ASSESSMENT HELD $170,000 TOO LOW

Equalization Board Startled by New Complaint on King's Heights Holdings.

OTHERS SEEK REDUCTION

Seventy-two Objections to Figures on Tax Roll Are Added to Those Already Filed for Consideration.

Seventy-two protests at property assessments for the 1909 taxroll were presented before the County Board of Equalization yesterday. And while 70 of the protests were based on efforts to secure reductions, two asked increases which, if allowed, will more than balance all the cuts asked for to date.

Members of the board fairly gasped when increases involving $170,000 were asked on King's Heights proptry. The requests were presented by the King's Heights Realty Syndicate and by B. Gildner and associates.

The increase asked by the syndicate is from $62,000 to $154,000. Gildner and associates want their property assessed at a total of $20,000 instead of the present total of $10,000. The syndicate is controlled by Dr. J. R. Wetherbee, T. B. Wilcox and J. C. Ainsworth and it is represented that the lots are worth from $2000 to $20,000 apiece. Gildner and associates represent that their lots should be increased from $2200 to $5000 each.

Many Causes Presented.

The applications for reductions were based on every manner of cause. Removal from the city, destruction of effects by fire and denial of ownership, were the principal causes assigned. The day proved one of the busiest the board has yet had and the indications now are that there will be a tremendous accumulation of complaints by the end of the week, when the books close.

The Northwest School Furniture Company disputed the possession of $20,000 in merchandise, money, notes and accounts. An inventory was submitted to show that the firm's worth is but $17,-451.

Mrs. J. R. Wyatt objected to being assessed $14,150 on her home in East Portland. She insisted her home is no better than certain neighbors have on which they pay less. She also made the notation "should be assessed to Wyatt, anyway. Am married now."

Four thousand eight hundred dollars is the reduction in personal tax asked by the Wiley B. Allen Company. It was denied that any such amount as $5000 ever occupies the company tills, the sum usually on hand being not more than $200, it was alleged.

As to an assessment of $1000 on the stock of drugs of Frederick A. Beal's estate, a petition was submitted by F. Beal asking a reduction to half the amount. Mr. Beal alleged that he was about to purchase the stock for $500 and didn't think the assessment ought to be more than the transfer value.

Wants Cut Under Cost.

I. E. Staples, living on Kelly avenue, west of Milwaukie road, objected to an assessment of $500 on household furniture, representing that he had removed his effects into Yamhill County.

M. C. George, on behalf of Jennie R. George, protested against an assessed valuation of $2000 being placed on property in Carter's addition. Admitting that the improvements cost $2300, he suggested that $1400 would be a fair sum to place on the assessment roll. Just what process of reasoning was utilized in arriving at that conclusion is not explained in his communication of protest.

Ernest Miller represented that his personal tax was based on an assessment about four times too large. Instead of $4700 he should have been charged with $1175, so he swore. W. Jaques, 250 East Thirty-fifth street, insisted that his household furniture isn't worth a cent more than $100, instead of $200, as assessed. S. Steiner was perturbed at being assessed $1000 on his house, when it only cost that amount. He thought $800 would be plenty.

B. Gildner and associates were really indignant at the assessment of property on King's Heights at from $1100 to $2650 a lot, and demanded that the assessment be increased at least 100 per cent. Undoubtedly they will be obliged. Right after this astounding petition appeared R. A. Proudfoot to demand that his assessment be reduced from $4500 to $2250.

W. Hosea Wood admitted that there used to be a house on his property in West Portland. The house was worth fully $80. But since the last time the Assessor was around the structure has been moved to other paris, and for that reason Mr. Wood asked to be relieved from paying taxes on it.

Sold Under Assessment.

William W. Robinson said there was a very good reason why he shouldn't pay on an assessment of $400 for household furniture at his place at 49 Twentieth street. The reason was that he sold the whole layout a short time ago for $175. He asked for a reduction to that figure.

P. Sharkey, 53 Union avenue, declined to pay on a $300 launch, explaining as his reason that he owns no launch, never did own one and never expects to. Henry E. Dosch had the same kind of a complaint to make on an assessment of $100 for horses at his Hillsdale place.

The Pacific Baptist Company was at a loss to know why it should be assessed $225 or any other sum, inasmuch as the office and headquarters are located at McMinnville, and the only function of the company in Portland is to receive mail here occasionally.

P. C. Randall insisted that his assessment was exactly seven times too high. He was accredited with property worth $400 and swore everything he has isn't worth more than $50.

Seeks Cut of $10,000.

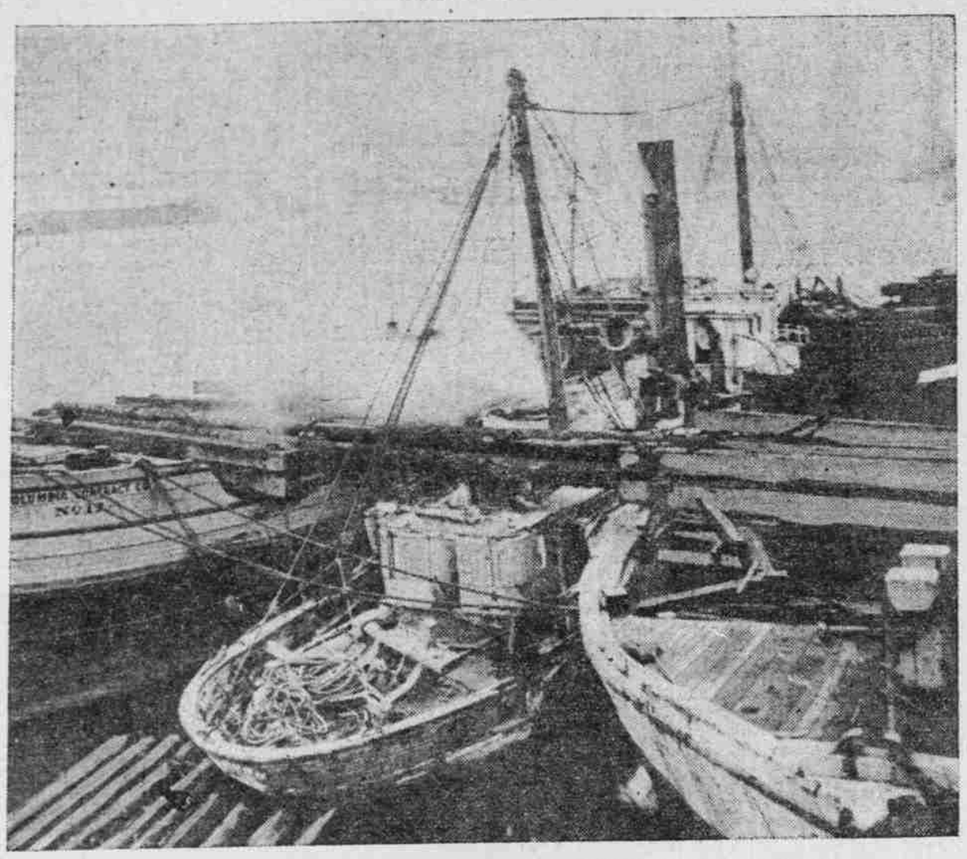
Fred C. Myers thought $1100 too much on his house in Arbor Lodge, because there isn't any plumbing installed. He asked a reduction to $900. His complaint was followed by one from Samuel Swirsky, who asked a cut of $10,000 on his old house on fractional lot W, assessed at $25,000. Anna Rains had contracts to show that her flats on Missouri avenue cost only $4000. She was not willing that they should be assessed at cost value.

M. J. O'Neil called attention to the fact that his house in the suburbs burned down in August, and that the insurance was $1000. He objected to an assessment of $1700. Barbara A. Bailey was sure her furniture wouldn't bring more than $50 at auction, so she wasn't willing to pay on an assessment of $250. Because of having sold his auto for $400, Richard Martin, Jr., insisted he oughtn't to be assessed $500 on the machine.

Cummings Merrill once had $500, but he didn't think he ought to be assessed on the sum any longer, since it is tied up in the defunct Title, Guarantee & Trust Company. The People's Loan Office represented that it shouldn't be assessed $250 on notes, saying that notes are held against the company but not by the company.

Max Loewenson presented a list showing that numerous properties in his vicinity are assessed at 60 per cent of their real value. He said his property in block 253 cost $25,000, and that the assessment is $17,000 or 68 per cent of the value.

VESSEL THAT WAS RAISED FROM BOTTOM OF COLUMBIA, AS IT WAS BROUGHT INTO PORTLAND HARBOR.



DANIEL KERN SUPPORTED BY BARGES OF COLUMBIA CONTRACT COMPANY.

KERN AT DRYDOCK

Wrecked Steamship Towed to Willamette Iron Works.

VESSEL IS IN BAD SHAPE

Was Sunk by Steamer Geo. W. Elder on Morning of August 18 Off Light at Waterford—Was Formerly Lighthouse Tender.

In tow of the steamer G. K. Wentworth, the tug Daniel Kern has arrived at Portland and as soon as possible she will be lifted on the Oregon drydock for repairs. The Kern arrived with a barge on either side and in a badly dilapidated condition. She has been on the bottom of the Columbia since the morning of August 18, when she was struck by the steamship Geo. W. Elder. Preliminary arrangements for the lifting of the vessel will require five or six days and it will be the first of the coming week before the craft will be out of water.

The Daniel Kern was engaged in towing rock barges between Waterford and Fort Stevens. On the morning of August 18 she was struck in the stern by the Geo. W. Elder off Waterford light and went down in 10 fathoms of water. The Elder was in charge of Pilot W. H. Patterson, who was later suspended by the inspectors for carelessness. The Daniel Kern was formerly the lighthouse tender Manzanita.

A partial survey of the vessel as she now lays shows that she is badly battered up aft and that the timbers are opened up to well amidships. The engines are practically uninjured and it will require very little work on the part of the machinists to put her in shape for service.

The work of raising the vessel was done by the Columbia Contract Company, owners. An arrangement was entered into between the owners and the insurance people before any work was done and a settlement effected.

To Install Wireless on Catania.

Wireless will be installed on the steamship Catania on the present trip to San Francisco. With one or two exceptions all the oil carriers operating on the Pacific Coast are equipped with wireless stations. The addition of the telegraph to the Catania is another move to the front in maritime circles. The Catania was formerly a transport and at present is in command of Captain Canty. The steady run of the oil packets makes wireless an absolutely necessary part of the equipment.

Hercules Takes Flour at Tacoma.

J. Walter Ransom, local agent of the Portland & Asiatic Steamship Company, left yesterday afternoon for Tacoma, where he will look after the loading of the Norwegian steamship Hercules, which will carry flour from that port to Vladivostok for Kunz & Albers. Formerly all flour for that firm was dispatched from Portland by Henry Mett, but the recent fire which destroyed the Portland Flouring Mills plant forced the Hercules to take cargo at Tacoma.

Notice to Mariners.

Commander W. G. Miller, Commander, U. S. N., has issued the following notice to mariners. It affects all sailors entering the bay of San Francisco from the north:

"Notice is hereby given that Duxbury Reef whistling buoy is reported missing. It will be replaced as soon as practicable."

Marine Notes.

The steamship Catania sailed last night for Port Costa in ballast.

With lumber for San Francisco the steam schooner Olympic sailed yesterday morning.

With passengers and freight for Coos Bay ports the steamship Breakwater sailed last evening.

The steam schooner Tamalpais sailed for San Francisco yesterday afternoon with a full cargo of lumber.

Commander J. M. Ellicott, U. S. N., Inspector of the Thirteenth Lighthouse District, left yesterday for a tour of inspection of lights on Puget Sound.

COURT INSISTS ON TRIAL

Quiet Settlement of Gambling Case Is Prevented.

Settlement out of court of a complaint against H. A. Hogsted, accused of conducting a gambling game over the Warwick saloon, Fourth and Washington streets, was prevented yesterday morning by Judge Bennett in the Municipal Court. Hogsted had been arrested upon the complaint of Clarence Darrow, a contractor, who alleged to District Attorney Cameron that he had been enticed into a poker game in Hogsted's rooms and "fleeced" out of $100.

Upon Darrow's admission that he had been gambling, District Attorney Cameron ordered Darrow under arrest and at the same time sent an officer to take Hogsted into custody. The case came up on the court docket on two mornings but was continued each time because the defendants always pleaded that they were not ready for trial.

During this period, Hogsted returned Darrow his money. Hogsted's attorneys appeared in court yesterday and asked to have the case stricken off the docket because the victim had been reimbursed. This was refused by the judge, who set today for hearing and announced that both men would be brought into court under arrest if they failed to appear.

BAD WEATHER OFF COAST

Steamship Fair Oaks Encounters Gales North of Cape Blanco.

In command of Captain G. Johnson, the steam schooner Fair Oaks arrived up yesterday morning from San Francisco. The craft had a hard trip from the Bay City. After leaving the Golden Gate the vessel encountered fair weather to Cape Blanco. After that southeast gales buffeted the vessel about in no easy manner. On the trip up the river the wind and rain were so heavy that the boat was anchored.

The Fair Oaks was formerly the Robert Dollar. She was built for the Dollar Company, but was sold to the Slade Lumber Company. She was damaged about three months ago by striking on the bar at Grays Harbor.
