tonight. Detective-Sergeant B. F. Smith, who has been connected with the plain-clothes staff of the police for a long time, will be transferred to uniform duty. His place among the detectives will be taken by Sergeant D. Endicott, who has hitherto been stationed on the East Side on the first night relief under Captain Moore. Sergeant Smith will be assigned to the place vacated by Sergeant Endicott.

The transfer has been made principally on account of the desire expressed by Sergeant Smith to go back to patrol. The announcement that his position in the secret service branch of the department will be filled by Sergeant Endicott has caused great surprise in police circles. Sergeant Endicott has been in the department for many years, serving as patrolman and later as sergeant. He has long had the reputation of being an energetic worker. A few weeks ago he was removed from supervision over the pawnshops for a reason unexplained by the department head, and since that time rumor has intimated that Smith was dissatisfied with his position.

The names of the two boys accused of robbing $5000 from the Santa Clara Valley Bank a week ago are Leo Nevins and Frank Smith. Both are from Seattle. Nevins said he lived at 212 Sixth street and Smith on Broadway. Nevins is said to have a brother-in-law in Seattle named Sullivan, who is owner of a large shingle mill.

These facts were brought out at this afternoon's session of the juvenile court when the two boys, who had previously given their names as Joe Willits and Fred Carr, were examined as to their names before the preliminary examination before Justice of the Peace Thompson on last Saturday that they were under 18 years of age.

District Attorney says he has positive proof from Nevins' mother that the boy is 20 years old. So far little has been learned of Smith. The case was continued until next Friday.

BALLINGER IS BUSY

Unable to Attend Conservation Congress in Seattle.

PINCHOT ON PROGRAMME

John Barrett, Director of Bureau of American Republics, Among List of Speakers—Governor Pardee Expected to Attend Session.

SEATTLE, Aug. 20.—That R. A. Ballinger, Secretary of the Interior, may not be present at the National Conservation Congress, which convenes here next Thursday, became known tonight when the official programme for the congress was given out, with the name of Secretary Ballinger omitted. Officers of the Washington Conservation Association who are engineering the congress admit that there is little probability of Secretary Ballinger appearing.

Immediately before leaving Seattle for Spokane, where he spoke before the National Irrigation Congress, Secretary Ballinger notified the officers of the Conservation Congress that he would not return to Seattle in time to participate in the congress. The officers of the association kept this quiet, hoping that he would change his mind before he left. He has been received from Mr. Ballinger, but his friends have said that they felt sure he would be on hand.

Having heard nothing from Secretary Ballinger, the executive board today drew up the programme for the congress, omitting his name.

Chief Forester Pinchot is down on the programme for the congress, and is expected to speak before the National Conservation Congress, which convenes here next Thursday. He is expected to speak before the National Conservation Congress, which convenes here next Thursday.

MRS. MAUDE JOHNSON TELLS LIFE HISTORY.

Declares Her Many Damage Suits Have Been Bona Fide—Sprains Her Ankle in Jail.

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 20.—(Special.)—One of the few survivors of the Valencia steamship disaster, nose broken, ribs fractured, teeth knocked out, ankle broken, back sprained, chest crushed, arm broken, nervous system shattered, right eye badly damaged, ankle sprained and now suffering a fibroid tumor, Mrs. Maude Johnson, who was brought here yesterday from Oakland, charged with being queen of damage suit fakers, declares her claims have been bona fide and that her total collections through personal injury suits have been but $2375.

From the occasion in early girlhood, when she fell from a wagon and broke her nose, until she wrenched her ankle badly in the County Jail two hours after reaching Seattle, she claims her career has been characterized by accident and damage suits.

Mrs. Johnson is charged with having mulcted the Seattle Electric Company $2500 by simulating a fall from a streetcar and falsely representing that she was injured. After effecting the cash settlement for this accident she started for Portland. Several months ago, while on her way to Yacont she lost some teeth and sprained her ankle. She secured a settlement from the railroad for $2500. In more than a dozen accidents in Missouri and Coast cities where she has operated she is alleged to have collected many thousands dollars through bogus damage claims.

ANXIOUS TO TELL ALL

CLERK TIRED OF BEING "GOAT" IN HEINZE SWINDLE.

Birmingham Says He Only Obedyed Orders of Superiors—Clark Is ex-Convict.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—Sterling Birmingham, the dismissed loan clerk of the Windsor Trust Company, said today through his counsel, that he was "forced of being made the goat."

It would give him the chance to show that throughout his connection with the loan of $50,000 to M. M. Joyce, a broker for F. A. Heinze, he had acted under orders from his superiors.

Birmingham was arraigned in Police Court today, charged with a misdemeanor in accepting $250 as a fee for his services in pushing the loan through. Three other men who are under indictment appeared before Judge Mulqueen today—Charles Katz, president of the Eastern Brewing Company; A. D. S. Adams, of Boston, and Walter L. Clark, a note broker.

In Clark's case the records of the Court of General Sessions, which show that he has been previously indicted for forgery and has "done time" in Elmira, were produced before the grand jury. The present attitude of the District Attorney's office is that nothing criminal has been proved against the trust company or its officers.

CHILD LABOR TO COME UP

When Congress reassembles in December a report will be submitted on the investigations made during the past year by the Department of Commerce and Labor into the employment of women and children in factories and in other lines of industry in the United States. The findings of the department will undoubtedly lead to the introduction of all manner of bills affecting child labor, and these bills will probably go to the committee on labor.

So strong will be the demand for legislation that this committee will be compelled to go to the bottom of the subject to determine whether or not the Federal Government by law can undertake to regulate the employment of children and women in various industrial pursuits. This is a difficult problem, and it is held that the government has the authority to act, it must then be determined how best the desired results can be attained. As a member of the labor committee, Mr. Hawley is being compelled to devote much time and study to the child-labor problem, as well as to all other legislation proposed in the interest of the laboring classes of the United States.

ABLE TO BE ROSY

Oregon Man to Be on Three Important Committees.

GOOD PLACES GIVEN HIM

Appalachian Forest Reserve Measure and Child Labor Question Among Important Legislation He Will Have Hand In.

OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU, Washington, Aug. 20.—As a member of three active committees—agriculture, claims and labor—Representative Hawley will have his hands full during the two regular sessions of the 61st Congress. And it was largely because he devotes himself diligently to his committee work that he was placed on these three committees.

The committee on agriculture, in addition to framing the agricultural appropriation bill, will again be called upon to wrestle with the Appalachian forest reserve bill, one of the most troublesome pieces of legislation coming over from the last Congress. This starting as a simple measure providing for the purchase by the Government of the Appalachian watershed, has been enlarged from time to time until today it is a measure which might better be termed a bill to create forest reserves in all states of the Union. That, in effect, is what it is.

Appalachian Bill Left. In the last Congress the committee on agriculture, after many hearings and much deliberation, made a divided report on this bill. It was a bill containing the expenditure of billions upon billions of dollars out of the Federal Treasury for the purchase and reforestation of lands in practically every state from Maine to California. Many men previously in favor of creation of the Appalachian forest reserve were turned against the measure. Other members of the committee have always opposed the creation of such a reserve by the Federal Government, maintaining that the several states traversed by the Appalachian range should buy up and control such lands as might be needed for forestry use, and for the conservation of water supply.

Committee Has Its Own Ideas. The committee on agriculture, as now constituted, will not report such a bill as is asked for by the Forest Service. It will not adopt the policy of appropriating unlimited money to buy up all over the country forest lands, or what once were forest lands, and placing such vast areas under the control and administration of the Forest Service. If anything is done, the committee will report a bill for the creation, by Federal funds, of forest reserves in the Appalachian and White Mountains, but any such reserves will be of modest proportions, and stipulation will be made that the prices shall not be paid for lands acquired by the Government.

On this bill Mr. Hawley has always maintained a conservative attitude, and it was because of his conservatism and because of his antagonism to radical legislation that the Speaker insisted upon his remaining on the committee on agriculture.

Civil War Claim May Come. Unless the demand for economy prevents the passage of an omnibus bill, Mr. Hawley, as a member of the claims committee, will be in a position to have Oregon's Civil War claim incorporated in the general omnibus bill. The only means by which this claim can be paid. A separate bill authorizing the payment of the claim cannot pass Congress, though it is framed to introduce individual bills authorizing the payment of such claims. The omnibus bill is in reality a consolidation of these individual measures. Without the individual bills the claims committee has no basis for action. That was the object of the bill introduced by Mr. Hawley at the last session. He never anticipated that it would pass as a separate measure, but merely intended to whip into shape the provision which he hopes later to have incorporated in the omnibus bill.

Child Labor to Come Up. When Congress reassembles in December a report will be submitted on the investigations made during the past year by the Department of Commerce and Labor into the employment of women and children in factories and in other lines of industry in the United States. The findings of the department will undoubtedly lead to the introduction of all manner of bills affecting child labor, and these bills will probably go to the committee on labor.
