VANCOUVER, Wash., Oct. 5.—(Special.)

R. L. McCormick, Republican leader in Tacoma, at the McCredie rally here tonight, promised that Pierce County would give McCredie as great a majority as it did Francis W. Cushman a year ago. Two thousand people attended the rally held tonight in the Tabernacle and over 100 leading Republicans from nearly every county in the Second Congressional District were seated on the platform. Judge McCredie was given an ovation when he entered the building, and every mention of his name by the speakers was the signal for an outbreak of applause. Telegrams of regret that they were unable to be present were read from Senator Piles, Governor Hay, John L. Wilson, E. R. Archer, of Aberdeen, Senator Jones and J. M. Ashford of Tacoma, the latter having been McCredie's chief opponent in the race for the nomination.

McCredie Thanks Friends.

Speeches were also made by H. H. Back, representing the Vancouver Bar, E. G. Crawford, representing the Vancouver business men, and J. M. Ashford, G. W. Stapleton, friends of the candidate in Portland. Judge McCredie asserted that if elected he did not propose any radical changes in the government. He said he would support the organization, and seek to obtain what he could for his constituents for improvement of the Columbia River, Kootenai River and harbor works on the coast. The Judge was warm in his praise of the Southwestern Washington candidates for the Congressional nomination who stood strongly by him after he was named in the caucus.

Shipments From Wallowa Ranges Are Made to Portland.

LA GRANDE, Or., Oct. 5.—(Special.)—Stockmen from the ranges of Wallowa and Union Counties report the Fall roundup about completed. Cattle are beginning to move to Portland, and other Coast markets. The first shipment was made today by Warren Chandler and tomorrow another larger consignment will be made by George Chandler. These shippers are buying in Wallowa County, and are loading at Enterprise. They are shipping to the Union Stock Yards in Portland. Range conditions have been the best in years and the stock is in good condition. The shipments will not be as heavy as usual this Fall owing to the fact that the strength of the market all Summer has drawn out a portion of the cattle. Black leg also took many calves early in the season. This stockmen declare, was due to the unusually heavy green grass which caused overfattening.

Authorities Investigate Tragedy in Baker County.

BAKER CITY, Or., Oct. 5.—(Special.)—In answer to a request from residents of Cornucopia, the Sheriff and Prosecuting Attorney of Baker County are making investigation of the burning of Ole Hude's home in that village on September 23, when three small children were cremated. Some residents of Cornucopia seem to believe that foul play preceded the fire. An inquest was held today over the remains of a man by the name of Kennedy, who committed suicide last evening near McEwen. Kennedy was suffering from cancer and to end his life he tied a gun to a tree and attached a long string to the trigger. Sitting on a quilt in front of the gun he pulled the string, sending a bullet through his breast. He was a woodman and little of his history is known.

HAZING PENALTY SEVERE

President Campbell Addresses Students on Standards He Proposes Shall Be Maintained at Oregon's State University.

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene, Or., Oct. 5.—(Special.)—In the special meeting of the student body this morning, President Campbell announced the names of the four students suspended for one year and explained the attitude of the university toward hazing. In part, his address was as follows: "The attitude of the faculty and regents of the university is absolutely against the students who are guilty of hazing. The great majority of the students stand loyally by the faculty in this matter. It is altogether probable that this incident will close the history of hazing, even in a mild form, in the university. "The University of Oregon has always been comparatively free from any severe form of hazing. Class rushes have been abolished for a number of years, and student disturbances on the campus or on the streets are unknown. "The student body has always been characterized by earnestness of purpose and quietness of conduct. The majority of the students are helping to carry their own way through college, some earning it entirely, and they know what they are here for. Their seriousness of purpose and loyalty to the university have made discipline a comparatively easy matter. "The university wishes only young men and women who are in earnest. It is under a general rule each semester all students who fail to make the majority of the hours of credit, which they are carrying. Under this rule, about 20 students were suspended for a semester during last year. The university emphasizes in its requirements the demand for regular and systematic work, calling for daily reports from all departments and following up delinquencies energetically. A member of any athletic team is dropped from the team upon complaint of poor work from any department. "The first business of the university is serious study and the importance of this fact is emphasized in every possible way. As an institution of learning, it is reported by the state, the university is under obligations to maintain the highest standards of conduct and scholarship. "The students are suspended one year for hazing are: Abe Blackman and Austin Hiegal, of Portland; Samuel Earhart, of Medford, and Charles Willard, of Hillsboro. "The other two men implicated in the hazing were given the alternative of one term suspension, or the handing in of written oaths with their own and parents' signatures that they would in the future support the policy of the university faculty. "Following are the names: Calvin Welch, of Hillsboro; Alex. Turner, La Verne Van Marter, E. I. Elliot, John Shattuck, Charles Randall, E. J. Smith, Allyn Roberts, John Shantin, Robert Alton, of Hillsboro; Ralph Moore, Carl Huston, Chester A. Moore, E. C. Latourette, Ralph Newland, Charles Olsen, Leigh Higgins, E. D. Flynn, F. E. Myerson, C. Sterns, W. L. Rinehart, M. W. Hawkins, Homer Jamison, Walter Fisher, Earl Kidder, C. B. Baer, E. C. Benson, C. F. Carter and J. M. Moore.

STABBING FOLLOWS ROW

CORPORAL MOFFAT WOUNDED WHILE SLEEPING.

Cook Stanton, Said to Be Nursing an Old Grudge, Arrested Shortly After Assault.

PORT STEVENS, Or., Oct. 5.—(Special.)—As the sequence of an old grudge, Corporal Moffat, of the 160th Company, Coast Artillery, was seriously stabbed as he lay asleep in his bunk last night. The assailant drove his knife through the blankets and sheets of the Corporal's bunk and then dropped the bloody blade by the side of his wounded victim and fled. The blade struck one of Moffat's ribs, tearing a great flesh wound in the sleeper's side. The rib kept the steel from reaching a vital spot. "The assailant is supposed to be a cook of the 160th Company, with whom Moffat had quarreled. Shortly after the stabbing Private Stanton was arrested at the door of a room he was stealthily trying to enter. Stanton was carrying a pair of shoes and seemed deeply agitated. He is supposed to have removed his shoes before attacking the sleeping Corporal. "Several days ago Moffat was sent to the cookhouse to nurse an old grudge against Cook Stanton under arrest. Stanton resisted and the Corporal resorted to force before he could take his captive to the guardhouse. This humiliation rankled in the cook's breast and he has been nursing a grudge against Moffat ever since. "Stanton was in a desperate frame of mind when locked up after the stabbing. He muttered dire threats against everyone connected with the affair and stoutly protested his innocence. The cook has a strong following in the 160th Company and rumors of outside resistance were rife. "For this reason an extra guard was placed around the guardhouse and non-commissioned officers on duty there must verify Stanton's safety every 15 minutes.
