BUILDINGS TROUBLE HIM

Skyscrapers Produce Currents Which Drive Him Over Water, and Sailors of Nations Wonder at Strange Craft.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—An aeroplane flashed past the white dome of Grant's temb today, then, turning gracefully in mid-air over the waters of the Hudson River, shot like a falcon to Governors Island, ten miles away. Wilbur Wright, of Dayton, Ohlo, thus made one of the most spectacular flights in aerostatic history. Over the masses of warships, Wright flew for 20 miles ten miles up and ten miles back-remaining in the air for 33 minutes and 33 seconds and alighting at the aerodrome without mis-

During the flight business was practiburing the flight business was practically at a standstill in all that part of Mahattan from which a view of his remarkable performance was available. Harbor craft shrieked their applayes, cheer after cheer swept up from the banks of the Hudson River and the lower bay, for the aviator had "made good," crowning the aviation programme of the Hudson-Fuiton celebration with a rec-

Mishap Prevents Second Flight.

Wright started on his flight up the Hudson at 9:56 A. M. and finished exact-ly at 16:29:33. He had intended to ime upon his achievement of the morning by making a longer and more haz-ardous flight at sunset, but the crippling of his motor just as he was about to start on the evening attempt dashed his hopes as well as those of the thousands who had assembled on Governors Island and along the waterfront to cheer him

When Wright reached Governors Is-land shortly after 8 o'clock, the wind was blowing about ten miles an hour with blowing about ten miles an hour with the sky overcast. In the face of these conditions Wright called for volunteers to tow his machine to the starting rail, while he superintended the laying of the starting way in the direction of the wind. Everything ready, his mechanician started the motor and amid the clatter of the machine exhaust, which sounded like musketry fire, Wright climbed to his seat in the accordance.

In a moment the machine was off.

With the planes tilted slightly to one side, the machine slowly ascended to a height of barely 20 feet, while it swooped in a semi-circle toward the water's edge. Here the presence of many craft, all hysterically tooting their whistles, caused him to ascend further into the air before making for the mouth of the river. Almost indistinguishable, the machine sourcd away. The aeroplane was flying at a height of nearly 200 feet, but unex-pected air currents caused by the great buildings moved the aviator to bring his craft closer to the water. Tilting the elevating rudder, he slowly brought the machine down, slipping gradually until he was a bare 100 feet above the toot-ing ferry-boats and the busy river traffic. The motor was churning as regular-ly as a clock and, settling himself in his seat, he sped onward up the river.

Bluejackets Gaze and Cheer.

Over the warships of four great powers he passed, his progress marked by cheers n the sailors of his own country and from the sailors of his own county and those of Great Britain, Germany, France and Italy. The bluejnckets lined the rails of their ships and gazed in won-der at the little craft above them. When the air vessel reached the British cruiser anchored above Grant's tomb. Wright brought his direction rudders into play and, describing an easy and grace-ful curve, started on his return former ful curve, started on his return journey down the river. The wind conditions, which had bothered him on the journey up, were now more favorable and it was here that the speed possibilities of the machine were demonstrated.

While the 10 miles upstream had occupied nearly 30 minutes, the return flight was made in little more than 13 minutes, or at a rate slightly exceeding 46 miles an hour. Nearing the harbor entrance, he was confronted with the same architec-tural conditions which had caused him to vary his aititude on the way up. Again he lowered himself and, when he reached the open waters of the bay, he was flying barely 69 feet above the surface. Thence onward he gradually lessened his height, and after passing Governor's Island the machine sped an eighth of a mile over the bay. Veering sharply around, Wright headed swiftly for the landing place, in which he settled with the ease of a bird, amid the enthusiastic plaudits of soldiers

Greater Feat Abandoned.

The flight was a surprise to all Throughout the celebration crowds had waited in vain for the flight up the Hudson, expecting spectacular performances from both Wright and Curtiss. But with the excep-tion of Wright's flights on Wednesday last, when he encircled the Statue of Liberry, the elements prevented any substan-tial demonstration. There was keen disappointment when the mishap to the motor prevented a second flight. Wright proposed to fly not only over water but over some of the buildings hedging the waterfront of New York, thence westward until he reached the New Jersey shore and back to Governors Island. Chagrined at the turn of affairs, Wright was forced to abandon this programme and return to New York tonight, ready to go to Washington Tuesday

German-Americans Refuse to Condemn Officer.

NOT FOR PRIVATE SCHOOL

Asking Funds for Exclusive Educational Institutions-Think That Taxes Aid Enough.

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 4.-The National Jerman-American Alliance in biennial convention here today voted down a resolution condemning General Frederick D. Grant for having marched at the head of a temperance parade in Chicago. Prevailing arguments were that General Grant marched in his personal capacity only and that "he is not a fanatic, as he advocates the usefulness of the canteen in the Army."

A resolution calling on the alliance to contribute to the support of German pri-vate schools was defeated, on the ground that the organization members did enough for the cause of education by paying taxes for public schools and that the alliance would use its influence to maintain the teaching of the German language in the public schools.

The convention voted unanimously to invite the German Protestant Associations of the United States to join the alliance.

The peace committee, in setting forth the principles of the alliance with refertion of all nations, based on a mutual guarantee of their independence and possessions, and against attacks of the nembers. The committee also favored the furtherance of all international agreements, treaties and conventions which will establish uniform legislation tending to the welfare of the working classes and improvement of social, commercial and industrial conditions in gen eral, and the substitution of legal pro-ceedings in place of blood in settling disbetween nations and between employer and employes.
