Orphans Heirs to Fortune From Grandfather of Whom They Never Heard.

ESTATE IN LINN COUNTY

Tale of Marriage, Death and Divorce, Interwoven With Wanderings of Old Man in Mining Camp, Reads Like Novel.

ALBANY, Or., Sept. 31.—(Special.)— Left orphans by the death of their parents when they were bables and reared by friends and relatives, Earl LaGrande Harris and Nettle Mabel Harris, of Auburn, Cal., today received almost $2000 each from a relative they never knew.

The estate of Madore Cushman was The estate of Madere Cushman was settled in the Probate Court of Linn County today, and these two young people were the only living helrs of a grandfather of whom they had never heard until his estate was in process of administration. Back of the unexpected legacy is a story of marriage, death and divorce, all interwoven with the romantic wanderings of an old man through the mining camps of Colorado and Wyoming, his whereabouts absolutely unknown to the family he left behind in the East.

Madore Cushman died April 7, 1908.

behind in the East.

Madore Cushman died April 7, 1908, at the home of his nephew. D. J. Cushman, a prominent real estate man of Brownsville. He left an estate worth about $4500. His estate needed attenabout $4500. His estate needed attention, and D. J. Cushman was appointed administrator. It was supposed at that time that his brothers and sisters were his only relatives, and it was so stated in the petition filed in the Probate Court here. It was known that he had been married in Illinois, that his wife was divorced and that their only daughter married and gave birth to a son, but it was thought that both mother and boy died about the same time.

Tussing, of Brownsville, who was handling the estate, endeavored to get proofs of the death of Cushman's only daughter and her child, and recently unearthed the whole story of the old man's life and his true heirs. Cushman was married in Iowa, January 25, 1850, and lived for three years at Fenton, Whiteside County, Illinois, Differences arose between him and his wife and they partied, the baby girl re-wife and they parted, the baby girl re-maining with her mother. Disap-pointed with his married life, Cushman decided to try his luck in the un-known West, and joined the famous rush to Pike's Peak. For many years he worked in different mining camps Colorado, sometimes striking the in Colorado, sometimes atricing the hidden wealth and then spending it in a search for more. In the 60s he founded the town of Teller, in Grand County, Colorado, and his deed to the townsite was the first one recorded in townsite was the first one recorded in Grand County, being on page 1, volume 1 of the deed records of that county. This town is now only an abandoned mining camp, while another town of Teller has sprung up in Mineral County, Cushman finally abandoned mining and settled on a big ranch hear Encampment, Wyo. There he lived for many years. In the Fall of 1967, broken down with old ago, he sold his ranch for $6000 and came to Brownsville to live near his brothers and their children. On May 26, 1864, three years after the departure of her husband for the West, Mrs. Cushman secured a divorce in Illinois. Later she moved to Call-fornia and there her daughter, Nettle fornia and there her daughter, Nettle Cushman, grew to womanhood and married David Harris. They lived at You Bet, Nevada County, California, and had two children, a boy and a girl. Mrs. Harris died when the girl was a very small baby, and the boy was sent back to Iowa to live with relatives, while the girl was reared in the family of James Bottomiey, at You Bet. Harris died in alaska three or four years later, and the two wairs were left entirely to the care of friends.

When the administration of Madore Cushman's estate was first begun, the existence of these two children was unknown, but when it was ascertained they were alive it was at once discovered that they would receive all of their unknown grandfather's estate. Earl L Harris, the boy, is now 28 years old, and his sister, Nettle Mabel Harris, is 22. Both live at Auburn, Cal. Mrs. Margaret Bottomley, who reared Miss Harris, and who moved to Auburn two years ago from You Bet, furnished the affidavits which established the young people's heirship today. Attor-ney G. E. Lukens, of Auburn, was here today to be present at the hearing of the final account and collect $2797.38, the balance which remained after the payment of the debts of the estate and he expenses of administration to be lyided between the two orphans. The divorced wife of Madore Cushman, who is also the grandmother of the two heirs, is yet alive and now resides at Oakland, Cal. Her present name is Hattle C. Spray, and the is the wife of John Spray, an Onkland bust-ness man. Her divorce from Cushman bars all of her interest in the octate.

SCHIVELY MAKES RULING

Overrides Attorney's Opinion Regarding Insurance Law.

OLYMPIA, Wash., Sept. 21 .- (Special.) -The Bankers Life Insurance Company, of Des Moines, will continue to be per-mitted to do business in this state, despite the adverse opinion of the Attorney-General, according to the announcement of Insurance Cummissioner J. H. Schively this evening. Schlvely is head of the in-surance department and probably what he says will govern the department.

He is the same J. H. Schively whose interpretation in recent decisions of the insurance taxation laws saved companies thousands of dollars of taxes they should have paid to the state, according to the interpretation of attorneys, and which loss other taxpayers had to make up. But he has just been acquitted by lack of votes on impeachment charges. The Bankers Life is an admittedly good company and the joieur in the bill was not intended by the Legislators to-bar that company.

Supreme Court Interposes on Behalf of Hembree.

CONVICTION IS REVERSED

Lower Court Erred in Permitting Testimony Which Had Only Indirect Bearing on Crime for Which Man Was Tried.

SALEM, Or., Sept. 21.—(Special.)-The Supreme Court today handed down an opinion, written by Chief Justice Moore, reversing the case of the state vs. A. J. Hembree. This is the notorious Tillamoo County murder case, in which the de-fendant, Hembree, was accused of kill-ing his wife and daughter and then burning the bodies to destroy the evi-dence of his crime. Hembree, it will be remembered, was first convicted of manslaughter for killing his daughter. After serving one year of an indeterminate sentence, Hembres was par-doned by Governor Chamberlain. Re-turning to Tillamook County he was rearrested, charged with murdering his wife, and upon the trial of the case at Dallas, in Folk County, Judge Burnett presiding, the defendant was found guilty of murder in the first degree, and sentenced to be hanged.

In his opinion Chief Justice Moore holds that "proof of the commission of other offenses having no connection with the crime for which a defendant is on trial, is irrelevant and inad-

The principal ground on which the case is reversed was the error of the lower court in admitting the testimony of M. S. Larsen, the Tillamook hetelkeeper. From the testimony of this witness the jury was led to infer that Hembree had been guilty of improper conduct with his daughter, from which more inferences were drawn, finally resulting in a motive for the
