BROTHERS SENDING FRIEND TO MEYERS

Sheriff Minto and Posse Leave Chase of Fugitive to J. L. Combs.

LIFE MAY YET BE SPARED

Wealthy Relatives of Slayer of Salem Policeman Will Make Fight in Court to Save Younger Brother From Conviction.

SALEM, Or., Oct. 5.—(Special.)—Sheriff Harry P. Minto, ex-Sheriff W. J. Cuiver and the entire force of deputies that has been searching for George Meyers, the slayer of Patroiman Tom Eckhart, returned tonight to Salem, turned tonight to Salem.

This development is the result of a move made by Henry W. and Milton W. Meyers, owners of the Meyers department store in this city, to induce George Meyers to come into Salem and give himself up. It became known late this evening that the Meyers brothers had sent J. L. Combs, of Silverton, to Silver Creek Falls in an automobile to try to find George Meyers and to induce him to return. Combs is well acquainted with the fugitive and has been with him in the mountains. Also he lived for two years near the Falls and knows the country thoroughly.

Sheriff Consents to Plan.

On this account it is believed that if any one can find the fugitive in that section Combs will be able to do so. Combs left here with instructions to see Sheriff Minto and his men, and if they approved of the plan Combs was to try to find Meyers. Combs saw the officers, secured their hearty approval and is still in the woods, while the Sheriff and his in the woods, while the Sheriff and his deputies are back in Salem.

If Combs finds Meyers the fugitive will be assured that his interests shall be protected to the extent that he shall have a fair trial. H. W. and M. L. Meyers are especially anxious to avoid any further trouble and are doing what they can to prevent any one clase being hurt. They feel, however, that George should take such nonlaburant as the law provides for such punishment as the law provides for the crime he has committed. However, if George resists arrest and any of the officers or others are injured or killed, he will have no assistance from his brothers in this city.

Meyers Is Going South.

The last heard from the fugitive he The last heard from the fugilive he had turned stuthwest from Silver Falls City and was making toward Sublimity and Stayton, through a well-settled farming country. According to reports he is making no special effort to keep out of sight and is traveling slowly. It is predicted that Combs will find his man and makes with him to Salem timpercow. On return with him to Salem tomorrow. On Monday the officers tramped 15 miles Monday the officers tramped 15 miles through the dense underbrush of the foot-hills to Meyers' cabin, and during the trip Meyers undoubtedly learned of the trip Meyers undoubtedly learned of con-proximity of the officers and changed his plans, going south instead of con-tinuing on into the mountains.

KREBS WIN IN HOP SUIT

Case Twice Before Supreme Court Finally Disposed Of.

SALEM, Or., Oct. 5.—(Special.)—The famous Krebs-Livesly hop case was affirmed in a decision handed down to-day by the Supreme Court and written by Chief Justice Moore. This case has been twice through the Circuit Court of this county and twice through the Oregon Supreme Court. The Krebs company has won out both times in the lower court, but was reversed on er-rors of the trial court on the first ap-peal to the Supreme Court.

On August 25, 1984, the Krebs Com-pany contracted to deliver annually until 1909 100,000 pounds of hops to the Livesly Company at 14 cents. In Octoher, 1967, when hops had declined in price to about 9 cents, the Livesly Company tried to repudiate its written contract to pay 14 cents and the Krebs Company brought suit for damages. In the case of Abraham L Kessler and others vs. Charles W. Nice et al., an appeal from Washington County, an order of dismissal was entered. The opinion was written by Justice Slater.

Petition for rehearing was denied in the case of Patton vs. Washington and that of Alexander vs. Munroe. Arguments were heard today in the La Rose and Atwood cases, both from Portland.

SECOND OPERATION NECESSARY TO SAVE WOMAN'S LIFE.

Patient Recovers and Now Sues Oklahoma Doctor for Malpractice, Demanding $20,000.

ALBANY, Or., Oct. 5.—(Special.)— Depositions are being taken here today n a case pending in Oklahoma growing of the peculiar fact that a physician out of the peculiar fact that a physician in sewing up a woman's body after an operation is alloged to have left a piece of gause 11 by 33 inches in size inside her body. Alice M. Elliott, of Lebanon, is suing Dr. U. L. Russell, of Guthrie, lokia., for $20,000 damages for malpractice. The depositions are being taken before Attorney N. M. Newport, of Lebanon, who was appointed by the Circuit Court of Oklahoma County, Okla., as a Court of Oklahoma County, Okla., as a special referee to take the testimony of witnesses in Oregon.
On June 14, 1907, Dr. Russell performed

On June 14, 1907, Dr. Russeil performed an operation on Mrs. Elliott at Guthrie. Okla. She survived the operation and soon afterward came to Oregon with her husband, S. brought to St. Mary's Hospital in this city and an operation was performed by Dr. R. C. Coffey, of Portland; Dr. W. H. Davis, of Albany, and Dr. W. H. Booth and Dr. J. C. Booth, of Lebanon. When the physicians opened up the woman's body they were surprised to find a piece of gauze which had gradually collected into a solld mass and completely filled an intestine for a distance of about three inches. The gauze had clogged the intestine completely for had clogged the intestine completely for probably 24 hours before the operation and had not the operation been performed immediately death would have resulted.

After the gauge was removed Mrs. Elliott at once got well. It is contended by Dr. Russell that he did not leave the gauze in Mrs. Elliott's body. Mrs. Elliott's attorneys and the physicians who performed the second op-eration assert that the gauze could have reached the position in which it was found in only two ways, either that it was left there in a former operation or was left there in a former operation or that Mrs. Elliott ate it. That a woman could eat a piece of gauxe of such size, they declare, is preposterous. Attorney Percy R. Kelly, of Albany, is representing the plaintiff, and Attorney George W. Wright, of this city, the de-fendant in the hearings before Referee Newport this week.

Drouth Leaves Power Plant Without Sufficient Water.

MONTESANO, Wash., Oct. 5.—(Special,)—This city is now practically without lights, as the electric lights are shut off nightly between 9 and 10 oclock, and the manager of the company states that unless rain comes soon his company will have to shut off the lights entirely.

The plant of the Montesano Light & Water Company is run by the water power obtained from Sylvia Lake, which is failing four inches a day.

FIFTEEN FAMILIES COMING

Oklahoma Farmers Find Condition Far Better in Oregon.

ALBANY, Or., Oct. 5.—(Special.)—G. V. Nicholson, of Holdenville, Okla., ar-W. Nicholson, of Holdenville, Okia, arrived in Albany today as the forerunner of 15 families which are on their way from that town to locate in Albany and vicinity. Some of them will engage in business in Albany, while others will secure dairy ranches near the city.

Mr. Nicholson said the Oklahoma crops are so poor this year that farmers "are up against it," and that hundreds will seek new homes in Oregon.

HOOD RIVER, Or., Oct. 5.—(To the Editor)—Thoughtful persons must heartfly indorse the strong editorial in last fly indorse the strong editorial in last Sunday's Oregonian, on "The Future of Medicine." It is high time humankind learned that health is a simple matter of obedience to the laws of life.

But there is going to be much difficulty in getting these laws taught to school children. Syntax and prosody are safer ground than the hygiene of our school text books, since the latter is prepared by medical men who have never had the brain-clearing tonic of responsibility. So long as the physician exists sibility. So long as the physician exists

Sound health cannot long be maintained without uncooked fruit or vege-tables, and the great danger in this artificial ago is that enough of such foods will not be consumed.

It is well known that germs are everywhere. Beyond decent cleanliness of air, food and water, the only important germ doctrine is to teach the young how to keep themselves resistant and immune. This question is entirely ignored, and the children are left to face a more cruel bogle than ignorance ever before conjured up.

Often, anti-toxin and vaccine are com mended. "If the vaccine takes, the per son vaccinated is proof against small-pox." Such a statement can only result from indolence in getting the facts. Dr. Creighton's article on vaccination in the Encyclopedia Britannica ought to be authority enough to settle the vaccination question. When the writer of it began the researches required to prepare the article, he was a firm believer in vacci-nation. By the time he was fully connation. By the time he was tuny conversant with the facts he was a firm anti-vaccinist, as he remains to this day, along with many another physician, whose eyes have been opened.
