Pearl Casey's Colts had revenge on the pennant-chasing Spokane Indians yesterpennant-chasing Spokane Indians, yester-day. They assaulted "Blondy" Claffin, who started to pitch for the Indians, in such a violent manner that four runs were chalked up in short order, and Bob Brown chased the blonde and brought Dode Brinker in from center field, Burnett going to the outer garden. Dode staved off considerable of the slaughter, and had been accorded good support. stayed off considerable of the slaugher, and, had he been accorded good support, the Caseyites would not have stored again. However, errors by Brown and James, together with the quartet scored in the first, allowed Portland eight runs all rold, while the best the Indians could do with Eddie Kinsella was to tally three times.

At that, Kinselia was decidedly off his usual form and was hit hard and often, but managed to get away with his curves in the pinches, and that helped hold the score down. Jack Clynes is credited with a home run because living Gough, who played right field, due to Crocker's lameness, lost the ball in the weeds near the fence, and before he finally recovered it Clynes had gone the entire route. This gave Spokane its second run, for Weed's two-bagger scored Brinker in the first inning. An error by Mullin, who had a bad day at first, gave the visitors their third and last run in the fifth inning. In the first inning Adems led off with a smash at Claffin, who knocked it down, but could not field the runner out. Breen forced Adams at second, but stole that bag immediately after. When Casey bunted safely, Dick took third, and scored on Bassey's hit for two bags to left field. Mullin walked and the bases At that, Kinsella was decidedly off his left field. Mullin walked and the bases were loaded. Billy Staton then made himself the hero of the occasion by swatting for two bases and scot Casey, Bassey and Mullin on the This was enough for Claffin, and Brown gave him the "Africa" signal, delegat-ing Brinker to the mound. Errors by wn. Ostdiek and James were directly responsible for the four runs scored while Brinker was on the hill.

A fat person up in the stand furnished a slight diversion by getting into an argument with Manager Brown. The obese one had made $2 bets on Spokane and was sore because the Indians die not slaughter the Colts, and took re-It was interesting for a minute, though it might have been more so if they had come to blows. Had they done so Brown would have been the favorite. SPOKANE.
