Hops Are Selling Higher in California.

SHOWS MARKET IS SAFE

Their Anxiety Relieved by the Report of a Sale of New Sonomas at 21 Cents-Wheat Market Is Steady.

A report from California of a sale of ner Senoma hops at 21 cents, which is an advance over the last pravious sale, relieved the minds of some hop speculators in this ion of considerable anxiety. There has been such a pause in the upward march of hop prices that they had begun to think that the market was not so strong, after all. Nearly three weeks ago the Oregon market touched 20 cents, and there it stepped. With evidence that the home crop would be larger than anticipated, and with English estimates being raised, a good deal tions are still conflicting. The weather, howmade just before the hot weather set in.

A cable received from London yesterday reported the weather in England showery and crop prospects unchanged.

Conditions in the English hopyards are shown by the following typical reports shown by the following typical reports from the Kentish Observer of August 5:
Ashtord—The hope in this parish have gone from had to worse. The vermin has certainly got less but the repeated winds of last week have about finished them up, and where the wind has not blown the laterals to pisces there is scarcely any burr. From what we hear, many parishes round here are as badly off. Not much mold at present.

burn. From what we hear, many parishes round here are as badly off. Not much mold at present.

Casterbury District—August is no more favorable than was July, and it would seem that the hop cross is doomed. The unwashed plantations are given up as hopelessly game, and those that have been asved from destruction by constant washing are practically at a standstill on account of the miserably dull and cold weather. The burr requires sunshine and warmth to develop it, and unless it has both there can be no hope. Mold is strongly in evidence in places, and sulphuring is useless in such dismal and showery weather. Altogether the outlook is exceedingly gloomy.

Headcorn (Weald)—There is little if any improvement in the hops in this district. Where washing has not been kept up, the hillight has got the upper hand and will make the crop not worth picking. Some gardens have aiready been abandoned.

Maidstone and District—There is no improvement to report on the week. It is impossible to get sid of the vermin even with continual washing, and the ungenial washing reveats the burr from developing properly, while it encourages mold. It is certain that nothing like an average crop can be grown in this part of Mid-Kent.

Tenterden (Weald)—The bine has grown to some extent, but vermin are still very recoblessome and washing is still being carried on. The unwashed gardens will be a complete failure. Vermin still come, and mold has been seen here and there.

Wye and Boughton aluph—The hops keep improving where well washed and where they did not get the full force of the half tour. In the latter part of Boughton Aluph, the hops were cut to please very much.
