Charged With Indiscretion in Telling State Secrets, He Strikes Back.

APPEALS DIRECT TO TAFT

ing Mr. Crane's references to his failure to keep appointments meet with him. Minister Crane's Defense.

Mr. Crane's statement is as follows: "The statement issued by the Department of State is slightly in error in saying that the Secretary has informed me that my resignation will be accepted. The letter I received from Mr. Knox at noon today says he has recommended to the President that the President accept my resignation. Before this letter had been received by me I had already sent to the President, through his secretary, Mr. Carpenter, the following telegram: "Direct Appeal to Taft.

"Washington, Oct. 12.—President W. H. Taft: The State Department objects to certain things I have done in the effort to carry out my understanding of your wishes. I have carefully considered the entire matter. In my judgment no mistake has been made, except as the Department has made it a mistake to do so and cannot guarantee to make no mistakes, and especially unless I have the cordial support and co-operation of the Government.

"The manner in which the Department has proceeded and is proceeding is inconsistent with my own self-respect and my conception of the dignity of the position and with the understanding upon which I accepted. I appreciate the personal consideration I have received from you and under all the circumstances I have decided to await information as to your wishes before taking action. You will understand, of course, that my resignation is in your hands. (Signed.)

"CHARLES R. CRANE."

Says Mistake Was Knox's.

"The statement of the Department is further inaccurate in saying that I gave out a newspaper story about the preparation of a protest in Japan. It would have been more accurate if the statement had said, as was indicated in its closing paragraph, that a brief conversation of mine with a newspaper representative contributed to the publication by him of a discussion of this agreement and the possibility of protest by the Government and that the Department regarded this conversation as 'indiscreet.' The publication did not mention my name, nor in my judgment would it have been a mistake if the Department of State had not chosen to vouch for its accuracy and give to it an official significance by its own conduct.

Subject Already Public.

"It certainly contained nothing of substance that was not a matter of common knowledge or deducible by any competent reporter from facts commonly known. The substance of the agreement had been published and its effect had been widely discussed. An illustration of this, the New York Herald had published on September 9 the following dispatch: "Tokio, Wednesday.—The Tokio press regrets that the jingo-American press is raising the usual protest against Japan regarding the new China-Japan convention. It states that the Japanese railways are administered in accordance with America's long cherished motto of the open door policy. Moreover, it adds, the convention is now an accomplished fact, and America may as well give it, however much it may dislike it.

Taft Urged Crane to Talk.

"The publication complained of by the State Department was not made until September 27. This also has a significant bearing on the reference to 'recent canards' in the Secretary's telegram to me at San Francisco. "In order to understand how this matter came to be mentioned, it is necessary to make a brief explanation. When I accepted the appointment of Minister to China, at the request of the President, he expressed the earnest wish that the people of this country should be brought to a keener interest in the Pacific situation, both commercially and politically; and he felt that our greatest problem lay there and that our people were not fully awake to its importance. "As I stated in a public address in Chicago on September 14, the President advised me to accept all available invitations to public meetings and dinners and said: 'Do not miss any of them, and when you go to one, insist on speaking and let them hear it red hot.'

Knox' Reason for Action.

In announcing his action, Mr. Knox gave out the following statement, saying that he would have nothing to add to it: "The Department of State has been engaged for some time in making the usual study of the recent agreements between China and Japan in relation to Manchuria, from such data bearing upon the situation as it was able to secure, with a view to determining whether there was anything in the agreements adversely affecting American interests or in conflict with the principle of equal opportunities, to which the powers are pledged, a study not yet concluded, and in respect to which no decision has been reached. "While this investigation was proceeding, Mr. Crane, the Minister to China, came to the Department, and while there was informed by one of the clerks that such an examination was being made. "Without consultation with the Acting Secretary or any other responsible officer of the Department, and without the knowledge or authority of anyone connected with the Department, Mr. Crane gave out a newspaper story to the effect that this Government was preparing to protest against some features of the agreements, and that the promulgation of the protest only waited the return of an official who was to formulate it. "The story appeared in a Western paper and at the same time or a day later in the Japanese press and subsequently was generally published.

Crane Admitted Responsibility.

"Such were the representations made to me October 1, by the responsible officers of the Department of State, accompanied by their statement that they had sufficient reasons to believe them to be true. Whereupon I sent Mr. Crane at San Francisco the following telegram, dated October 3, 1909: "You have been charged with the responsibility for the canards recently appearing in the Japanese and American press to the effect that the United States

MR. TAFT SPEEDS ON DUSTY ROADS

President Leaves California on First Lap of Run Homeward.

BOOSTERS GET ON TRAIN

Executive Talks to Old Soldiers and Schoolchildren — Says Little On Insure Future of America.

RIVERSIDE, Cal., Oct. 12.—After spending eight days in the State of California, President Taft left here late tonight and is speeding across the Colorado desert. His way leads him for a time below the level of the sea and tomorrow morning will find the Chief Executive in Arizona, his journey back to the East well under way.

The President spent much of today in the famous orange districts surrounding Los Angeles, driving for miles through the immense groves of Redlands and Riverside. Altogether, Mr. Taft made more than 50 miles by automobile today, and having fallen 25 minutes behind his schedule at San Bernardino, was carried along the roads between that city and Riverside at a rate of speed exceeding 35 miles an hour. There were 10 or 12 automobiles in line, and the dust they stirred up was suffocating.

Speaks to Old Soldiers.

Beginning his day with a trip to the Soldiers Home, at Sawtelle, just outside of Los Angeles, at 9 o'clock this morning, and speaking there to 2000 veterans, the President went next by motor to Pasadena to be entertained at luncheon by the citizens at the Maryland Hotel. Taking the train at Pasadena, after complimenting that city upon its luxurious homes, Mr. Taft had an hour's ride to San Bernardino, making several stops of a few minutes' duration each, at the intermediate stations to satisfy the great crowds gathered at the depot. At San Bernardino the President once more entered an automobile for the 35-mile ride through Smiley Heights, Redlands and to this city.

Drinks Orange Juice.

He stopped for a glass of orange juice at the hotel here and was whirled away for more sightseeing, including a climb to the top of Rubidoux Mountain, where a famous old mission cross still stands. Tonight the President was the guest of honor at a banquet at the Glenwood Hotel. Mr. Taft declared that he had thoroughly enjoyed his stay in California, and was more deeply impressed than ever with the tremendous size and diversified interests and climate of the state. School children continued today to be a feature of the President's visit to the various communities, included in his itinerary. Mr. Taft declared that, after seeing so many thousands of "chubby cheeks and chubby-legged boys and girls" on his travels, including a "fat" member of the Legislature, he was convinced that the future of the country was safe.

Boosters on the Job.

At every station that which he got off the train the President greeted the ardent "boosters" with a wide grin and invited them in his car from time to time during the railroad journey from Pasadena to San Bernardino. Assistant-General Adna R. Chaffee, retired, was with the President on the special trolley trip to the Soldiers Home this morning, and as the Presidential car

Record-Herald Says He Only Told What Everybody Knew. CHICAGO, Oct. 12.—(Special.)—The Record-Herald tomorrow morning will print the following editorial: "The treatment that Mr. Charles R. Crane has received at the hands of the Department of State is nothing short of shameful. Every newspaper man in Washington will hoot at the notion that Mr. Crane's alleged indiscretion in any way varied from the discretion ordinarily required from public officials. No informed person believes for a moment that the ostensible reason for the request for Crane's resignation is the real one. On the contrary, it is perfectly apparent that he has been made the victim of what appears to have been a thoroughly discreditable intrigue. "Inasmuch as the article to which Mr. Crane objects appeared in the Record-Herald, it is but just to say that Mr. Crane furnished our correspondent with no information that involved any breach of his official obligations. His mistake was in assuming that there could be any possible objection to taking it for granted that what all diplomatic and most of the newspaper men of the world know, was also known by the Department of State."

ACTRESS TO WIELD SPADE

Blanche Bates Will Break Ground for New Hellig Theater.

ACTRESS TO WIELD SPADE

Blanche Bates Will Break Ground for New Hellig Theater.

Its site by eight blocks away from the home wherein Blanche Bates, America's foremost emotional actress, was born is much more than a quarter of a century ago, ground for the New Hellig Theater will be broken by the famous "Portland girl" tomorrow afternoon. Mayor Simon has been invited to preside at the ceremony, the City Council has been especially invited by Calvin Hellig to attend and the building committee of the bondholders, who made the contractor of the show, possibly, will witness the sod-turning. Miss Bates sought the honor of turning the first earth for the first modern theater of her home town as her right, and Calvin Hellig, in suggesting the privilege was hers by conquest, remarked that he, too, was honored, having given Miss Bates her first starring engagement with Erwayley in 1905. Simplicity will reign throughout the ceremony, even though the fair hands are to dig the first shovel of earth from the theater site. She has willed it so. No blare of trumpets will announce the arrival of the famous actress on that scene, the soft strains of music will not accompany her movements. She will be beautiful Blanche Bates, of Portland, for the nonce, the simplest role she has ever held, and in keeping with the show, she will stamp a spade and dig as any girl would dig.

Only the spade to be handled by the celebrated actress will depart from the simplicity of the scene. Its handle will be Portland-wood, its blade will be Portland-wrought, plated with Oregon gold by Portland hands. When the New Hellig, Portland's first modern theater, to cost $150,000, is complete and ready for Blanche Bates to stir a multitude from its stage, the hallowed instrument with which she broke ground for the showhouse will repose in a favored spot as the New Hellig's first relic.

While no speechmaking, music or clamor will mark the ground-breaking at Seventh and Taylor streets tomorrow afternoon that an immense throng will witness the simple ceremony is certain. Excavation for the new theater will begin immediately after Miss Bates completes the result of a combat with the soil. She will dig the first spadeful of earth at 2 o'clock.

The site of the New Hellig, at the northwest corner of Seventh and Taylor streets, is situated eight blocks from Blanche Bates' birthplace, the celebrated actress arriving on the world's stage at Front street near Salmon, where she raised her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Bates, both of whom acted at the Oro Fino, Portland's first theater.

"YOSEMITE, Cal., Oct. 12.—Secretary of the Interior Ballinger arrived here at noon and before nightfall had inspected this section of the National Park, noting what was needed in roadways and of improvements. Late tonight he returned to the hotel here, planning an early start tomorrow for the Hetch Hetchy and Lake Eleanor districts. Secretary Ballinger will inspect the site of San Francisco's proposed water supply reservoirs, in which the work was halted at his direction.

THE COLUMBIA RIVER VALLEY

The Fruit Basket of the World

A poor man has a small chance of ever becoming wealthy in the United States. Even in the Middle West the openings are becoming scarce and many energetic men see that they can better themselves by coming to the Northwest, some who have come West find that they have not sufficient knowledge of the country to be able to locate and invest in business which will pay them well. If you are of this number, why not investigate the district which has more openings and opportunities for men of small or large capital than any other section of the Northwest? The Columbia River Valley cannot be surpassed as a desirable place to live when you can add to many lines of business that are still needed, the large population which will surely settle here, and the vast increase which will follow any small investment made at this time. It will pay you to look into the conditions in this land of opportunity. Kenewick and Pasco are already the important commercial centers of this district.
