carry exhibits illustrating the matters the demonstrators are now presenting in lectures and will include fine stock, modern machinery for dry farming, tree and grass samples and the like.

The demonstration train traveled to-day through a country which, like Morrow County, has had a lean crop this year as the result of light rainfalls for two years. At Clem, which consists of a station, general store and a very few residences, the farmers from the surrounding country filled one of the big coaches brought along for use in cold or inclement weather. The coaches were put to their first the latter through to Chicago without change. Returning the Portland cars The coaches were put to their first use today, for while yesterday was warm enough a permit of outdoor lectures, today was cool and cloudy.

The afternoon lectures were given in the skating rink, where several hundred people gathered. The rink was crowded for the evening's illustrated lectures.

In the country surrounding Condon the crop conditions, while considerably the crop conditions, while considerably below normal, were better than in some of the other sections visited. Here considerable attention was paid to stock-raising by the lecturers and the farmers were strongly urged to grow more hots. The fact that prices paid in Portland are higher than in any other of the eight important stock markets in the United States was called to to a strenging of the producers.

Byron Hunter, the Government Assistant Agriculturist, discussed in detail forage crops for hogs. Each of the other specialists was heard, and Dr. withycombe gave another of his telling addresses, saying in part: Crop Cultivation Essential.

"Farming to be permanently successful The wheat farms of the Columbia River basin are no exception to this rule. Supplemental crops with wheat should be grown and fed to livestock, especially crops that will increase the or-ganic matter in the soil. Perhaps noth-ing is better for this than the field pea. It is generally believed that these can be successfelly grown on the wheat-pro-ducing areas of Eastern Oregon.

"Constant wheat production steadily depletes the fertility of the soil and the only feasible way of arresting this is the maintenance of livestock. In fact, wheat cannot be permanently grown will out some means of rejuvenating the soil. Summer-failowing will not do this. It Summer-failowing will not do this. It will succeed for a time, but just as soen as the accumulated plant food is exhausted, it will fail. The bare fallow adds nothing to the soil. Its purpose should be to conserve moisture and it should be practiced as little as possible. Instead of the bare fallow some supplemental erop should be grown. These supplemental crops, such as peas corn and alfalfa, should be consumed upon the farm. In this way the fertility of the spoke cloquency of the construction of Brocks, and Fred Dawson, of Albany. A musical programme was also presented.

The rectory was then thrown open to the many visitors who were present. It stands just south of the church and is one of the finest buildings of the kind farm. In this way the fertility of the soil may be maintained almost indefinitely.

"Livestock husbandry and wheat farm-ing make a good combination. Not only does it afford the means of conserving does it afford the means of conserving soll fertility, it also gives steady employ-ment to the farmer throughout the year. "As to the class of stock to be kept on the farm, this should be governed by the individual preference of the farmer and environment. Some farmers may prefer good horses, others beef cattle or dairy cows, while others would rather handle sheep or swine. Upon the strictly grain farms perhaps sheep or swine would prove the most satisfactory.

Feed Production Easy Matter.

"The principal factor with livestock "The principal factor with livestock upon the farm is the economical production of feed. This should not be difficult, especially if the general growing of the field pea becomes a fixed practice with wheat farmers. These may be utilized in various forms for sheep or swine or even for fattening cattle. For the latter, they may be used as silage in connection with grain or aifalfa hay. For fattening sheep or swine they may be so fed as to save the expense of harvesting. It would be desirable, however, to cure them as hay and fatten the sheep later in the senson and fatten the sheep later in the season when mutton values are at their maxi-mum. Pea hay cured at the proper time makes excellent hay for fattening sheep, makes excelent hay for fattening sneep, taking the place of both grain and hay. There is no reason why a splendid industry of mutton production cannot be developed in this manner. The grain farms in this way could be made to absorb a large proportion of the surplus sheep of the range and at the same time establish the section of shipping finished mutton. the custom of shipping finished mutton rather than feeders.
"One of the most neglected livestock

one of the most neglected investors industries in Oregon is the growing of swine. It is really a traventy upon the agriculture of the state that our packers are compelled to ship in from other states such a large proportion of the hogs they slaughter. There is absolutely no excuse for this. Conditions are highly favorable for producing hogs in the wheat sections for this. Conditions are highly favorable for producing hogs in the wheat sections of Eastern Oregon. Hogs should be found upon every farm. They will not only add to the revenues of the farmer, but will at the same time materially assist in maintaining the fertility of the farm. They must be grown cheaply, securing their growth mainly in the field. Pastures of Winter rye, rape, alfalfa, peas and perhaps other forage crops should be provided. In addition to these pastures a small supplementary grain feed may be small supplementary grain feed may be supplied. In this way the pig will be cheaply grown and in the Fall finished for the market upon peas or grain. Trainloads of excellent hogs should find their way to the packers from the grain farms of Description.

Turkish Bath Cures Rheumatism at Home

Costs But 2c a Bath, and the Body Is Rid of Uric Acid Poison With Astonishing Rapidity.

Quickly Cures Kidney Trouble, Nervous Prostration and All Skin Diseases.

The Robinson Thermal or Turkish Bath, taken at home, is becoming a rage. Those who have used the bath have been completely carried away with enthusiasm because of the astonishing results obtained.

Well-known physicians say that the Robinson Thermal Bath at home is about to become an almost universal conqueror of disease. This is not an exaggeration. Any man or woman can prove its results inside of 24 hours, in some cases 30 minutes.

In case of rheumatism especially, the uric acid poison is extracted from the system through the pores, almost as liquids are sucked up through a straw. Drugs merely smother the poison or ease the pain. They do not extract the poison from the body.

Any one can now take Robinson Thermal baths at home and at a cost of only about 2c a bath. The only way to take these baths is by the use of the Robinson Thermal Bath Cabinet, which is a unique and marvelous invention.

The Robinson Thermal Bath Cabinets can now be seen and examined in Portland at Woodard, Clarke & Co.'s.

Ask the dealer also for a copy of that great book, "The Philosophy of Health and Beauty." The regular price is $2.00, but you can get one free now only for a limited time.
