POLITICAL ANARCHY EXISTS

Parties in Middle West Said to Be Broken Up and Speaker Pleads That His State Be Not Saddled With a Similar Statute.

ALBANY, N. Y. Aug. 30.—"Direct nominations as we have seen them make the greatest gold brick that was even handed to a confiding people," was the declaration Pere today of Robert J. Consilin, assembly man of New York City, a member of the special legislative committee appointed to investigate direct primaries.

"The people of New York State," he said, "have no idea of the political an-archy that exists in the Middle Western states. Direct nominations have driven parties entirely out of existence in many unities.

"In Wisconsin there is no longer a Re-publican party and a Democratic party. There are several factions, the most prominent of which are the stalwarts prominent of which are the stalwarts and the half-breeds. The latter are the followers of La Follette and the former are his opponents. Those who were at one time Democrats have disappeared and have gone into the Republican party, so-called, to vote at the primaries. There are no longer party principles, but only personal views of faction leaders.

To some extent this same state of affairs exists in Iowa and Kansas.

"Time and again we met with the expression from the biggest men in the cities we visited: 'For God's sake don't inflict this iniquity on the State of New

Day at Exposition Is Observed in . Elaborate Style.

SEATTLE. Wash., Aug. 20.—Norway's day at the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition was celebrated by an elaborate historic pageant, speeches and music and the unveiling of a bronze music and the unveiling of a bronze bust of Edward Grieg, the composer. The exercises began with the arrival of a viking ship, which, rowed across Lake Washington by 40 carsmen in viking dress, bore Lief Erickson, the sea king, his queen and her attendants. The ship, 60 feet long, is an exact replica of one in the royal museum in Christiana.

As the ship's dragon prow neared the Exposition shore, a scalld on board sang an ancient ballad. St. Olaf's college band, of Northfield, Minn., played a welcoming air. The vikings landed and took part in a parade representing nine periods in Norwegian history.

The Pacific Coast Sangerforbund gave a concert tonight in the natural amphilheater. The society has voted to hold its next annual meeting in Eureka.

members of the local committee. In fact, It was suggested by one of the members of the committee yesterday that Bourne of the committee yesterday that Bourne may censor the telegrams that are sent to Mayor Simon by Secretary Carpenter. That two sets of telegrams are in existence was declared to be altogether probable and it is surmised that one of these is between Bourne and his private secretary who is now in Portings. tary, who is now in Portland.

Was Message Inspired?

The fact that Secretary Carpenter tele-graphed Mayor Simon that the President would not play golf while here has ex-cited much curlosity. Why should Carpenter think the local committee cared anything about that item? Yet he was careful to tell the Mayer and committee that the President would not have time to play golf. Maybe this telegram was inspired, it is figured locally, and if so,

"How did that golf business get into the telegrams?' asked Mr. Josselyn of the "Not through anything that was sent by me," was the reply.

"It is evident," remarked Mr. Josselyn,
"that there are other telegrams going between Portland and Secretary Carpenter." "Yes, it looks as though there is another set," chimed in Mr. Ainsworth.

"It is clear that some one is in touch with Bourne," said Mr. Mulkey.
"I would suggest." said Mr. Ainsworth,
"that we get into touch with Senator Bourne's secretary, who is now in Portland, and get a letter to Bourne, telling him how the people here feel about this "I would not advise negotiations with Senator Bourne," said Mr. Mulkey, and his sentiments were echoed by others present, including Mayor Simon, "it would be a good thing for Bourne to withdraw after this thing gets stirred up good," said Dr. Wetherbee. "He could very graciously say I withdraw in favor of the people," you know, at the right time."

"You don't know Senator Bourne very well," said Mayor Simon, "if you think he would withdraw for any one."

After the committee arranged the ten-tative programme, including reception, meals, banquet and public address, and wired it to Mr. Carpenter, word came back that the President could not appear at the Armory in the afternoon of Sat-urday, and that he had another engage-ment, which he could not break. This was the first intimation that the comwas the first intimation that the committee had that the President was plan-ning for a golf game. It was subse-quently discovered that Senator Bourne quently discovered that Senator Bourne had ingratiated himself some way, and was down for that game; later, however, Secretary Carpenter telegraphed that the President would be too busy to play golf Saturday afternoon, and that he would consent to deliver a public address. It was then taken for granted that the programme outlined in the first instance was satisfactory to the President and that it would be followed.

Bourne "Cops Out" President. Last Friday afternoon, however, Mayor

Simon received from Secretary Carpenter a telegram, saying that the President would be the guest of Senator Bourne from Saturday noon to Sunday night; that the President would speak in public wherever the committee decided at night, in lieu of the proposed banquet, and say-ing that the local committee could take care of the members of the party other than the President. the President's personal messenger, and Secretary Carpenter.

This telegram was received after publication of a story in The Oregonian to the effect that Senator Bourne had been eliminated and that the President would not play goif with him, but would give his time and attention to the public instead. This seems to substantiate the theory that Bourne is receiving daily advice as to the local ceiving daily advice as to the local situation from some one in Portland, and that he at once, upon receipt of the information contained in that article, proceeded to the executive office at Beverly and "arranged" things satisfactory to himself.

In response to the telegram of Sec-retary Carpenter saying the President would be the guest of Bourne, Mayor Simon sent a reply, worded in language as plain as propriety would permit, saying that the arrangements telegraphed from the secretary were "any-thing but satisfactory," and that the committee desired the President to be the guest of the city while here, and that this echoed the sentiment of the whole community. Mr. Carpenter telegraphed back that, with the exception that the President would speak in the evening in iteu of the proposed banquet, the former order would stand,

"This means," said Mr. Wilcox, "that this committee receives the President, right up to the President in plain lan-guage, to let him know how we feel. I doubt if he understands the situation; I have never thought him to be such a man.

doubt if he understands the situation; i have never thought him to be such a man, and do not now. In my opinion, he would not allow himself to offend the people here, if he knew it, and I think he ought to know how things stand."

After considerable discussion, it was decided that a telegram stating that the committee is satisfied with the programme, but not at all satisfied with the entertainment arrangement, he sent to Secretary Carpenter, and this was promptly wired by Mayor Simon.

President Taft will now know the fealing of the local committee on arrangements, and, if he insists on the present plan of entertainment, he will offend the committee which has the handling of the plans for his visit.
