ROAD IN POOR CONDITION.—The next meeting of the Mount Tabor Improvement Association will be held September 6, at the residence of D. D. Flickenger, East Seventy-first and East Yamhill streets. The most important matters to be discussed will relate to the condition of the Base Line road. People along the road declare it has been in shameful condition since April when it was plowed up and left thus by the contractor for several months. This condition of the road resulted in all the traffic being diverted to the Sandy Road a mile distant. A time limit has been set recently for the completion of the road within 90 days, but it is feared that this will not be done and as a consequence the road will be left impassible all Winter. Another important matter to be considered at the next meeting will be the erection of a fire engine-house at East Stark street and Central avenue. The ground for this structure was purchased in May but the work has been delayed. The sewer question will also be taken up, particularly the matter of laterals north from Belmont street into the proposed new sewer in Sullivan's Gulch. At present the laterals run south into the Brooklyn sewer.

G. L. HUTCHIN GOES NORTH.—George L. Hutchin, manager of the Rose Festival Association, and Mrs. Hutchin will leave for Seattle this morning for a short vacation trip of three or four days. While in Seattle Mr. Hutchin will visit the Exposition officials and friends. He will return to Portland in time to attend the meeting of members of the Festival Association a week from tomorrow night, in the association's offices in the Swetland building. At this meeting officers will be elected for the coming year, and plans made for next year's Rose Show. The 1908 Festival resulted in bringing thousands of tourists to the city, and next year it is planned to make it bigger than ever.

DR. W. T. ESUTER IS ILL.—Dr. W. T. Euster, pastor of the Sunnyside Methodist Church, is ill at his home, at 186 East Thirty-fifth street. A few years ago Dr. Euster was taken ill with ptomaine poisoning, stomach weakness resulting. Two weeks ago Dr. Euster became ill, but recovering slightly continued his pastoral work, preaching a week ago yesterday. Last Wednesday he became so ill it was necessary to summon a physician, and the pastor has been confined to his bed ever since. He was resting easier yesterday. Ernest Smith, first vice-president of Portland district, Epworth League, preached at Sunnyside Church yesterday in Dr. Euster's place.

TELLS NEEDS OF COOS BAY.—"The Government records show that the commerce of Coos Bay during the last year approximated $12,000,000," said Walter Lyon, secretary of the Marshfield Chamber of Commerce, at the Imperial, last night. "When it is considered that we are 75 miles from railroad connections and that our section of the state is only sparsely settled, we think this is a good showing. Our people are demanding a railroad and we are in earnest. What we need is a railroad for the development of that section of the state and its many resources."

SUBSTATION TO BE MOVED.—Postmaster Young expects this week to accomplish the removal of Postal Substation No. 3 from the Chamber of Commerce building into its new quarters in the C. K. Henry building, Fourth and Oak streets. New furniture has been provided for this substation and the fixtures probably will be installed today. One of the advantages claimed for the new location is better light and ventilation.

ALDER-STREET EXTENSION UP. — The street committee of the City Council will meet Friday afternoon to consider the advisability of extending Alder street from Nineteenth to Washington. The extension of this street will necessitate the removal of several buildings and the condemnation of valuable property. At the meeting Friday remonstrances will be considered.

RETURNS FROM CONVENTION. — Roger Sinnott, who represented the Oregon Knights of Columbus at the annual convention in Mobile, Ala., returned to Portland last week. Mr. Sinnott reports a very successful convention and says that the delegates were much impressed by the hospitality of the people of Mobile.

WILL CONSIDER PARK TRACTS.—The Park Board will meet Friday morning to discuss the park situation and to take up the matter of buying new park property. Among the tracts which will be bought soon are the Hazel Fern and Mount Tabor acreage.

JAIL QUESTION TO COME UP.—The matter of consolidating the City Jail and the county building will be taken up and perhaps definitely decided when the City Council committee on health and police meets next Friday morning.

OFFICE LOCATION, when properly made, is unquestionably an asset. Why not start right by renting suite of rooms in the Oregonian Building, right in the logical business center of the city. Call at Room 201.

WILL TAKE UP CREMATORY BIDS.—The City Board of Health will meet Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock, to take up bids for the building of the new garbage crematory.

"LEFFERTS" pure gold seamless wedding rings, all sizes; engraving free; price, $5 to $12. 272 Washington street.

NOT BEESWAX IN NEHALEM

Challenge From Company, Which Maintains It Is Ozocerite.

PORTLAND, Aug. 29.—(To the Editor.)—In the issue of The Oregonian Sunday, August 22, was published an interview from S. G. Reed, in which Mr. Reed furnished an expert opinion from some chemist in New York, stating that the samples of Nehalem wax sent him by Mr. Reed (which were furnished Mr. Reed by myself) were not the product of hydrocarbon oil, but beeswax. Since the publication of that article a great many prominent business men have been asking why Mr. Reed should have been so anxious to give publicity to the article. That is the very thing this office should be glad to know. Mr. Reed is the president of the German-American Bank, and should be a booster instead of a knocker in the development of Oregon resources.

The Necarney City Hydrocarbon Oil Company is not "hawking" stock in order to get money to put down our well. The machinery and entire outfit has been purchased and ready to ship to Nehalem for three weeks. We are only awaiting the pleasure of the transportation company to begin and prosecute our enterprise to a successful termination. The president and manager of this company called on Mr. Reed immediately after the publication of the article, and proposed to Mr. Reed that we would deposit $1000 with the Smithsonian Institute at Washington, D. C., that the Nehalem wax was not beeswax, but mineral wax, against $1000 of his New York friend's money that it was beeswax. Whenever we are advised that his friend is willing to back his assertion with the $1000 our check for a like amount will be forthcoming. Our every step in this matter has been taken with the utmost caution, and after the most thorough analytical tests as we cannot afford to be fooled ourselves, much less can we afford to fool our friends. We take pride in being promoters of legitimate enterprises, and thoroughly detest all fake schemes. Following is the expert opinion from the Portland Analytical Laboratory:

The crude sample is bituminous sandstone, and would not in itself be of any commercial value, due to the small percentage of bitumen present. We wish here to emphasize the fact that bitumen is a constituent of oil, and could in no way be derived from beeswax. The refined sample which is without sand has a paraffine base, and is probably a product of concentration of the same oil seepage which made the bituminous sandstone. There are several hydrocarbon compounds which are separately named by reason of their containing varying per centages of carbon and hydrogen. Consequently, in the absence of a quantitative analysis of the compound, it would be impossible to assign and name with any degree of accuracy. The substance, from our experience with like compounds, would suggest to us ozocerite. There is no question, therefore, that both of these substances are the residual compounds resulting from different degrees of distillation and adulteration by nature of an oil seepage.

This opinion is sustained by every test that has been made by the Smithsonian Institute at Washington.

J. J. WALTER,
President Necarney City Hydrocarbon Oil Company.

BABE-MURDER IS DENIED

MOTHER STATES INFANT DIED SOON AFTER BIRTH.

Mrs. K. Phillips, Accused by Sister-in-Law, States Dr. Parker Knows Circumstances.

Mrs. Mary K. Phillips, of 595 Main street, accused by her sister-in-law, Mrs. Denya Venberg, of Montavilla, of murdering her 5-months-old baby, several years ago, made a statement yesterday, which, if substantiated by her physician, Dr. H. T. Parker, will completely vindicate her of the serious charge.

Mrs. Venberg stated last week that Mrs. Phillips became enraged at her baby and after beating it into insensibility tore one of the little feet off and, throwing it into a stove, placed a pot of coffee over the flames, drinking the beverage later.

Because of the circulation of this story, Mrs. Phillips and her sister, Mrs. R. Berg, living near the Venbergs in Montavilla, called on Mrs. Venberg last Thursday and asked for an explanation. According to Mrs. Phillips, Mrs. Venberg and her 18-year-old daughter, Alma, then beat her. The arrest of Mrs. Venberg and her daughter followed.

"Dr. Parker will testify that my baby never lived after its birth. The story told is a great injustice to me. It is horrible. People who are acquainted with me know I could never be guilty of anything of the kind," said Mrs. Phillips.

Mrs. Phillips was born in Germany. She has lived in Portland 20 years and is known as a hard-working woman. She has amassed some money and is the owner of considerable real estate.

She states she visited Germany two years ago and provided the Venbergs with funds to come to America and built them a house in Montavilla. She states she incurred the enmity of the Venbergs by refusing to build them a home in the city.

The assault charge, on which Mrs. Phillips caused the arrest of Mrs. Venberg and daughter, will be pushed by private prosecution. The case was to have been called Saturday in the Justice Court, but was postponed, owing to the absence of the defendants, who were released on their own recognizance. Constable Gardner informed them yesterday they will be jailed unless they appeaer in court this afternoon.

Dr. Parker, upon whom Mrs. Phillips relies to clear her of the serious charge, is out of the city and will not return until next Wednesday, when he will be questioned by the authorities.

Jennie Mayo, May 12.
Alfred Swanson, May 8.
D. M. Lindsay, May 2.
Gladeo C. Jacobson, May 2.
Christina Engraf, April 25.

In addition to the above, the bodies of four unidentified men were recovered. Four of the victims were girls. The unknown are believed to have been suicides.

Aroused by the numerous river tragedies of the present season, caused principally by promiscuous bathing in the Willamette, due to the abandonment of the free public baths, agitation is again under way for the re-establishment of public baths to be maintained under the direction of the city next season. Mayor Simon, prompted by recent fatalities, has already taken steps to provide public baths next Summer. He said, yesterday:

"I am in favor of free public baths and have considered the subject. I expect to have the baths re-established next Summer provided a practicable location can be obtained."

Since April 1 this year, less than five months, 24 persons were drowned in Portland. Of this number one was drowned in the Columbia Slough and another in Hawthorne Park Lake. Of the total no less than 10 boys and girls would have been saved had the public baths been in operation.

Two of the latest river victims were drowned through the use of patented water wings. In the public baths wearing of such apparatus was prohibited and instructors were provided to teach novices how to swim.

"During the six years the public baths were conducted not one person was drowned while in bathing," said Edward Holman, last night. Mr. Holman, with L. Samuels, an insurance man, fathered the public baths and conducted them by public subscription and by funds provided by him and Mr. Samuels for five years.

The baths were turned over to the city for one season and were abandoned in Mayor Lane's regime.

"I think the baths ought to be operated again," said Mr. Holman. "It is not humane, it is not right for this wholesale drowning of the young of the city to be allowed to proceed."

The death by drowning of Miss Mattie E. Schuyler, a Sellwood girl, last Thursday, off Sellwood on the Fulton Park side of the river is, according to Mr. Holman, an irrefutable argument in favor of public baths. Miss Schuyler wore patent water wings, drowning when they became disarranged.

The death of Joseph Ward, a 15-year-old boy, last Saturday, who likewise wore water wings, is also evidence in favor of the public baths, declares Mr. Holman.

"The Ranch King" at Lyric Theater

OF THE cowpuncher drama there seems to be no end and the public seems never to grow tired of the gun-play show. The newest endeavor in this direction is "The Ranch King," a composite of most all recent Western dramas with a trifle more of the melodrama element added for the benefit of Lyric audiences. The locale is Colorado in the cattle country and the plot is the conventional story of stolen child, poker game on which all is staked, valiant and straight-shooting hero who talks in a Dusty Farnum drawl, wronged wife and all that sort of thing, don't you know.

The Athon stock is really the best company the Lyric has ever offered its patrons and the work of several of the principals stamps them as actors of considerable ability. Mr. Athon himself gives a capable performance as the likable cattle king who proves to be the protecting genius of all persecuted innocence and the avenger of all wrongs. He plays the part with some degree of realism although the lines and situations are obviously not probable.

Ralph Bell plays the sentimental young cowboy in a highly satisfactory manner and Percy Kilbride, who plays the negro servant, proves to be one of the most capable members of the cast. He is a rattling good blackface comedian. Jack Bennett makes the Irish saloon-keeper amusing and Sidney Payne is sufficiently villainous as the bad, bad villain. Alice Condon gives a good account of herself as the wronged wife, while Priscilla Knowles is entirely out of her element as the soubrette, a "M'liss" type. The stage is properly set.

Rosebrook Band Gives Final Park Concert

THE largest crowd that has so far attended this season was present yesterday afternon at the 22d and closing concert given by Rosebrok and his band at the City Park. Ten numbers were played and each was received with prolonged applause. The listeners knew the music was worth their approval and, besides, there will not be any more park band music, at least until the Summer of 1910.

The feature of the first part of yesterday's musical programme was the rendition of the Schubert overture to "Rosamunde," and Liszt's "Second Hungarian Rhapsody," with a finely-played flute cadenza by Millard. Weber's "Invitation to the Dance," received the requisite swing and dash, and was as alluring as ever. Naturally, the wood wind pleased immensely in the "Intermezzo" from Mascagni's "Cavalleria Rusticana," and the crowd was so charmed that a repetition would have been demanded had time permitted. Variations on "My Old Kentucky Home" were notable from an excellently played cornet solo by David C. Rosebrook, and the tuba work of Ferrella. The latter's playing is uniform throughout, and is nearly of pipe-organ quality, deep and sonorous. Excerpts from Herbert's "Serenade," followed by a stirring rendition of "The Star-Spangled Banner" closed the concert.

The concerts just concluded have given every satisfaction, and Rosebrook and his band have been showered with compliments. One of the surprises of the concerts was the unusually good cornet playing of Mr. Rosebrook. Several of the musicians express disappointment that the original appropriation by the Park Board was cut from $4500 to $3300, and say that had they known in advance that the concerts were to be managed on this financial basis, they would have secured better paying musical engagements elsewhere last Spring.

LAD CHOIR SINGER A HERO

George Melton, 12 Years Old, Plunging From Rowboat, Dives Repeatedly to Save Drowning Boy.

TWELVE-YEAR-OLD George Melton, one of the boy singers in the vested choir of Trinity Church, was the hero of the tragedy in which Joseph Ward lost his life by drowning at Ross Island, Saturday, when waterwings he wore slipped from his shoulders and let him sink in deep water.

The story of the youngster's heroic efforts to rescue the older boy when he sank off shore was told yesterday by Wilfrid Mossman, of this city, who had taken George boatriding and stopped with him at the Island to have a swim.

Young Ward was paddling about on his waterwings 100 yards from shore, when George saw him sink and heard him gurgle in the water and try to call for help. Without a second's hesitation the little fellow jumped into the river and swam to the spot where Ward had disappeared from sight. Though the water there was many feet over his head, he dived repeatedly in the effort to find the body and bring it to the surface. His heroic efforts were without avail, for the current had caused Ward's body to drift further out toward the main channel. Young Melton, however, would not desist from his attempts until he was almost exhausted.

Mossman and August Fry, of 248 North Twentieth street, who is a man of 40 years and not a 15-year-old boy, as reported, jumped into Mossman's boat and hurriedly rowed out to the place. They were unable to recover the corpse, however, and went to the Willamette Motorboat Club, across the river, for help. Several motorboats responded. Not until Diver Hugh Brady was called was the body recovered.

LIFE DULL WITHOUT SENSATION

One of the greatest sensations ever seen in Portland is that performed by Desperado this week at The Oaks.

He goes to the top of a high tower erected on the grounds, and from that dizzy height plunges headlong, striking an inclined chute and dashes over a curve that lands him on his feet.

On his first appearance yesterday the great crowd cheered him to the echo, well satisfied that he performs one of the greatest acts of the present day.

This act was especially imported from Europe and Desperado's appearance at The Oaks is his second in this country. Desperado is the highest-priced specialty now presented in this country.

The Oaks has become the most popular resort in the city, and there is good reason for it. In the first place it is superlatively a beautful park—great oaks, choicest flowers, well-kept grounds, picturesque views of the river; and in these attractive surroundings there are assembled every form of amusement and recreation.

One of the best bands in the country—Donatelli's Italian Band—gives concerts afternoons and evenings, and during intermissons the celebrated Tyrolean quartet sing and dance according to the custom in their own country in the Alps.

Sig. A. Dumond, a noted European tenor, renders operatic numbers accompanied by the band.

Take cars at Third and Yamhill on the West Side and East Morrison and East Water on the East Side. Five-cent fares from any part of the city.

A New Departure

The cost of interments have been greatly reduced by the Holman Undertaking Company.

Heretofore it has been the custom of funeral directors to make charges for all incidentals connected with a funeral. The Edward Holman Undertaking Company, the leading funeral directors of Portland, have departed from that custom. When casket is furnished by us we make no extra charges for embalming, hearse to cemetery, outside box or any services that may be required of us, except clothing, cemetery and carriages, thus effecting a saving of $25 to $75 on each funeral.
