FRATERNAL ORDER EXAMINED BY JURY

Without Capital Except Overdraft at Oregon Trust. Dealings Interesting.

PRESIDENT MOORE BACK

Declares He Has Nothing to Say, but Will Remain Here-Employes of Defunct Bank Paid Money as Ordered by Superiors.

seginning with the first of the alleged fraudulent transactions charged against the directors of the wrecked Oregon Trust & Savings Bank, as they appear upon the report of Lester, Herrick & Herrick, the expert public accountants, the grand jury yesterday in its inquiry into this sensational case took up the connection of the Order of Washington with the defunct bank and made the fraternal insurance organization the sub-lect of the day's inquiry.

In the case of the Order of Washing-ton, flagrant disregard for the deposi-tors' money had been manifest on the part of the directors, an especially con-relevant part being played by W. Cooper part of the directors, an especially con-spicuous part being played by W. Cooper Moeris, the cashier, who was treasurer of the Order of Washington and in whose interest it is alleged that more than $50, 600 was overdrawn at the bank, with ab-solutely no security. Therefore it is thought likely the jury will probe into this connection which cost the bank so many thousands with unrelenting purmany thousands with unrelenting pur-

No Capital to Start.

No Capital to Start.

It is known this organization opened business with virtually no capital except the overdrafts allowed it at the Oregon Trust & Savings Bank through W. Cooper Morris. It is also known when the bank falled the Order of Washington falled, there being no resources from which it could longer keep alive. It is estimated that between 2000 and 4000 members of the order were victims of the fallure. It was shown the order had no assets whatever, save its furniture and office fixtures. J. L. Mitchell, its nominal head, disappeared immediately after the doors closed and with him went the books of the concern. Rumor has it they were sent out of the city under false names and addresses to prevent an exposure, for it was said the order's books show a sensational condition.

Lloyd Smith, sen of Albert T. Smith, at one time a director of the Oregon Trust & Savings Bank, who was formerly a teller of the wrecked bank, and now is employed in the office of the Tax Assessor, was one of the witnesses before the jury yesterday. Attorneys Long and Sweek were also required to testify. Books Altered at Will.

As the investigation progresses, it has As the investigation progresses, it has become apparent to the jurymen that money was issued by the under employes of the bank without question, as long as it came from any of their superiors, and books were altered with fraudulent entries to hide the reckless orgie of high finance.

W. H. Moore, president of the institution, who has been absent from Portland for many weeks, returned to the city yesterday. He said he had been busy looking over some land is Canada and had not kept in touch with the local news regarding the bank investigation. "In fact," said Mr. Moore, "I did not know an investigation was under way until I got back. The other fellows are doing all the talking. WHY ALL THIS ACTIVITY?

Lawyer Schnabel Voices His Suspicions in Oregon Trust Case.

PORTLAND, Oct. 18 .- (To the Editor. PORTLAND, Get. 18.—(To the Editor.)
—As one who has "kept tab" on the affairs of the Oregon Trust & Savings Company's affairs and who refused to be "bulldozed" by their paid runners, I am interested somewhat in the present activity on the sudden awakening of the receiver and his associates in discovering certain crooked work. It seems strange that the last experts were the only ones to discover this fraud. Were there not experts employed galore in the Fall of 1907 and the Spring of 1908 and did they find any wrong? They did not: those reports made by them were of the specially-prepared brand.

In February, 1908, in the Circuit Court room within and for Multnomah County, a covenant with the reorganization compilies and the receiver on the one hand. ertain crooked work. It seems strange mittee and the receiver on the one hand, the court and the depositors on the other hand, was solemnly entered into that the hand, was solemnly entered into that the siffairs of the defunct bank were to be liquidated and the depositors get their money or or before two years and no later. Now that the day of settlement is rapidly coming on a carefully concocted scheme is sought to be worked by having the receiver file suit against the former directors on the plea that there are many doubtful assets to be garnered in before the final dividend can be paid. Like all equity suits of this character. Like all equity suits of this character, they will be long drawn-out affairs and the depositors will be told (and plausibly, teo) that the affairs of the bank and the receiver cannot be wound up until these suits are heard and determined upon appeal, if need be.

There is a "colored gentleman concealed somewhere in the woodpile" and it is hoped that the court and the public will not allow themselves to be caught napping in a proceeding calculated to put off the day of settlement, and that no act will be permitted to be done postponing the date of winding up this mal-odorous affair. HENRIK IBSEN IS OVERDUE Much Anxiety Is Felt for Safety of Liner.

Considerable apprehension is felt along the waterfront for the safety of the Oriental liner Henrik Ibsen, which sailed from Yokohama for this port three weeks ago. The vessel, under Captain Strandwitz, its present master, formerly made the voyage in 17 days, hence the unaccountable delay in reaching Portland has been the source of much anxiety. Owing to the fact that the vessel is not equipped with wireless telegraph, her present whereabouts is unknown nor have there been any advices received since she left Fair Enchantress Must Explain How When Living With One Man, She Promises, for Sum of $1200, to Marry Another.

Queenle Fense, accused of huncoing John Fresell, a retired railroad man, out of $1200 under promise of marriage, was arraigned before Judge Bennett yesterhay morning in Municipal Court and was held to awalt the action of the grand jury. The woman appeared in court heavily veiled and in reply to a request made by Attorney Walter Wolf, who had been engaged by Queenle's victim to assist in the prosecution, scornfully tilted her nose in the air and retorted 'I will not raise my veil.' Judge Bennett did not force her to do so, as she was readily identi-fied by the witnesses. Fresell caused some merriment in the story he told revealing the unsophisti-cated manner in which he had fallen victim to the woman's scheme. When he victim to the woman's scheme. When he told that he had paid only $14 for an engagement ring, a general laugh ensued, and when he described how at first he asphalt for J. O. Hoyt, a local contractor.

The merriment was so infectious that Queenle herself, who had been trying hard all through the case to maintain a dignified demeaner, broke into a smile, and when she thought no one was observwinked at her attorney. Seneca > Fresell said he had given her $525 in various sums and that then they had de-termined to get married, but she de-manded $500 as an evidence of good faith on his part. He gave her a check for this amount with the understanding it was to be returned to him after the marriage cercmony. Upon this agreement the charge against the woman was brought. He said he had given her a check for $55 to pay for decorating the church and that on the night before they were to have been married he went to her flat to visit the church with her and found a sign on the door that the bird had flown.

> Sylvester Peterson, vice-president of the Scandinavian-American Bank, testified to the woman's having drawn the money and telling him when ahe drew it of her expected marriage to Fresell. Mrs. M. Newcomb, who keeps the boarding house at 337 Third street, where Fresell first met the woman, testified the woman lived there with another man as her husband. A number of boarders from Mrs. Newcomb's house testified to having met the woman and her husband.

"There is no doubt in my mind as to the intent of this woman," said Judge Bennett. "The only remarkable thing is that Fresell did not lose more than he did after he showed he was so easy and that he had about $10,000 more in the bank." Attorney Fouts made a strong motion to have the case against the woman dismissed on the ground that a promise of marriage was not a contract, but Judge Hennett held this was a matto be decided in a higher court.

Tiny Pinhead Pimples Filled and Hurt Tremendously-Tried Everything in Vain-His Daughter's Scalp was Crusted - Both Found

SIMPLY SURPRISING CURE IN CUTICURA

"It is a great pleasure for me and I consider it a duty to inform you what Cuticura has done for me. About twelve years ago, I contracted an eruption of the scalp consisting of small pimples, about the size of a pinhead, tion of the scaip consisting of small pimples, about the size of a pinhead, which filled after a few days with pus and which hurt tremendously. I tried everything, but in vain. Finally, I washed my head with sulphur and applied a carbolic ointment. After a few days the pimples disappeared, only to come back again in a week. This I suffered for ten years and then I saw an advertisement in the paper of the wonderful cures by Cuticura. I bought a cake of Cuticura Soap, a box of Cuticura Ointment and a bottle of Cuticura Pills and after three weeks I had used only half the Soap and Ointment and my head was as clean as ever before. After the first application it was simply surprising how it improved.

"My daughter used Cuticura Soap and Ointment for scales on the scalp and after having used them three times her head was clear and the hair became as soft and fine as silk. Since then she uses nothing but Cuticura Soap for shampooing.

"In consequence of my having used Cuticura Soap for shampooing. I noticed that my hands which almost always were cracked from handling undressed wood, lime and stone, became white and velvety. Formerly I used glycerine, but one night's treatment with Cuticura Soap and Ointment does more for my hands than a week's treatment with glycerine. I hope all suffering people will at least try the Cuticura Remedies. Herman Becker, Fifield, Wis., November 9, 1908."

Millions of women throughout the world use Cuticura Soap and Ointment for eczemas, rashes, itchings, irritations, inflammations, chafings, pimples, black-heads, dandruff, dry, thin and falling hair, sanative, antiseptic cleansing, and for the toilet, bath and nursery.

Men Rebuilt, Revitalized and Prepared Anew for the Battle of Life

Every man is the architect of his own future-some architects turn out good work, while others make flat failures. A good future is impossible with poor health, and a good architect knows that the foundation to success depends upon good health as completely as the life of a big building depends upon good masonry. He knows that if the cement for a foundation is mixed and neglected before introducing it into the sand, gravel and stone, that it is a worthless component and destructive of successful work. When a man plans his future and through neglect fails to protect the weak places in his physical make-up, the whole future must be changed to meet the condition of his health, unless his health, which is the foundation, can be rebuilt so that it will come up to the requirements. When mistakes and indiscretions of your past lives make such repairs necessary, don't neglect until it is

MEN'S DISORDERS AND NONE OTHER

Does it mean anything to you to know that a great many of my cured patients had been previously treated by competitors before finally coming to me? Of course they did not do this for the fun of spending their money fruitlessly, but because in most cases they were practically strangers in the community, and under such circumstances one advertisement looked as inviting as another.

For more than 30 years the St. Louis Medical Company has been the foremost company on the Pacific Coast in the treatment of men's ailments, and as its head physician I am today acknowl-

QUALITY IN EXPERIENCE

Experience is a thing of quality as well as quantity. Years of practice are no true measure of a physician's skill. Medical specialists, as a rule, give prominent mention to measure of a physician's skill. Medical specialists, as a rule, give prominent mention to the number of years they have devoted to the practice of the various specialities. In this regard I do not differ from most other specialists. I frequently state that I have treated men only for $5 years. This is a thing of importance that can be told in a few words. That's why I tell it so often. The thing I now wish to tell about requires more space in telling, and I may or may not tell it more than this once.

Experience isn't worth much unless it has quality in it. In fact, it isn't worth anything. It is just like all other had things—the greater the quantity the more badness there is. I do not mean this as a personal reference to any other doctor, whether general practitioner or specialist. I merely make the statement because it is the truth that has application here. To do a thing wrongly a thousand times only fits one for doing it wrongly again, and the oftener he does it wrongly, the less apt he is to do it rightly? To treat a thousand patients indifferently or carelessly doesn't make skill, but it adds indifference and carelessness. To treat a thousand patients thoughifully, carefully and conscientiously develops skill, a thing of value to the physician himself, and to every patient he may treat thereafter. This is experience of quality. It is a kind of experience that I have been constantly acquiring for 25 years.

I have carried no moss-grown theories or methods with ms. Others may climp to theories—a profer truths. I have put thought and study into all my work that I might ascertain the truth and make ny treatment scientific. I have felt a personal interest in the welfare of my patients, and have treated them carefully and conscientiously. I have studied each case I treated. I have learned the truths that I have studied each case I treated. I have learned the truths that I have studied each case I treated.
