The sole difference in future conditions, compared with past conditions, will be that Mr. Lovett will devote his entire attention and energy to the Harriman lines proper.

No Other Man Considered.

The other men mentioned for the Harriman places, among whom were Edwin S. Hawley, Messrs. Kruttschnitt and Stubbs, John D. Spoor, president of the Chicago Union Stockyards Company, L. F. Loree and William Newman, were never for a moment considered by the board.

DEADLY SHOT KILLS LION

Raging Animal, About to Charge Roosevelt, Brought Down With First Shot—Leopard More Feroocious Than All.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Theodore Roosevelt, writing in the November number of Scribner's Magazine, gives his impressions and experience on an East African ranch, which in many ways reminded him of early days on the plains of the great West, and then plunges directly into an account of his first encounters with big African game.

"The dangerous game of Africa," he says, "are the lion, buffalo, elephant, rhinoceros and leopard. The hunter who follows any of these animals always does so at a certain risk to life or limb; a risk which it is his business to minimize by coolness, caution, good judgment and straight shooting.

My friend Carl Akely, of Chicago, actually killed, barehanded, a leopard which sprang on him. He had already wounded the beast twice, crippling it in one front and one hind paw, whereupon it charged, following him as he tried to dodge the charge, and struck him full just as he turned. It bit him on one arm, biting again and again as it worked the arm from the wrist to the elbow, but Akely threw it, holding its throat with the hand, flinging its body to one side. It luckily fell on its side with its two wounded legs uppermost, so that it could not tear him. He fell forward with it and crushed in its chest with his knees until he distinctly felt one of its ribs crack, this, said Akely, was the first moment when he felt he might conquer. Redoubling his efforts, with knees and hands he actually choked and crushed the life out of it, although his arm was badly bitten."

BLAKESLEY MAKES OFFICIALS ANXIOUS

Grand Jury to Wait Till Trial Is Ended.

PROSECUTION PROGRESSES

Case Expected to Go to Jury Late Today.

LOOKS DARK FOR DEFENSE

Handwriting Experts Testify That Blakesley's Chirography Is Identical With That of Demand on Quick for Money.

BY FRANK J. M'GETTIGAN. ST. HELENS, Or., Oct. 21.—(Staff Correspondence.)—Thus far none of the threats of "Toots" Blakesley, alleged blackmaileer of County Treasurer Quick, to expose alleged political corruption in Columbia County has been fulfilled, but that he succeeded in putting county officials on the anxious seat developed today.

In session before Blakesley's trial on the attempted extortion charge, the Columbia County grand jury heard of Blakesley's promise to bow several county heads in shame, and the inquisitorial body voted to defer final adjournment until Blakesley's trial is ended.

Paramount among the alleged exposures promised by "Toots" Blakesley was the Courthouse plot, said to have been put before County Treasurer Quick by Blakesley. The alleged conspiracy, said Quick, led to the robbery of the vaults at tax-collecting time and subsequent dynamiting of the old Courthouse in order that he (Quick), as the owner of an abstract office, might sell Columbia County the only duplicates of its records in existence.

TONGUE BARS OUT LETTER

District Attorney Tongue had called Treasurer Quick to the stand to identify the letter which bases the blackmail charge against Blakesley. When the defense proceeded to cross-examine Quick on the letter, a halt was called by District Attorney Tongue. He had not presented the letter as evidence, but merely as "Exhibit A for identification."

This barred examination of Treasurer Quick on the most important feature of the case and Judge Eakin declined to grant (Continued on Page 6.)

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Oct. 21.—(Special.)—The market price on hugs and kisses when Oak Park's fair ones are victims was fixed today by Judge Hughes, when he assessed William Long, a man of family in the Sacramento suburb, $50 for forcibly displaying his affection.

Long was originally arrested on a charge more serious than mere hugging, he having choked 17-year-old Emma Dudley. Several other women and girls in Oak Park identified Long as a man who had molested them, but as there was no proof of further intent, it was decided to reduce the charge to simple assault, to which Long pleaded guilty.

SENATOR JOHNSON DIES

Member of Upper House From North Dakota Passes.

FARGO, N. D., Oct. 21.—United States Senator Martin Johnson died in this city tonight at 7:30 o'clock. A week ago he submitted to a second operation for a nasal trouble and was believed to be getting well. He had been a sufferer from Bright's disease for years and had complained during the last two years but reports today were reassuring. His wife and his brother, a resident of this city, were present.

Senator Johnson was 87 years old. He was a graduate of the Wisconsin University and came to this state in 1882, devoting his attention to farming. He was a member of the constitutional convention. In 1889 he was a candidate for United States Senator and tied the party vote in caucus but was defeated in the joint session. In 1896 he was sent to Congress and was three times nominated by acclamation. He was eight years in the lower house. He was a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church and had been a member of the general conference of that body.

TULSA, Okla., Oct. 21.—With but one dissenting voice the members of group four of the state bankers' section, representing 60 banks in the eastern part of the state in a meeting here today, denounced the State Banking Board for its methods in dealing with the affairs of the Columbia Bank & Trust Co. of Oklahoma City. They also demanded that the state bank examiner issue a statement regarding the condition of the bank.

PAIR AFRAID TO RISK LOVE

Daughter of Ohio Millionaire and Pauper Machinist Bound in Holy Matrimony—Groom Continues at His Manual Labor.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 21.—(Special.)—The romance of a young couple whose marriage was planned 12 months ago in a small town in Ohio, and which was postponed because the girl and the man were afraid to risk their love in matrimony as they professed, was revealed today when Ross L. Brown was married to Miss Daisy D. Culp in Pasadena. The bride is the daughter of a millionaire furniture manufacturer of Van Wert, Ohio.

It also marked the end of a pursuit which had taken the girl's father twice across the continent, once seeking the bridegroom and again seeking his daughter.

It ended in a peaceable, quiet and appropriate manner, and a trifling misunderstanding that at one time threatened a tragedy is settled.

The young couple are now living quietly in a hotel near Sixth and Flower streets. The bridegroom, a machanic, is working for the Los Angeles Gas & Electric Company, and despite the wealth of his wife he refuses to return to the East.

Miss Culp met Mr. Brown when she was a student at a fashionable girls' school. With her class she visited the factory where Brown was employed as a mechanic.
