FRESELL STUNG BY WOMAN'S WILES

Fair Enchantress Trims Ex-Railroad Man for $1200 in Cold, Hard Cash.

WILLING TO MARRY HIM

Fact That She Is Living With Man as His Wife, Carefully Concealed, However—Police Now Search for Perfect Lady With Coin.

Swindled out of $1200 in cash by an adventuress of consummate skill, John Fresell, 50 years of age, a retired railroad man, living at 91 Seventh street, has sworn out a warrant for the woman's arrest, and the police are now searching for a striking beauty who lived in Portland under the name of Queenie Fense. Papers in the case were filed with Clerk Beutgen at the Municipal Court Monday morning, when a warrant for the woman was immediately issued.

An information charging larceny of $1000 by bailee was prepared by Deputy District Attorney Page on Saturday and sworn to by Fresell. The woman, it is said, has left the city and has been traced to Spokane, according to Fresell, and there is some hope entertained that she will be apprehended. A man with her, going under the name of Fense, is also being sought as her partner in the swindle. If sufficient evidence cannot be brought against the man on this charge, he will be held as a paramour of the woman.

Although the information stipulates only the larceny of $1000, Fresell freely admits that the woman received as much as $1200 in cash from him and would have received $2000 more had not her flight from the city put an end to his romantic delusion. According to Fresell's own story he came under the spell of the woman's charms through an advertisement.

Posing as an unmarried woman owning large tracts of land in California, the woman first interested Fense in a business proposition to stock one of her ranches with cattle, and then, exerting her personal influence, led him on to believe she might be induced to marry him. Thus Fresell became a constant visitor at her house, making payments in large sums upon her cattle proposition, under the belief that he had encountered an ideal wife. Fresell's plans toward the nuptials had gone so far that part of the trousseau had been selected and the trunks for the honeymoon had been bought and sent to her address.

Believed to Be Eastern Crooks.

Little is known by the police of the woman or of the man who accompanies her, but from information received of the manner in which Fresell was handled, it is believed the pair are experienced bunco people from the East. The woman was careful not to give her fiance a photograph of herself, and so far Detective Carpenter has been obliged to work on a verbal description of her only.

During the first week in September the couple secured room and board at 387 Third street. Here they were known as Mr. and Mrs. Fense. The man was a good-looking fellow of about 35 and Queenie Fense, as she called herself to Fresell, was about 30. She told Fresell she was 37, evidently with the intention of having it appear that there was not too great a difference between their ages to be a bar to their marriage. Neither the man nor the woman worked and both appeared to have plenty of money. She is described as being about 5 feet 6 inches tall, of dark complexion, weighing about 150 pounds. Although she is said to have had a large nose, flat on the tip, all who saw her said she was a woman of more than ordinary attractiveness. She dressed in stylish clothing of fine material and spoke with an accent of culture.

On September 12 she inserted the following ad: "Young woman wants partner with $3000." Fresell answered the ad, thinking he was on the track perhaps of a profitable business investment. At this time Mrs. Fense was living at the boarding house at 387 Third street. When Fresell called, Fense hid himself on the porch outside the woman's window and was the prompter of the scenes that followed in which Fresell was gradually led from being a prospective investor to an ardent wooer willing to part with his money to please the whims of his inamorata.

Appears as Perfect Lady.

Mrs. Fense, says Fresell, received him in the most proper and dignified demeanor at first, all of which led him to believe she was as she represented herself.

At the first visit the woman said she owned several thousand acres of land in California, in fact, that she was land poor. She owned several ranches, she said, but could not work these places without capital which she was unable to secure without mortgaging or sacrificing some of her land and she did not feel willing to run this risk. She had planned to put a large number of cattle on one ranch in San Luis Obispo County, she said, and in fact had already paid down $750 on a herd in Washington, but was without the funds to close the deal. She wanted someone to go into partnership with her on these cattle, supplying the money for their purchase and taking security in the cattle and upon the land she owned.

Fresell said he would consider the matter and made an appointment to return again. The tale told by the woman was so plausible at the second visit that Fresell returned for a third and by this time found himself listening in open-mouthed wonder to, as he supposed modest confession that she was tired of looking after her large ranches alone and would marry a good man if some kind fate should only throw one into her path. From then on Fresell admits he was her devoted slave.

Lives With Man in Flat.

It also developed about this time the woman began to fear Fresell would discover she was living at the boarding house with her paramour and they moved to a flat at 396 Seventh street. Fresell then proposed and was accepted. The woman shyly confessed that she hadn't sufficient money to provide herself with wedding clothes, and a $75 dress was bought for her. After that Fresell, believing that the herd of cattle in Washington really existed, although he had never seen them, gave her money in large sums to send to the cattle owner.

Between October 1 and October 5 Fresell, in daily sums ranging from $100 to $500, gave his enchantress $1200, all of which he supposed was going to pay for the cattle. On October 6 when he called at the Fense flat there was no reply to his summons at the door. He left somewhat crestfallen. After several days in which he could get no reply from the Fense apartment, it began to dawn upon him that he had been "stung." He rushed to the boarding house where he had first met the woman and began making inquiries. Here it was he learned that the "Mr." Fense, who had been kept so carefully in the background, had lived there openly with her as his wife. Fresell then sought the police with his story.

Always Careful Before.

"How in the world I let the woman dupe me in that way is more than I can understand," said he, regretfully. "I have always been a careful man with my money, because I started out in life as a laborer and worked hard in lumber camps and with railroads. For years I was a foreman for the O. R. & N. Company, and my money was saved only after hard labor. She must have hypnotized me. It is a good thing I have a few more thousands left or I would have to go back to day labor again. She was a smooth woman, I tell you. She had me so badly fooled I did not stop to think long enough to investigate any of her statements. When I think that her man was outside that window and heard all our love scenes it makes me feel sick. I respected the woman because she acted like a lady and it was only after she had been gone several days that I reluctantly came to the conclusion I had been worked."

Fresell left the city yesterday morning for a lumber camp near this city where he has a large gang. He left the case in the hands of the police, saying his presence in Portland would not help the investigation. Inquiry showed that Mrs. Fense and her partner had their baggage removed to the depot and had purchased two tickets to Spokane. The police are trying to trace them from there on.

SUCCESSFUL PASTOR GUEST AT RECEPTION.

Rev. E. H. Mowre, of First Methodist Church, South.

A reception was given last night to Rev. E. H. Mowre, pastor of the First Methodist Church, South, on Union avenue and Multnomah street, in recognition of his remarkable achievement since he came to Portland, as well as an expression of pleasure over his being returned to the Portland church for another year. Rev. Mr. Mowre came to Portland six years ago when there was a small congregation, and now members worship in one of the finest stone churches in the state, costing $75,000. The reception was under the auspices of the Ladies' Missionary Society. Dr. Clarence True Wilson, of Centenary Methodist Church; Dr. Luther R. Dyott, of the First Congressional Church, and Dr. H. K. Higgs made addresses.

CLARK COUNTY SEEKS OIL

Flow of Salt Water Is Encountered at Depth of 800 Feet.

VANCOUVER, Wash., Oct. 12.—(Special.)—Believing that oil underlies the strata of Clark County, a well is being drilled and is now down 800 feet.

The well is being drilled at Wilson sawmill, 25 miles north of this city. When a depth of 800 feet, or 600 feet below sea level, was reached a heavy artesian flow of salt water spouted forth.

The welldrillers are of the opinion that oil is not far distant. At Astoria, which is practically sea level, oil was struck at 800 feet below the surface of the ocean. The rock and formation in the well in Clark County is identical with that in Astoria.

MEYERS TO PLEAD TODAY

Slayer of Tom Eckhart Is Expected to Answer "Not Guilty."

SALEM, Or., Oct. 12.—(Special.)—George Meyers, slayer of Patrolman Tom Eckhart, was arraigned in Circuit Court this morning. The indictment charging him with murder in the first degree was read to him by District Attorney McNary. The defendant was given the customary day to plead, and it is considered certain that when he is brought into court tomorrow morning he will plead not guilty.

Meyers was pale, but composed, and shows but little trace of his ten days' flight through the woods, following the killing of Eckhart.

PASTOR WILL COME

Dr. Parsons Accepts Call to Third Presbyterian.

BIG PROJECT IS ON FOOT

Members of Denomination in Central East Side May Soon Unite in Erecting Building That Will Cost $100,000.

Rev. William Parsons, D. D., of Beaver Falls, Pa., has accepted the call to become pastor of the Third Presbyterian Church, East Thirteenth and East Pine Streets, this city. Word to this effect was received yesterday by E. C. Herlow, convener of the committee appointed by the Third Church congregation to take charge of the call. The telegram received by Mr. Herlow from Dr. Parsons reads as follows: "Call accepted. Be with you probably November 18. Have written."

The vacancy at the Third Church pastorate was occasioned by the acceptance of a call by Rev. Andrew J. Montgomery to become the pastor of a Presbyterian Church at Oak Grove, Chicago, and Mr. Montgomery left last Monday to assume his new duties. Other Presbyterian churches in various cities, especially in Pittsburg, have been after Dr. Parsons for some time past to become their pastor, and among these applicants are also Presbyterians in this city who hoped to start a new Presbyterian Church on Portland Heights. But the Third Church congregation won out.

Dr. Parsons became more intimately known to Portland people during the earlier portion of the present year when he temporarily filled the pastoral duties of Hawthorne Presbyterian Church, East Twelfth and East Taylor streets, the pastor, Rev. E. Nelson Allen, then being traveling in the Holy Land. Dr. Parsons is known as one of the most promising preachers of the Presbyterian Church in the United States and as a brilliant lecturer at Chautauquas.

The Third Church congregation prosecuted the call with vigor, and during the past few days telegrams and letters have been sent to Dr. Parsons, urging him to come to Portland, by Wilson Benefiel, S. N. Steele and E. C. Herlow, representing the Third Church; H. L. Chapin, Fletcher Linn and H. W. Stone, general secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association of this city. Dr. Foulkes, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church here, preached last Sunday at Shady Side Presbyterian Church, Pittsburg, Pa., and it is understood that Dr. Foulkes presented the appeal of the Third Church congregation to Dr. Parsons at a meeting held yesterday at Fort Pitt Hotel, Pittsburg. It is likely also that Dr. Parsons made up his mind to become a Portland resident as a result of this conference.

Those who are behind the movement to bring Dr. Parsons here say that it is hoped before very long to build a church building of stone, to cost $100,000, in Central East Portland, as a church home for Presbyterians in that section of the city, and that as a step to secure this end the congregations of the Third and Hawthorne Presbyterian Churches will eventually amalgamate. It is not known yet whether Dr. Parsons or Rev. E. Nelson Allen will become the pastor of this new church. It is considered, however, that the present locations of both churches referred to, while they are valuable holdings from a real estate standpoint, do not present sufficient opportunities for growth, and that a new central church ought to be organized nearer the home section.

FLOUTS MAJORITY OPINION

Correspondent Gives Arguments Opposing Vaccination.

HOOD RIVER, Or., Oct. 11.—(To the Editor.)—Having read The Oregonian's editorial on the Supreme Court decision in the McFadden case at Seattle, Wash., I ask that in fairness I be allowed to present undisputed facts on the other side of the vaccination question.

Under The Oregonian's category of "empty heads," "silly people," "cranks" and "fanatics," must be classed Herbert Spencer, Alfred Russell Wallace, Sir Benjamin Ward Richardson, John Bright, Daniel Webster, Professor Francis W. Newman, of Oxford, William White, the historian, Edgar M. Crookshank, D. D., professor of pathology and bacteriology, King's College, London, also 180 members of the present British Parliament, and many hundreds of regular practicing physicians in this country. For all of these and hundreds of other reputable names have gone on record as opponents of compulsory vaccination.

Dr. J. McKenzie, Senior Fellow of the Royal College of Physicians, Edinburgh, said in a speech in 1882: "I ought to be ashamed to confess that for many a year I was a busy vaccinating fool. . . . I followed the multitude to do evil. The medicos are now howling for fear of losing vaccination and its consequent fees, and the people are howling for their murdered children."

"After collecting the particulars of 400,000 cases of smallpox I am compelled to admit that my belief in vaccination is absolutely destroyed." was the testimony of Dr. A. Vogt, Sanitary Statistician, Berne University, Switzerland.

"Vaccination is the most gigantic piece of quackery ever exploited among a civilized people," declares Dr. Walter R. Hadwen, of Gloucester, England.

"Vaccination does not stay the spread of smallpox, nor even modify it," says Dr. Walter M. James, of Philadelphia.

Scores of equally strong statements from scientific men could be quoted if space permitted, and it must be remembered that nearly all the medical opponents have become such, against early instruction and prejudice which they have had to unlearn, and against their own pecuniary interests, which suffer in consequence. It pays to vaccinate. It costs to oppose vaccination.

Nevertheless, the present writer feels with Dr. W. T. Brigham, Curator of the Bishop Museum at Honolulu, who wrote here in 1902: "I should regard any attempt to vaccinate me as a most deadly assault and should treat it accordingly."

If one does not own one's blood, then he owns nothing. As for the claim that anti-vaccinists must be vaccinated as a protection to believers in the practice, it is absurd. If a man gets vaccinated, he has all the protection vaccination can give, and has no right to demand my vaccination to protect him. If his own does not save him, mine could not.

It is a pretty safe rule to follow that the editor of a great medical journal laid down: "When a man wants to compel you to think or act as he says, he wants to exploit you in some way. He is a monumental egotist, governed entirely by selfish motives. Pay no attention to him." L. C. L.

CHARGE OF THEFT MADE

R. M. Lee and Wife Arrested for Stealing From Mrs. M. J. Cram.

R. M. Lee, a barber 27 years old, and Anna Lee, his wife, 22 years old, who have been acting as caretakers of a house at 321 Seventh street, were arrested yesterday afternoon upon a warrant charging larceny. The complainant against them is Kirk Hoover, a coal and wood dealer at 313 Water street. Hoover leases the building from Mrs. M. J. Cram, sister to Judge George H. Williams. He sublets it in apartments. Mrs. Cram formerly occupied the building as her residence, but recently went to California. Stored in the attic she left two trunks filled with an assortment of valuable clothing and bric-a-brac.

These two trunks were broken open a short time ago and about $300 worth of goods taken out. Mr. Hoover learned of the theft and began an investigation. He learned from tenants in the building that Lee and his wife had been in the attic and the Lee rooms were visited yesterday morning. Here a number of things taken from the trunks were found. Hoover was unable to recover all of the stolen articles, so swore out a warrant. The Lees positively averred they had nothing else, but when Mrs. Lee was searched by Matron Simmons a valuable bolt of silk was found hidden under her clothing.

THE first public performance by the dramatic section of the St. Joseph's Society was given last night with great success before a large audience at Windhorst Hall, Fifteenth and Couch streets. The entertainment was in the nature of a comedy-drama, entitled "Border Land." The cast had been selected with evident care, and the production possessed smoothness and finish. The costuming and stage settings were of noteworthy interest.

Perhaps the best character work was done by William Schaefer, who portrayed a trio role most capably. Dr. A. J. Kaufman in the part of a New York politician contributed much of the humor, as did also Jack Jenny, the black-face comedian. Miss Theresa Schwartzbeck was particularly fetching in her role as an elderly spinster, but she looked a score of years younger than the role called for. Miss Emma Oblasser, who was seen in the part of Polly, the hero's sweetheart, made an attractive picture in her cowgirl costume, and won much praise. Miss Catherine Oblasser, as Winona, the Indian girl gave a faithful portrayal of a difficult part, and Miss Lucille Funke was charming as an aristocratic damsel from New York. The hero was the weakest feature of the play. Others in the cast who did acceptable work were Thomas Schneider, who tickled the risibilities of the audience; Frank Bruch as a bandit and outlaw, and Louis Escle in the role of a private gentleman. Excellent musical numbers by Tyrolean singers were given between the first and second acts, with an especially effective tableau as a finale.

Answer This Question

When shown positive and reliable proof that a certain remedy had cured numerous cases of female ills, wouldn't any sensible woman conclude that the same remedy would also benefit her if suffering with the same trouble?

Here are two letters which prove the efficiency of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Red Banks, Miss. — "Words are inadequate to express what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I suffered from a female disease and weakness which the doctors said was caused by a fibroid tumor, and I commenced to think there was no help for me. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made me a well woman after all other means had failed. My friends are all asking what has helped me so much, and I gladly recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. Willie Edwards.

Hampstead, Maryland.—"Before taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was weak and nervous, and could not be on my feet half a day without suffering. The doctors told me I never would be well without an operation, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done more for me than all the doctors, and I hope this valuable medicine may come into the hands of many more suffering women." — Mrs. Joseph H. Dandy.

We will pay a handsome reward to any person who will prove to us that these letters are not genuine and truthful —or that either of these women were paid in any way for their testimonials, or that the letters are published without their permission, or that the original letter from each did not come to us entirely unsolicited.

What more proof can any one ask?

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

FOR EVERY ILL THERE IS A CAUSE

But Many Tired, Rheumatic, Nervous People Don't Know How to Find It.

Persons who at middle age should feel the full strength and energy of youth are often rheumatic, nervous, irritable and inclined to worry too much. There are spells of utter weariness, life is made miserable by constant lameness and dull backache and sleep is disturbed with pain and distressing urinary disorders.

You have tried to shake this off and wonder why you can't. Probably you have missed the hidden cause—sick kidneys. Prompt treatment with Doan's Kidney Pills would right things quickly.

An active life weakens the kidneys and something must be done to stimulate the little filters of the blood—to keep them working as they should.

Every day of your life the blood gathers up a dangerous amount of uric poison, and if the kidneys do not pass it all off with the urine, there is bound to be serious trouble. Uric acid weights the blood, clogs the circulation, weakens the heart, dulls the brain, irritates the nerves and forms little jagged crystals in the muscles and joints that cause acute pain when these parts are moved. These pains you know as sciatica, rheumatism, lumbago, gout or neuralgia, according to where they occur.

Uric acid grains are seen as sediment in the urine. Passages become irregular, scanty and painful. Night calls annoy and weary you. Bloating occurs in time, agonizing attacks of gravel, and there is danger of running into dropsy, stone in the kidney, diabetes or Bright's disease.

Don't allow the kidney trouble to get worse. Start using Doan's Kidney Pills, which have cured thousands and must surely help you.

PORTLAND PROOF.

Mrs. A. M. Hollabaugh, 328 Grant Street, Portland, Or., says: "For two or three years my kidneys were disordered and caused me much annoyance. Unlike most cases, I did not suffer a great deal from backache, being bothered principally by irregular and painful passages of the kidney secretions. Learning about Doan's Kidney Pills, I procured a supply at the Laue-Davis Drug Co. I soon felt their beneficial effects and after I had finished the contents of one box, my condition had improved in every way. I hold a very high opinion of Doan's Kidney Pills and cheerfully recommend them."
