given the word to their sub-ordinates to proceed against persons re-sponsible for the alleged frauds. Mr. Dennett stopped off in Denver several days ago on his way to the Coast and held a lengthy conference with the chief of the field division of the General Land Office, with headquarters there, when instructions were given as to the method Strong Influence Resisted.

That more than 200,000 acres of rich coal lands in Alaska, some of them having veins 65 feet in thickness, have been filed upon by dummy entrymen procured through agents of large corporations the Land Office has ample evidence to prove, according to information made public tonight. Powerful interests, it is said, have sought to force the Department of the Interior through financial, political and even social pressure to patent these lands, a great deal of which was filed upon more than two years ago. This lands, a great deal of which was filed upon more than two years ago. This pressure was realisted, however, and when Congress passed the law of May. 1908, providing for associations of four or more individuals to take up Alaska lands to the extent of 2560 acres for each combination, the interest back of these dummy entrymen tried to get these Minds through to patent under this law.

Coal Needed for Navy.

Mr. Dennett's view of the matter is that all entries found to be fraudulent, which, he believes, will prove to be at least 15 per cent of the 200,000 acres referred to, should be cancelled at once. The Government's interest lies in the wish to have the great Alaskan coal fields opened to supply coal for the ships of the Navy stationed in the Pacific. It is said that the opening of the Alaskan deposits will give the United States control of commerce of the Pacific Ocean by reason of its ability to obtain fuel from a field almost inexhaustible.

One of the coal companies involved in or a field almost inexhaustible.
One of the coal companies involved in the alleged fraud is located in Seattle, another in New York, and still others in San Francisco, Omaha and Chicago.

Entrymen Mostly Dummies.

The so-called dummy entrymen were recruited principally from the docks of Seattle, the mines of Butte, Mont., and from the laboring classes of Chicago.

In many instances, according to the evidence in the hands of Government inspectors, these men never knew or heard of each other, although they were described in the filing papers as members described in the filing papers as members of a corporation organized for develop-ing sections of the Alaska fields. The evidence also indicates, in many in-stances, that the name of the person estensibly filing upon the land was fictious, and that in many cases the person signing the papers were paid a small sum for doing so and knew nothing whatever of the import of the document to which they were attaching their signa-

The Government officials say that they have traced the authorship of the fraud in several cases directly to paid representatives of corporations involved.

It is hinted that criminal presecutions will be instituted.

MONTAVILLA HOME BURNS Firemen Also Called to Blaze on Eleventh Street.

Two fires occurred in Portland last night. One which was outside the fire limits in Montavilla destroyed a house and its contents valued at $3500. This was at the home of Seth Lind, at 1872 East Madison street. The origin of the blaze is unknown. The family had been using fire in the kitchen stove while troning clothes up to about 9 o'clock. As the first started in the kitchen it is believed that sparks from the stove may have fallen on the floor. The blaze started at 10.15 P. M. and the house was virtually destroyed within a few moments. Only a few of the household goods were saved. None of the occupants was injured.

None of the occupants was injured.

A second fire occurred shortly before midnight in the rooming-house of Mrs. Emily P. McClemens, at 164 and 166 Eleventh street North. The flames were discovered in the second floor and burned through the roof before they could be controlled. The firemen responded to a telephone call and were able to put out the fire in a few moments. The damages will amount to about $300. This is the second fire in this building within three days, starting both times in the same part of the house. The police attach some significance to this fact and will make an investigation. Dr. Wu's retirement from Washington removes a picturesque figure from the capital. Probably no diplomat is better known in the United States than he, for known in the United States than he, for he is a popular talker and his pungent wit and bright sallies have been heard and read with interest at many places. During the Boxer troubles, in 1900, Minister Wu, in connection with Yuan Shai Kat, then Tao Tai of Shanghai, was successful in getting through a message to the American Minister, Mr. Conger, who, with his colleagues, was in the legation compound in Pekin, and whose fate was a matter of great concern to the State Department.

a matter of great concern to the State Department.

An answer from Mr. Conger demonstrated that he had received the message sent by the State Department and that all was well with the legation officials. It is pointed out as a peculiar coincidence that Wu should be recalled at this time, soon after the downfall of Yuan Shai Kai, his friend.

America Saved Life.

Wu's sympathies manifestly were with the United States during the Boxer troubles, and this led to his recall.
