PECULIAR ACTIONS TOLD OF ON STAND

Many Witnesses Called in Collins Trial to Support Insanity Theory.

WOMAN IS INTERESTED

Accused Widow of Dead Doctor Is More Composed Than Before and at Times Starts to Interrupt Testimony — Frisbie Talks.

When Circuit Judge Gatens adjourned court last night, several witnesses for the defense in the murder trial of Mrs. Kate M. Collins had been placed on the witness stand, each one saying that he or she believed Mrs. Collins crazy at the time her husband, Dr. Ray A. Collins, was shot.

The state rested its case just after court convened for the afternoon session. The case may go to the jury late this afternoon or tomorrow morning. Mrs. Collins seemed more composed during the trial yesterday than at any time since she has been in court. She seemed interested in the testimony of the witnesses, and at one time started to her feet as though she would like to reply to something a witness had said. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Garber, her daughter and son-in-law, were by her side, stroking her hand occasionally, and in every way endeavoring to keep her as calm as possible. Once or twice she laid her head upon her daughter's shoulder, as though very tired of it all.

Witness Tells of Peculiarities.

Mrs. Mabel W. Ashley, a cousin of Mark Van Winkle, Mrs. Collins' first husband, was the first witness for the defense. She had known Mrs. Collins for the last 25 years, she said, and recalled a time, 20 years ago, when Mrs. Collins was ill at the home of her father, P. L. Willis. "Mrs. Collins insisted that someone sit by the bed at night to keep her awake," said Mrs. Ashley, "as she said she would not awaken if allowed to sleep. Once she came hurriedly up to me and shouted in my face that she was the devil. I tried to convince her that she was not. She thought herself very wicked, and said she had murdered someone. I was not afraid of her, but thought she would bear watching. Other members of the family were afraid of her."

Mrs. Irene Willis, Mrs. Ashley's mother, told of a key which Mrs. Collins held very tightly in her hand. "I slept with her, and tried to take it away after Mrs. Collins had dozed off," said Mrs. Willis, "but I could not. She jumped up once while we were eating dinner and said the world was coming to an end. Mrs. Willis was cross-examined at length by Deputy District Attorney Fitzgerald.

Joseph Thwaites, a photographer, W. H. Grindstaff, a local real estate dealer, and Mrs. A. M. Blair, wife of J. W. Blair, who resides at the Hill, were also called to testify regarding Mrs. Collins' mental condition. They thought her insane when she did the murder, as did Mrs. Ashley and Mrs. Willis. Mrs. Blair thought Mrs. Collins did not know the difference between right and wrong at the time of the shooting. She saw her the day before, she said. M. L. Kline, wholesale plumber, said that he expected years ago that Mrs. Collins would either become ill or insane on account of the high tension she was under in having to support her two children single-handed. He said she told him three or four times she was being done up by somebody, but he could never find out to whom she referred.

Dr. Frisbie on Stand.

Dr. C. B. Frisbie was the chief witness for the state yesterday morning, but will be called by the defense today to say that he believes Mrs. Collins was insane when the murder was committed. This is said to be contrary to the statement he made to the grand jury just before Mrs. Collins was indicted. Dr. Frisbie said Mrs. Collins telephoned him about 8:30 on the morning of June 24, just after the shooting, and told him to "come quick, not to waste a moment." He said he tried to find out the trouble, but failing, hired a taxicab. As he neared the house at 722 Flanders street, he said he saw Mrs. Collins in the doorway, wildly waving her arms, and saying, "Come in, come in; he's gone, he's gone."

"I took her by the arm," continued Dr. Frisbie, "and asked her where he was. She said, 'In the basement.' Still holding her arm, I descended the cellar stairs, and found the body lying a few feet away. I passed one hand over the body to see if Dr. Collins was dead, still holding to Mrs. Collins' wrist. The body was still warm. She asked, 'I suppose you want to know why I did it.' I told her not to talk. Then she began to wail. 'He was so unmanly.'

"I asked her where the revolver was, and she said, 'In the trunk.' I opened it and saw the revolver. Mrs. Collins tried to reach it, but I knocked her hand down. Perhaps that accounts for the black and blue mark on her arm at the time." The physician said she had a wild look in her eye, her talk was incoherent, and she fainted.

Autopsy Is Described.

Dr. B. J. Wiley, who performed the autopsy, said the bullet entered Dr. Collins' right chest, pierced the apex of the lung, the aorta, and passed out the left side. The coat and tie were powder burned.

Detective Snow, who took Mrs. Collins into custody, said she was very nervous, and had to be supported to be kept from falling. She continually asked him to bring Dr. Collins back, he said, and rolled her eyes about. He testified she told him she didn't remember anything, and later said her husband had abused her and had spent $3000 of her money in a trip to Honolulu. "I asked her if she did the shooting, and she answered, 'If you say so it must be so, I must have done it.' Detective Snow identified the revolver early yesterday afternoon, and said when he found it he could tell by the odor that it had been recently fired. Coroner Dunning was among yesterday morning's witnesses.

RUIN OF HOME IS ALLEGED

Albert Cox Seeks $20,000 Damages From Charles Harrington.

Charles Harrington is accused by Albert Cox in a complaint on file in the Circuit Court of having poisoned the mind of Mrs. Mary Cox, so that she has transferred her affections from her husband to Harrington. Cox demands $20,000 damages, $10,000 for the loss of his wife, and $10,000 punitive damages. He married her June 19, last.

Cox says he and his wife were very happy when they were married, and would have continued so except that Harrington took a dislike to him, pretended to be infatuated with Mrs. Cox, and secretly wrote loving letters by which he coaxed her away.

Scenic Railway Is Sued.

Injuries which were sustained in an accident on the scenic railway on Council Crest are made the basis of a damage suit in the Circuit Court, brought by H. H. Buckman, through Attorney G. G. Schmitt. He demands $5185 of the L. A. Thompson Scenic Railway Company. He was thrown from a car August 12, he says, and was obliged to pay a physician $75 for seven days' treatment. His loss in wages, he alleges, amounted to $80, and his clothing, worth $50, was damaged.

VAUGHN GETS FOUR MONTHS

Assaulter of Wife's Escort Sentenced by Judge Bronaugh.

C. C. Vaughn, real estate broker, divorced man and assailant of A. Kunkel, Mrs. Vaughn's escort, was sentenced by Presiding Judge Bronaugh in the Circuit Court yesterday afternoon to serve four months in the County Jail. He pleaded guilty several months ago to the assault charge. After pleading, he was released on his own recognizance, with the understanding that he would leave the state. He left, but returned, and was rearrested after the receipt by his wife and Mrs. Lola G. Baldwin of two packages of poisoned tea.

Vaughn's assault on Kunkel took place on Portland Heights. Vaughn crept up behind his wife's escort and hit him with a gaspipe wrapped in a newspaper. Kunkel caught the blow on his arm, and turning, gave Vaughn a terrible drubbing. A deputy sheriff, who was passing on a streetcar, stopped the fight.

DRUNKENESS CHARGED BY TWO

Mrs. T. A. Hennelly and Mrs. E. F. Browne Seek Divorce.

Tired of having the slumbers of herself and two children disturbed by a drunken husband coming home late at night, Mrs. Dora Morris Hennelly has brought a divorce suit in the Circuit Court against Thomas A. Hennelly. She accuses him of cruelty, alleging that he assaulted and beat her. The couple married at Vancouver, Wash., February 18, 1906. Mrs. Hennelly wants $25 a month alimony, $100 attorney's fees, and $50 suit money, besides the custody of the children.

Frankie T. Browne alleges that Edwin F. Browne has failed to support her, compelling her to provide for her own wearing apparel and other necessaries. He is a habitual drunkard, she alleges. They were married September 25, 1905.

MEDFORD TO GET U. S. COURT

Judge Wolverton to Hear Three Damage Suits There Soon.

Three damage suits against the Southern Pacific Railway Company will be heard in Medford by United States Judge Wolverton, beginning October 18, in open session. The occasion will mark the first open session of the United States Court to be held in that city. All three civil cases to be heard at Medford will not occupy much time in presentation and may be disposed of in two afternoons.

Not until the middle of November will any trial or grand juries in the United States Court be impaneled. This was decided yesterday, Judge Wolverton announcing he would call a grand jury about November 15 instead of November 3, as previously intended.

RAILROAD COMPANY MUST PAY

Damages Allowed for Furniture Burned in Transit.

The Drexel Hotel Company will recover $2500 from the Oregon Short Line Railroad Company, according to the verdict of a jury in Judge Gantenbein's department of the Circuit Court, which has been trying the suit. The hotel company sued for $5100.

A consignment of furniture was shipped from Portland to Vale to a new hotel there. The freightcar was burned on the way, and the company demanded damages. The railroad company refused to pay the sum asked, alleging a part of the goods was misclassified, and that for these the company could not be held responsible.

Architect Sues Henry.

Francis J. Berndt, an architect, brought suit in Circuit Court yesterday against Charles K. Henry, D. W. Amsden and E. H. Parker. Berndt alleges he was employed in August, 1908, to draw plans for the six-story brick store and office building at Fourth and Couch streets, to cost $125,000, and that he was also to superintend its construction. He says he was discharged last March and asserts $6250 was owing him, of which $2441 was paid, leaving a balance due of $3808. Besides this he demands $400 attorney's fees. He says Amsden and Parker claim an interest in the building.

INDICTED MAN DEFENDS

ATTORNEY ACCUSED OF LAND-FRAUD, FENCERS' COUNSEL.

J. H. Raley Pleads Guilty for Anton and Joe Vey—Each Fined $150 for Inclosure.

Resting under an indictment accusing him of land-fraud, an attorney yesterday pleaded guilty for two of his clients accused of fencing Government land illegally. This was the novel scene enacted before United States Judge Wolverton, Attorney James H. Raley being the barrister in the odd case and Anton and Joe Vey, brothers, the defendants. Each was fined $150.

Attorney Raley is the foremost of 15 citizens of Umatilla County accused of conspiring to defraud the United States by procuring Government land illegally, and it is through his alleged connection with the Umatilla defendants that the batch of indictments has been called the "Raley case." This case is scheduled for trial early next month, and it has been hinted that the pleas of the defendants will be unique.

Anton and Joe Vey, the unlawful fencers taxed $300 for the offense yesterday, are sheepmen of Pendleton and were indicted for inclosing 400 acres of Government land in Umatilla County. United States Attorney McCourt recommended the leniency of the court owing to the small amount of land illegally fenced by them and other mitigating circumstances.

STRAUS CASE IS POSTPONED

Defense's Briefs on Motion for New Trial Due Friday.

Set for hearing yesterday in the United States District Court, the motion for a new trial filed by C. A. Straus was deferred until next Friday, when his attorneys were directed to present their briefs. The case will then be taken under advisement and a decision on the motion will probably follow in a few days.

Straus was formerly financial clerk of the postoffice and was found guilty of failing to deposit United States postal funds.

PRIZES ARE SOUGHT

Oregon After Awards at Dry Farming Congress.

MANY PLANNING TO ATTEND

Trophies Hung Up by James J. Hill Incentive to Central Oregon Residents for Advertising of Section That Is Expected.

It seems assured that a large delegation from the Deschutes Valley will attend the National Dry Farming Congress at Billings, October 26 to October 28. H. A. Jackson, assistant general freight and passenger agent for the Great Northern in Portland, has received acknowledgement from 10 or 12 delegates who have signified their intention of going to Billings, saying they will send exhibits to compete for the prizes which James J. Hill, chairman of the board of directors of the Great Northern, has offered for the best exhibits of farm products grown in the Deschutes Valley of Oregon, Washington east of the Cascades, and Montana.

One of these special prizes is a silver cup for each state, which the Oregonians hope to win. They are also of the opinion that they can win the silver cup for the best individual exhibit of Turkey Red variety of Winter wheat, as well as some of the cash prizes. If Oregon is successful in carrying off any of these prizes it will increase land values in Central Oregon, as nothing else can do, it is thought, and for that reason delegates from all over Oregon are making a special effort to be present to boost for Oregon in general.

The following have signified their intention to attend the congress: J. G. Edwards, Hay Creek; I. S. Geer, Burns; C. A. Danneman, Clem; C. T. Oliver, Klamath Falls; William T. Campbell and Ralph Benge, Lexington; D. A. McAllister, La Grande; A. V. Swift, Baker City; C. E. Bradley, Corvallis; T. M. Baldwin, Prineville; J. M. Patterson, The Dalles; A. M. Drake, Bend; W. W. Brown, Hisler; G. Springer, Culver.

The National Dry Farming Exposition, which will be one of the most important features of the congress, and which is open to any part of the State of Oregon, will include not only products of non-irrigated lands, but also up-to-date machinery which is particularly adapted to dry farming operations. Exhibitors may become members upon payment of $1 and membership blanks may be secured from J. T. Burns, secretary, Billings, Mont.

VISIT WILL NOT BE EXTENDED

No Entertainment Is Planned for Street Railway Men.

President Josselyn, of the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company, has given up all efforts to induce the visiting delegation of the Massachusetts Street Railway Association to extend its itinerary in Portland. The delegation, which will arrive here at 7:10 A. M., October 15, and depart at noon the same day, with 80 representatives, is giving Portland the shortest stay of any city of any importance along the line. President Josselyn has done all in his power to induce the travelers to give Portland a longer visit, telling them that in five hours but a part of the city could be shown. In view of the fact that the other cities are being given from a day to three days, and that the Portland stay will not be lenghened, nothing in the way of entertainment of the delegates will be attempted here.

The party will be in Seattle for three days, three days in Los Angeles, a day in Santa Barbara, a day and a half in El Paso, one day in Houston, two days in New Orleans and so on all along the line. Portland has evidently been considered off the map by the Easterners and the local railroad officials do not like the way their overtures for a longer visit were treated.

Railroad Row Personals.

C. C. Crane, Pacific Coast Passenger agent of the New York Central lines, of San Francisco, visited among railroad men yesterday.

John F. Stevens, president of the Oregon Trunk Railroad, has returned from St. Paul.

J. Woodworth, traffic manager of the Northern Pacific Railway, with offices in St. Paul, was a Portland visitor yesterday.

C. A. Donnelly, Northern Pacific attorney at St. Paul, visited the local railroad offices yesterday.

Electric Building Nears Completion.

The new Electric building, now under construction at the northeast corner of Seventh and Alder streets, will be ready for occupancy by the general offices of the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company January 1, according to President Josselyn. The entire building will not be completed by that time, however, merely the five lower floors, which will be occupied by the railway and lighting company. The four upper floors of the building, which will be rented as general office rooms, will not be completed and ready for occupancy until March 1.

ETHER A PERFECT MEDIUM

Phenomena Discussed by Reference to Wendell Holmes.

WOODSTOCK, Or., Oct. 12.—(To the Editor.)—This year of 1909 is the centenary of that great American physicist, poet and essayist, Oliver Wendell Holmes. He was a shining light in Harvard University from 1847 to 1882.

Educated and refined men and women in all parts of the world have derived many useful mental suggestions from his beautiful writings about the spiritual side of man, from which alone can be realized the intimate relationship existing between the father of all spirit life and each of us his offspring. I think one of Holmes' most attractive and inspiring hymns, (which appeared in "The Professor at the Breakfast Table" in 1859), is that which exhibits the poet's conception of the intimate relationship in love and sympathy of the spirit-father with the life of spirit-man on earth:

"O love divine that stooped to share
Our sharpest pang, our bitterest tear,
On thee we cast each earth-born care
We smile at pain while thou are near."

An old and much beloved friend of mine, Rev. Charles Voysey, of the Theistic Church in London, who wished to have this beautiful hymn in his church prayer book, wrote to Holmes in 1871 to request his permission to allow the verb "stooped" to be altered to "stoops," in order to convey the consciousness of the unceasing presence and sympathy of divine love. Holmes most cordially gave his assent to this request; so the first line of the verse reads: "O love divine that stoops to share."

Surely all thoughtful minds will agree in thinking this alteration from the past to the present tense most appropriate and welcome. The recognition by many leading scientists of today of the marvelous nature of ether as a possible perfect medium for the transference of psychical thought and phenomena, has surely a momentous basis for our innate conception of the relationship existing between the spiritual and the physical sides of human life on earth.

Love, faith and hope are the attributes of the mind of the inward-man; each has the energy of movement, and for movement must have some perfect medium to effect a contact. This refined medium for spiritual contact cannot be found in ordinary matter or in earth's atmosphere. The perfection in the qualities of ether for the movement of thought and its expression in near and far-off contact, if true and perceptible (as I for one believe), afford additional emphasis to the meaning of many of our purely intellectual, affectionate and religious terms. For example, inspiration means a creation of thought, and as thought implies energy and movement, it requires a frictionless, vacuumless and pulsatile medium or pathway.

Job says, "the inspiration of the Almighty giveth them understanding." Holmes expresses inspiration in a beautiful way: "Childhood that weeps at the story of suffering, that shudders at the picture of wrong, brings down its inspiration from God, who is our home." Communion and prayer are other very expressive terms; involving the need of a perfect medium. The "Lord's Prayer—Our Father," common to the Jew and the Christian, to be properly appreciated, requires the acceptance of this perfect pulsatile medium of contact with the spirit-father. The communion between the departed human soul's and those still on the physical side of life, which so many believe in, also requires this connecting link. The Apostles' Creed, used in the English and American Episcopal Churches, has this clause in it: "I believe in the communion of saints (or spirits)." What spiritual use would this clause be to the members of this church, if they did not realize the truth of this intercourse? What good is the Christian faith in the constant care of guardian or ministering angel-spirits, without this link or medium of contact?

True, indeed, is that old scientific dictum, "Nature abhors a vacuum." Ether proves the absolute truth of this. Throughout this earth and all material worlds, and throughout all space, this mother-medium has not a void in her. She and electricity, combined in infinite forms, constitute all that we know as physical matter in objects great and small.

As the streets, halls and dwellings of our cities are now made as light as daylight with the new light of electricity, we may rest in hope that the new light science is developing in the realms of ether and electricity will remove the many nightmares with which gross ignorance and religious dogmas have infested the human mind. With these new thoughts and new knowledge about ether and electricity in connection with our spiritual and physical being, we may better appreciate the following words which Jesus addressed to his disciples: "Blessed are the eyes which see the things that ye see; for many prophets and kings have desired to see those things which ye see, and have not seen them; and to hear those things which ye hear, and have not heard them."

SCALP ITCHED AND BURNED FOR YEARS

Child of Four Would Scratch Her Head for Hours—When Fifteen It Got Worse—Hair Came Off in Spots—Hundreds of Dollars Spent in Vain—Cuticura Soothed Like Cold Water on a Burn and

CUTICURA REMEDIES CURED HER AT LAST

"When I was four years old a humor came out on my scalp. It would make a thick scab in one night, itching and burning terribly. My father spent many hundreds of dollars trying to find a doctor who could cure this humor, but none of them could ever help it even a little bit. At the age of fifteen years I had the measles, and after that the sore became maturated and I had to soak my hair out before I could comb it. My hair came off in spots and my head was in a bad shape.

"About this time a friend of my father suggested he try Cuticura for me. My father took this advice and bought the Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Resolvent. I used them faithfully and to my surprise they stopped the itching at once, like cold water to a burn. In a week my head was clean from the scab but was very red and inflamed, but I had experienced more relief from the terrible itching and burning than ever before. I did not expect to be cured, as I thought that nothing could do that, but I had to use something all the time and Cuticura was cheaper than doctors.

"After some time, to my surprise, I awoke to the fact that my head was cured. It was as free from the disease as though I had never suffered. I am now forty-two and have never had any sign of my old trouble since I was cured. I owe health, happiness and life to Cuticura. Every one thought it was incurable. I used to dream sometimes that I was cured but thought it never could be, but Cuticura made the dream come true. Fancy a child sitting up in bed until ten or eleven o'clock scratching her head! I couldn't help it either, the itching was so terrible, night and day. It is a wonder I lived through it, but I can prove all I have written by my old neighbors. Mrs. Florence E. Ames Getchell, Box 503, Hallowell, Me., Feb. 9 and 13, 1909."

IRON MONSTER IS FEARED

Farmers' Horses Take Dislike to Traction Engine on Highways.

GRANTS PASS, Or., Oct. 12.—(Special.)—Petitions are being circulated throughout the rural communities in this county seeking relief through the County Court to enjoin and restrain the owners of a traction engine and lumber trucks from monopolizing the highway between Love's Station and Grants Pass.

The controversy over which the people are seeking redress arose out of the efforts of Spaulding Bros., a lumber company, to convey the products of their mill from Loves Station to Grants Pass by means of a traction engine and trucks. Farmers complain for the reason the machine will frighten the average horse beyond control, and under the present circumstances a farmer's wife or child is unable to take the old farm horse and drive to town after the family supplies or to market the produce.

The lumber train in action occupies a space of ten feet or more in width, and as the road from the Applegate bridge to Loves Station is mountainous, the portion suitable to be traveled on is barely sufficient to supply the public needs.
