SMALL ARMY GOES AFTER WILLIE BOY

Sheriff to Lead 40 Men After Piute Murderer on Desert Crags.

INDIAN TO JOIN IN CHASE

Outlaw Reinforced With Food and Ammunition by Squaws—He Was Fired With Whisky to Kill Boniface.

SAN BERNARDINO, Cal., Oct. 11.—(Special.)—Sheriff J. C. Ralpha is outfitting tonight for an early start Wednesday with 40 armed men in a systematic campaign against Willie Boy, the fugutive Piute entrenched among the crags of Buillon Mountain, far out on the desert. This afternoon the Sheriff held a closed conference with the Board of Supervisors, discussing the financial features of the campaign, the board giving the Sheriff carte blanche.

A train of pack animals will follow the Sheriff's force, which will be fully mounted. High power rifles have been secured for each man and four powerful glasses.

Pack Supplies for Campaign.

Today tons of supplies were started out from Victorville to provision the supply bases at Rose Mine, Old Woman Springs and Granite Wells, while other wagons left Bannings with supplies for Warren Wells, The Pipes and Rattle Snake Gorge. From these bases the pac kanimals will receive their loads as needed.

The Sheriff will personally lead the posse from this city by way of Bear Valley, while Deputy Sheriff George Hewins will lead another from Victorville and Indian Marshal Ben de Crevecoeur will lead a third posse from Banning, each starting Wednesday morning and uniting about Buillon Mountain, where the Piute ambushed the posse last Thursday.

Willie Boy Gets Ammunition.

Indian Marshal De Crevecoeur wired the Sheriff from Banning tonight he had received information that Willie Boy has been supplied with a can of smokeless powder and material for reloading 600 shells for his 30-30 rifle, while provisions have also been smuggled to Buillon Mountain for him. Squaws are suspected and Marshal De Crevecoeur has taken measures to have all squaws and sysphathizing Indians returned to the reservations and kept under guard until the outlaw is captured.

Whisky Inspired Murder.

De Crevecoeur states Willie Boy's bloody outbreak was caused by a bottle of whisky bought here by the Indian's chum, a white youth, the Saturday before the murder of Mike Boniface. The latter declares Willie Boy stole the liquor from him, but this is not believed.

The Saturday before the Boniface murder, the fugitive had bought a silk handkerchief and a pair of garters for Isoleta Boniface, whom he afterwards murdered. He had planned a simple Indian kidnaping, but, fired by the liquor, killed Boniface, and this murder developed Willie Boy into an outlaw.

GAS KILLS WELL-DIGGER

Young Man Dies Soon After He Leaves His Work.

PENDLETON, Or., Oct. 11.—(Special.)—Gas, which had formed in the well being dug at the new Pendleton woolen mill, caused the death of a workman, M. Colligan.

The gas formed as the result of a blast which had been discharged to loosen a stratum of rock, and, without waiting for the smoke and fumes to clear away, young Colligan descended to resume his work. Though the fumes were oppressive, he staid with it until quitting time. A few hours later he was taken seriously ill and inside of 24 hours was dead as the result of acute congestion of the lungs, caused by poisonous gases.

The deceased was 28 years old and unmarried.

VANCOUVER, Wash., Oct. 11.—(Special.)—Lee Suey, aged 40, a Chinaman, with his queue cut short and wearing American clothes, is eagerly sought by Lieutenant-Colonel Rogers, of the First Infantry, of Vancouver Barracks, not that the Celestial has committed any crime, but was cook for the Colonel, and disappeared most mysteriously, without as much as saying farewell.

The Chinaman has been missing since October 7, and Colonel Rogers has made inquiries locally and has requested the Portland police to assist him in his search. Suey is known to have crossed the Columbia to Portland, supposedly to visit friends.

Neighbors sought to stay the flames and to save the horses, but were unsuccessful. Dr. Yates carried $400 insurance on his barn.

SALOON SCREENS DOOMED

Spokane Drink Emporium Must Not Obstruct Street View.

SPOKANE, Wash., Oct. 11.—(Special.)—Carrying out his promise to enforce the saloon laws which prohibit obstructions being placed in front of the bars to prevent a clear view from the streets, Commissioner Carl Tuerke today instructed the Corporation Counsel to prepare complaints against three saloonmen violating the law.

"These men have on numerous occasions been warned to take down the screens but have failed, so now it will be necessary to deal with them through the courts," said Mr. Tuerke. "I expect the complaints will be filed in the morning."

Mr. Tuerke said several saloons had partially complied with the law, and the conditions were such that there was a question whether or not it would be feasible to take the matter into the courts.

THREE CHINESE EXECUTED

Celestials Electrocuted for Murder in Boston Tong War.

BOSTON, Oct. 11.—Three Chinese—Min Hing, Leong Gong and Hom Woom—were electrocuted at the state Prison in Charleston this morning for the murder of four of their countrymen in a "tong" war in Chinatown, August 2, 1907.

The slaying of the unsuspecting Chinese merchants and laundrymen as they sat quietly smoking about their doorways was one of the most cold-blooded deeds ever credited to the "hatchet men" of the Chinese race in this country.

HOQUIAM, Wash., Oct. 11.—(Special.)—The tramp steamer Strathgyle, British bottom, today completed her cargo of 2,000,000 feet of lumber at the National Lumber & Box Company's plant in this city and will put to sea tomorrow. She carries timbers for La Boca to be used in the Panama Canal construction, and in addition has seven chosen spuds, or booms for heavy dredges. Her cargo is valued at $40,000. The spuds are from the camps of the Endresen Spar & Timber Company, at Little Rock, Wash., having headquarters in Hoquiam.

Coffin, of Chicago, who offered $61, but specified that the district should furnish the blank bonds.

PANAMA LIBEL IS PURELY POLITICAL

Judge Anderson Intimates Prosecution of Smith Was Blunder.

QUESTIONS GUILTY INTENT

McNamara Says Delavan Smith Charged Roosevelt, Root and Taft With Aiding Swindle, but Judge Is Doubtful.

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 11.—That the so-called "Panama libel case" was more or less of a political nature was the comment of Judge A. B. Anderson, of the United States District Court at the close of argument today in the case of Charles R. Williams and Delavan Smith, proprietor of the Indianapolis News, whom the Government is seeking to remove to the District of Columbia for trial on a charge of criminal libel.

Judge Anderson said he did not wish to give the impression that he had formed an opinion on the merits of the case, but wished to point out the trend of argument toward the court's further enlightenment as to whether this was the probable cause for the indictment of Williams and Smith by the Federal grand jury of the District of Columbia for criminal libel. The basis of the action is published articles, intimating that there was a graft of $28,000,000 in the sale of the Panama Canal zone to the United States by the French company.

Honest Difference of Opinion.

"What is the guilty intent to be shown on the part of these defendants?" the court asked Stuart McNamara, special attorney for the Department of Justice in charge of the proceedings. The judge declared he doubted if it could be shown that the defendants had maliciously forethought to libel Theodore Roosevelt, Charles P. Taft, William Nelson Cromwell, President Taft, J. P. Morgan, Douglas Robinson and others.

"The whole Panama Canal project is a great political project," said the court, "and there has been and is much honest expression of opinion as to the advisability of having chosen the Panama route in preference to the Nicaragua route and now, since the cost of building the canal is so much larger than at first estimated, as to whether or not the United States should own any Atlantic-Pacific canal.

Press Has Public Duty.

"The press has a public duty to perform and in political discussion it seems to me that the conception of libel should be greatly different from the conception that should apply on a person's private character."

Judge Anderson said if a set of Americans went to France and bought up the securities from the French Panama Canal Company for $12,000,000, as alleged, and then sold them to the United States for $40,000,000, it should be regarded as "a nasty piece of business," but in no sense a crime.

Better Pass Over Such Libels.

Mr. McNamara interposed that in his opinion a crime was charged for the reason that it was alleged "that the syndicate used its influence upon the Administration at Washington to put the deal through," and that, if the charge were true, Theodore Roosevelt, Elihu Root and W. H. Taft were in criminal complicity with the "syndicate" to swindle the people of this country."

"It is my personal opinion," said the court, "that liberty is best preserved by passing over some aspects of an alleged libel of the nature now under consideration which should not be passed over in a libel case of a personal or private character."

Records Refute Charges.

Mr. McNamara, in his argument earlier, maintained that the Indianapolis News was sold in Washington and that therefore the crime charged was committed in Washington as well as elsewhere. He said the records at Washington absolutely refuted charges of corruption in the Panama purchase, that the defendants had not considered these records in publishing the charges complained of and that, whatever was the intention in their minds, the act they committed amounted to criminal libel.

"We cannot go into investigation of the subjective state of the minds of the defendants," he declared. "We can only judge from the outward acts committed."

The only testimony offered consisted of copies of the issues of the Indianapolis News containing libelous articles and selections from the report of the Senate committee of 1906 which investigated the Panama deal and examined Mr. Cromwell, as attorney for the French owners.

Cromwell Only Received Fee.

Mr. McNamara pointed out that Mr. Cromwell assured the committee he had no interest in the matter save as attorney, that he had then received $200,000 for his services and that he was in no haste to submit his bill for further attorney fees.

Mr. Cromwell added that J. Pierpont Morgan told him his banking house had received only $35,000 for its services in the collection of the $40,000,000 paid by the United States to the French companies through the Bank of France at Paris.

Mr. McNamara sought to impress upon the court that Mr. Cromwell had been frank in his description of his activity and that he had denied in detail that he had received a cent from the government of Panama; that he owned securities in the Panama Canal Company, or that he had received or expected to receive any commission as fiscal agent or any compensation other than an attorney should have for his services.

All the testimony alluded to by Mr. McNamara was taken by the Senate committee in February, 1906.

Always Preferred Panama.

The report of the Isthmian Canal Commission was taken up by Mr. McNamara to show, he said, that the Commission all along had preferred the Panama to the Nicaragua route and that the official valuation of the Panama property was set at $40,000,000. He produced this record, he said, to refute the charge that the Commission ever had approved the selection of the Nicaragua route except that it considered the original price for the Panama Zone demanded by the French owners—$109,000,000—exorbitant. The Panama route was recommended, he said, when the price dropped to $40,000,000.

Mr. McNamara then turned witness and testified that he obtained copies of the Indianapolis News at the newspaper office in Washington and that these papers contained articles alleging that there was a "graft" of millions in the transfer of the Panama Canal to this country.

Homecoming of Blanche Bates Is Conquest

In "The Fighting Hope" at Bungalow Portland Girl Returns to Receive Due Meed of Heart-Given Tribute.

CAST.

Burton Temple.....Milton Sills
Marshfield Craven.....John W. Cope
Robert Granger...Wedgwood Nowell
Anna.....Blanche Bates
Mrs. Mason.....Loretta Wells

IT WAS a home-coming for Blanche Bates at the Bungalow last night. Right royal was the welcome. If Taft or Bryan were the recipient, you would call it an ovation. Certainly the house was not packed to see a famous play by a noted author or a typical Belasco production; a multitude of first-nighters gathered to give heart greeting to the woman who has laid strong personal and professional hold upon them. No doubt if Blanche Bates had been billed for Eliza in "Uncle Tom's Cabin," her reception would have been quite as enthusiastic and cordial.

There were present a few pioneer Portlanders who knew and admired Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Bates, parents of Belasco's distinguished star, when they played leading roles at the old Oro Fino Theater before Blanche was born, and hundreds who have sympathetically watched and rejoiced in her rapid rise from leading woman in the Frawley Company to the enviable distinction of America's best emotional actress. It was such an audience as could not help but light and keep a-going her inspirational fires.

Blanche Bates has beauty, grace, power, melodious speech and exuberant vitality. To a greater degree than any other actress now before the American public, is she endowed with that subtle quality called magnetism. Two scenes in "The Fighting Hope" lend themselves to emotional intensity. These she played with consummate skill and when the people called her out repeatedly, she said:

"I'm glad they let me come back home to Portland." Then there was more applause.

"The Fighting Hope" is a 20th century Wall-street play with melodramatic situations. Its central figure is Anna Granger, the wife of a skunk, who, as cashier of a bank, betrayed his trust, was tried and sent to state's prison. His ally in the crime seeks afterward to fasten guilt upon the president. Mrs. Granger, the mother of two boys, enters the employ of the president as stenographer and confidential secretary for the sole purpose of stealing evidence which would secure the pardon of her husband, whose real character she does not know, and to aid in the conviction of the president, whom she wrongly believes to be guilty. Her employer falls in love with her. Through false testimony he is indicted. He destroys a letter which would have established his innocence, and is overwhelmed with remorse. Her husband escapes, finds her, reveals himself as the lowest of men and frees her by being killed at the hands of pursuing guards.

The conflict of emotion involved in maternal love, remorse, affection for a good man and contempt for a low-down dog, gives Miss Bates one notably great scene in which she rose to commanding height.

The author is William J. Hurlbut. He has given us a modern lawyer, played capitally by John W. Cope—a shrewd, cynical, middle-aged man of affairs, sharp as steel, witty, hard-headed, hard-hearted, given to profanity and yet one of the most likable fellows in the world. Mr. Cope's performance was clean-cut and exhilarating.

Milton Sills, who played the bank president, lacks strength. Wedgewood Nowell, who is seen for only a few minutes, made himself properly detestable as the convict cashier.

But Blanche Bates is the attraction, not the play. Let us hope that an American Sardou who has not yet found himself may write an emotional drama that shall call forth her power to the limit. If such play shall not be forthcoming, then back to Shakespeare.

"The Fighting Hope" will be at the Bungalow all week with matinees Wednesday and Saturday.

Rainier Tracks Shifted.

RAINIER, Or., Oct. 11.—(Special.)—Contrary to reports, the Astoria & Columbia River Railroad Company, did not remove sidetracks from the streets of Rainier because of alleged grievances. The rapidly increasing growth of Rainier has made the switching too heavy work to be done on the main streets, which are sometimes blocked for hours with the switching freight trains. These tracks were all taken up Friday and Saturday and will be laid in the West End of town, where the company will build a switching yard.

ARE YOU A DRUDGE?

A 10-ACRE ORCHARD TRACT IN THE FAMOUS UMPQUA VALLEY WILL MAKE YOU INDEPENDENT

The average man drudges along through life because he lacks initiative.

He wonders why Jones and Brown succeed while he remains in the same old rut. Jones and Brown always have their eyes open for a good investment and are not afraid to take hold when they see one, while he is always afraid that the other fellow might make a little profit, or else does not see the opportunity, and as a consequence if he has a little money in a savings bank, it only nets him about 4 per cent per annum.

At the price we are selling 10-acre Orchard Tracts, in the Umpqua Valley, when these orchards are full bearing you can make, annually, 100 per cent on your original investment without taking the slightest risk.

Why can't you buy retail the best grade of apples in Portland, the center of the apple culture? Because the demand from the East is so great that nearly all of our best apples are shipped east of the Rocky Mountains, and the supply is not half equal to the demand.

If you can't make money in Oregon you can't make it anywhere else, and our 10-acre orchard tracts in the Umpqua Valley are unexcelled in the production of Spitzenbergs and Yellow Newtown varieties, the best selling apples in the state.

Our terms are easy—a cash payment down, then monthly, quarterly or semi-annual installments.

HAWLEY SEES VOTERS

CONGRESSMAN MAKING TOUR OF HIS DISTRICT.

Proposes to Familiarize Himself With Needs of Constituents at National Capital.

SALEM, Or., Oct. 11.—(Special.)—Preliminary to his return to Washington, Congressman Hawley is making a tour of his district and hopes so to fortify himself with facts bearing on the needs and demands of the various localities in the district that he will be enabled to do better work for the state during the coming session than any Oregon representative has yet done.

Mr. Hawley was in Klamath Falls Saturday, and from there went to Lakeview, Paisley and Silver Lake. While in that part of the state he will look into the Klamath Irrigation project, which presents some intricate problems. Dry farming under the 320-acre dry farm homestead act, recently enacted, is demanding much attention there. The House committee on agriculture, of which Mr. Hawley is a member, originates the large appropriation bill for the United States Department of Agriculture, carrying several millions of dollars each year, and an intimate knowledge of conditions in the Klamath region will enable him to benefit his district when the heads of the various bureaus appear before the committee to get their portion of the appropriation.

Coos Bay, The Tillamook Locks, The Siuslaw River at its mouth, The Tillamook Harbor, and dredging and repairing the Coquille and Willamette Rivers are of prime importance to Mr. Hawley's Congressional District, and he is heartily in favor of continued effort along the Columbia River to the Ocean. During the last Congress he labored diligently with Theodore Burton, Chairman House Rivers and Harbors Committe, and secured surveys by Government engineers of all of the above projects in his district.

Following is Congressman Hawley's itinerary for the month: Klamath Falls, October 9; Lakeview, October 11; Paisley, October 12; Silver Lake, October 13; Lakeview, October 15; Klamath Falls, October 16; Ashland, October 19; Medford, October 20; Grants Pass, October 21; Salem, October 22 and 23; Portland, October 25; Corvallis, October 26; Toledo, October 27; Newport, October 28; Albany, October 30.

Silversides Run Increases.

ASTORIA, Or., Oct. 11.—(Special.)—Silversides are increasing in number and during the past week some of the gillnetters and trappers have made fairly good catches. About the only change in the situation is that all the packers are now paying 2½ cents per pound, while Fall salmon are of uncertain value. The silversides are of excellent quality and also of fine color.

NEXT TO BE BANNER YEAR

Head of Building Trades Preidcts Busy Times in 1910.

TAMPA, Fla., Oct. 11.—The annual convention of the Building Trades Department of the American Federation of Labor opened this morning at the Tampa Bay Hotel. The onvention was called to order by President Kirby, 60 delegates being present. The afternoon was occupied by the annual reports of Mr. Kirby, Secretary Spencer and other officials.

Mr. Kirby advocated conservation and quiet negotiation with employers rather than forcible action. He said that there has been a considerable improvement in the building industry and nearly all organizations show an increased membership as the result. While the building trades felt the recent panic more than any other class of workmen, what was lost then is being fast regained, with the prospect of 1910 being a banner year for the building trades.

Deschutes Company Sues A. M. Drake, of Bend.

Personal service on Drake has not yet been secured.

HOME CURE FOR ECZEMA

Oil of Wintergreen, Thymol, Glycerine, Etc., Used as a Simple Wash.

It really seems strange that so many people suffer year in and year out with eczema, when it is now no longer a secret that oil of wintergreen mixed with thymol, glycerine, etc., makes a wash that is bound to cure.

Old, obstinate cases, it is true, cannot be cured in a few days, but there is absolutely no sufferer from eczema who ever used this simple wash and did not find immediately that wonderfully soothing, calm, cool sensation that comes when the itch is taken away. Instantly upon applying a few drops of the wash the remedy takes effect, the itch is allayed. There is no need of experiment—the patient knows at once.

Instead of trying to compound the oil of wintergreen, thymol, glycerine, etc., in the right proportions ourselves we are using a prescription which is universally found the most effective. It is known as the D. D. D. Prescription, or Oil of Wintergreen Compound. It is made by the D. D. D. Co. of Chicago, and our long experience with this remedy has given us great confidence in its merits.
