INDIAN WIFE IS SURVIVOR

Leroy N. McQuester Leaves Name of "Father of Alaska"-Built Circle City and Was Translated Into Novel Hero.

BERKELEY, Cal., Sept. 2—(Special.)—Lercy N. McQuesten, one of the earliest invaders of the Alaskan gold fields, and a millionaire as a result of his mining wentures, died last evening at his Berkeley home, survived by his Indian wife and seven children. He had made his home in Berkeley for a number of years, coming to this city from the North.

From his earliest youth, McQuesten had been in the westward van. Born in Portland, Mo., he went with his father at the age of 14 to the wilds of Oregon, and in his 19th year was fighting Indians in the Oregon war of 1855. In that year the Walla Wallas took to the warpath, and there was a general uprising of all the Northwest tribes. McQuesten joined the volunteers in a company raised by Captain Benjamin Hayden, of Salem. At the end of the trouble, after his full shure of fighting, he went into the Sound country in the quartermaster service of the Army. In 1814 he entered the employ of the Alaske Commercial Company, built Fort In 1874 he entered the employ of the Alaska Commercial Company, built Fort Reliance and traded with the surround-ing tribes until 1886.

Italian Vessel Violates Etiquette at American Target Grounds.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—A matter that may cause official correspondence be-tween this country and Italy has just been brought to light in naval circles here. The incident occurred during the target practice of the Atlantic fleet off Cune Henry Saturday, when the cruiser Cape Henry Saturday, when the cruiser Aetna, a school ship, steamed through the fleet and went close enough to the targets

The American officers became indignant when the Actna's officers were seen to put their glasses on the various devices used by the ficet. The Actna saiuted the admiral's flag and Resr-Admiral Wain-wright replied from his flagship: Naval ctiquette demanded these salutes, but naval etiquette also demanded the avoidance of a fleet when it is at target prac-

Oriticism Awaits Explanation. WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—General regret is expressed in Administration circles over the publication, ascribing improper motives to the commander of the Italian cruiser Aetna, which, on Saturday morning last, is reported to have steamed between the ships of the Atlanthe battleship fleet engaged in target practice off the Virginia Capes. Naval officers expressed the opinion that any criticism of the commander of the vessel should be withheld until evi-dence is at hand that he had in any way violated international propriety in an af-fort to observe the operations and re-sults of the gunners' work aboard the

The Aetna, they say, is a guest of the Nation, and it would be improbable that the commander would be guilty of an affront to our people.
