

COMMUNISTS GRAB GUARDS, 5 FLEE

Securing Two Guns and $29 in Cash, Prisoners Speed South in Buggy.

POSSE IN HOT PURSUIT

Men Employed on Road Work Near Salem. Overpower and Disarm Guards—All Fugitives Are Short-Term Criminals.

SALEM, Or., Oct. 15.—(Special.)—Five convicts employed at road work near the Home for the Feeble-Minded Institute, two miles southeast of the city, overpowered their guards this evening, took two automatic revolvers from the guards and $29 in cash, stole a horse and buggy and made their escape, traveling south.

The break for liberty evidently had been carefully planned. There were 15 convicts in the gang, but only five were in the act to escape. The others made no effort to get away. At 5 o'clock, when the men were returning to the cell-house, a posse of about 20 men, mostly short-term and indeterminate sentence men, at a prearranged signal, fell upon the guards, L. K. Hirtzel and Felix Davis, and before the latter could fire a shot, overpowered them and took from one a Luger automatic revolver and from the other a Colt automatic and a good supply of ammunition.

Hirtzel's $29 Is Taken.

From Hirtzel they also took a pocket-book containing about $29 in money. Nearby was standing a horse and buggy owned by J. M. Eskew, who is running the rock-crusher used in crushing rock for the new roads being built at the Home for Feeble-Minded. Keeping the alarmed guards and the other convicts covered with their revolvers, the five desperate men backed to the buggy, jumped into the rig and whipped up the horse.

After driving the horse at a furious pace about a mile and a half south, they abandoned the rig and took to the brush. The news of the break was immediately telephoned to the penitentiary and Sheriff James secured the state automobile from the asylum, loaded it full of armed guards and started south. Another load was started out with the penitentiary carriage and a late hour tonight every point along the river and the railroad for 20 miles south, where the men are likely to appear, is guarded. The convicts were clad in shirts and coats and, it is thought, had brown overalls.

Salem Banks Are Guarded.

The authorities have suggested that Salem merchants take more than ordinary precautions tonight, as it is thought possible the convicts may double back this way before morning. It is understood each of the banks will have a special guard tonight.

The prison bloodhounds were not used because the men got such a start traveling by the main road until they abandoned the team that the hounds would be of no use.

George Carter, doing an indeterminate sentence from Malheur County, is thought to have been one of the gang. Carter had served half of his minimum term under the law, and probably would have been released at the end of another six months.

Owing to the desperate character of the break for liberty, and the fact that the men are armed, Superintendent James tonight offered a reward of $500 for the capture of each of the escaped men, instead of the usual reward of $50.

Who Escaped Convicts Are.

Following are the convicts who got away: George Carter, doing an indeterminate sentence from Malheur County for larceny of a gelding, received May 11, 1909.

George Duncan, doing an indeterminate sentence from Malheur County for larceny of a gelding, received May 11, 1909.

Albert Ferris, doing one and a half years from Clackamas County for larceny in dwelling, received April 22, 1909.

Mike Nicholas, doing two years from Marion County, for larceny, received October 24, 1908.

Albert Murray, doing an indeterminate sentence from Malheur County for burning a building, received June 4, 1908.

CITY IS AHEAD $1000

HOME TELEPHONE COMPANY BUNGLES LAWSUIT.

Vancouver Council Declares Bond Forfeited, Refusing to Recognize Oregon Court Order.

VANCOUVER, Wash., Oct. 15.—(Special.)—By not acknowledging service of papers from the Oregon courts, or its jurisdiction, the City of Vancouver is just $1000 ahead of the legal game. S. Y. Davidson, officer of the Home Telephone Company, placed a certified check for $1000, in favor of the City of Vancouver, as a guarantee of good faith, when a franchise was granted to his company.

The telephone company did install cables and lines in the city, but left the streets in a bad condition and did not, according to city officials, live up to its promise. The City Council declared the check voided, but before the check was cashed suit was brought against the First National Bank of Portland, restraining payment. In the same suit the City of Vancouver, the Home Telephone Company, the Mayor, the City Treasurer and Mr. Eaton, a director of the Home Telephone Company, were made defendants.

The suit was brought in Portland and papers were sent for service on the City of Vancouver, but P. J. Kirwin, City Attorney, refused to acknowledge service or the jurisdiction of the Oregon courts, whose jurisdiction holds only to the borders of the State of Oregon. The First National Bank of Portland, being in the State of Oregon, acknowledged service, but as Vancouver was the real interested party, the case could not be forced into court.

The City Attorney of Vancouver submitted a brief for the First National Bank of Portland, but would not permit the city to appear in the suit. The court then dismissed the case, the check was indorsed to P. J. Kirwin, City Attorney, and the money was brought over to this city this afternoon and placed to the credit of the city. The matter had been in the courts for months.

LIMITS OF PARK MARKED

CRATER LAKE BOUNDARIES DESIGNATED BY POSTS.

Park Contains 249 Square Miles of Land and Elevations' Range Is More Than 3000 Feet.

KLAMATH FALLS, Oct. 15.—(Special.)—Pearson Chapman, of the United States Geological Survey, has just completed the marking of the boundary of the Crater Lake National Park, which contains an area of 249 square miles, and embraces, besides the lake itself, a surrounding region of the Cascade of the Cascades of surpassing interest.

These areas include elevations differing more than 3000 feet, running all the way from 4000 to more than 12000 feet, the latter elevation being that of Mount Scott, the great lava peak which stands within a mile of the eastern rim of Crater Lake, its summit being nearly 3000 feet above the surface of the lake.

The work of Mr. Chapman will plainly show these limits, since his force has placed the boundary posts at the corners and at each entrance to the park, and has placed iron posts at every half mile on the boundary, no matter what the local conditions.

Jury Duty Pleases Some.

LA GRANDE, Or., Oct. 15.—(Special.)—A task which was pleasant to some and disagreeable to others fell to the lot of the jury in the case of the State vs. Ralph Atkinson, in which the defendant is charged with bootlegging. The District Attorney insisted that the jury taste the contents of a bottle said by the state to be liquor bought from Atkinson's saloon. Most of the jurors were free in their samplings, while the others merely smelled of the contents.

OUTRAGE FOLLOWS FAMILY QUARRELS

Dynamiting of Home May Be Result of Old Feud in Kearney Tribe.

UGLY STORIES CIRCULATED

Latest Crime Burns Out Tales of Whole Household of Degenerates. Son Boasts to Prosecutor of His Crooked Relatives.

OLYMPIA, Wash., Oct. 15.—(Special.)—The home of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Kearney, near Lacey, this county, was blown up by dynamite and later the ruins completely destroyed by fire at an early hour Friday morning.

Word reached the city late this afternoon. The peace officers refused to investigate the case until tomorrow. Prosecuting Attorney Wilson was recently appointed in private capacity to defend a suit brought against two of Mr. Kearney's sons by their sister. She is suing for $10,000 damages for alleged slander, charging her brothers with circulating a story to injure the character of their father and her sister and to reflect discredit on her sister's children.

The Prosecuting Attorney said tonight he did not believe the sons had dynamited their father's house. Francis Kearney is about 30 years old. He and his wife were sleeping in an adjoining building when their home was destroyed. The house was valued at $2500 with $1000 insurance. One of the sons recently told the Prosecutor that his father several years ago ordered the boy to dynamite and burn a house owned by the father in Olympia. The parent expected to collect the insurance on this building.

The elder Kearney is said to have recently made statements that his sons shot and killed two of his best cows. Indications of a truce in the family quarrel came this evening when one of the daughters was asked over the telephone for particulars of the accident. She replied that she had not heard of it but would step out of her house to where she could get a view of the place. She returned to the wire and reported laconically, "I guess you are right; the house is gone."

The prosecutor says he has evidence that the elder Kearney was run out of Kansas by the husbands of his three elder daughters, after each of the wives had accused their father of numerous shortcomings.

One of the sons, Burr Kearney, recently boasted to the prosecutor of his own crimes from early manhood up to the present day. The boy intimated that his father and all his brothers and sisters were degenerates of the lowest type. Kearney's young grandson and granddaughter were recently separated because of evil influences they are said to have had over each other.

RIVALRY IS KEEN

State Federation of Women Will Elect Officers Today.

WHITE PLAGUE DISCUSSED

A. L. Mills, of Portland, Tells of Crusade Against Tuberculosis and Simple Methods for Curbing Spread of Dread Disease.

Forest Grove to Meet in Session. Officers of Oregon State Federation of Women's Clubs to be Elected.

FOREST GROVE, Or., Oct. 15.—(Special.)—Keen rivalry in election of officers of the Oregon State Federation of Women's Clubs is expected tomorrow. Mrs. Evans, the incumbent, is far in the lead for president. Balloting for officers will begin at 11:30 tomorrow morning.

The second day of the session of the Oregon State Federation opened at 10 o'clock this morning with nearly 100 delegates present. The morning session was largely devoted to receiving reports of standing committees. Papers on "Education of the People," "Citizenship" by Mrs. Turner Oliver, "Pure Food" by Mrs. Ellen Miller, "Civil Service Reform" by Miss M. Blumauer, "Public Health" by Mrs. Sade Dumber, and "The Scholarship Loan Fund" by Mrs. Fred Eggert, were the principal features of the morning session.

National President Talks. In the afternoon a conference of presidents, allotted to 15 minutes each, was presided over by the National president, Mrs. Moore, who brought out many interesting points on how the several departments of the clubs should be handled.

The most prominent feature of the afternoon session was the address on "Open-Air Sanitariums" by A. L. Mills, of Portland. He went into details concerning the white plague, and gave statistics showing that 150,000 people die annually in the United States of tuberculosis, and further asserted that eight million of the people now living are to die with the disease which is now so easily preventable with proper care.

By comparison, he showed that 6000,000 more people died in four years' time than were sacrificed during the Civil War by this plague.

Stringent Laws Are Needed.

The speaker asserted that the time has passed when consumptives are cloistered in hot rooms and doped with drugs and alcohol, but are kept in the open air, he declared that laws prohibiting expectorating are being made more emphatic over the country. The spittoon habit, he insisted, is one of the chief causes for the spread of this disease. He stated that in Portland alone the deaths from tuberculosis alone grew as fast as the birth rate. He urged the establishment of open-air sanitariums, hospitals for incurables and dispensaries. Oregon, he said, is the only state that has appropriated money for hospitals. In Portland alone 629 cases of tuberculosis were treated since 1905.

The discussion was continued by Dr. Esther Post of Portland, who offered many points of interest, stating that for school children impure air, bad food and common drinking cups should be avoided. Mrs. Philip N. Moore and Mrs. Dunaway followed with discussion on the subject, the latter stating that parents should watch where their children bought their candy, cakes and pencils.

The principal address of the evening session was delivered by Mrs. Moore, of the General Federation, its organization and purpose.
