

WET COUNTY MAY BE COUNTED DRY

Canvassing Board Is Instructed to Omit Vote in City of Rainier.

EXTRA BALLOT BOX USED

City Attorney Insists Municipality Is Not Subject to Provisions of Local Option Law and Votes Cast in City Are Lost.

ST. HELENS, Or., Nov. 3.—(Special.)—Columbia County notwithstanding a majority of the votes cast were against prohibition, will probably be counted dry by the canvassing board, which meets tomorrow. This is due to the peculiar stand taken by the people of Rainier, under the instruction of L. S. Thomas, the City Attorney.

Rainier gave its majority for the "wet" side, and if this vote is thrown out the county is surely dry. Mr. Thomas holds that under Rainier's initiative charter the city is not subject to the provisions of the local option law, and the election board for Rainier precinct, acting under the City Attorney's orders, provided an extra ballot box in which the ballots of voters living within the city limits were deposited, while those of voters living in the precinct outside of the city were deposited in the box provided by the county authorities. In determining the qualifications of voters living in the city limits the city's registration books were used.

It is evident that if Rainier's contention that her charter exempts her from the provisions of the local option law is correct, her votes cannot be counted to affect the general result in the county, and even if this contention is correct, the canvassing board will probably hold that it has no authority to count votes cast in a city ballot box by voters whose qualifications are based upon city registration books.

YAKIMA "WETS" HOPE TO WIN

Saloonmen Work Secretly to Defeat Prohibition Move.

NORTH YAKIMA, Wash., Nov. 3.—(Special.)—The probable result of the local option election, to be held here December 23, is complicated by the city election which occurs earlier in the same month. While at present it is not believed that the city will go dry, the influence with the dry movement, judging from the present registration and the rate at which the voters are coming up, the local option element is not sufficiently strong to carry the day. The City Attorney has ruled, however, that the registration books shall be reopened after the city election so that there will be time to get out the dry vote. The movement gathers new force after the city ticket is chosen.

O. A. C. COACH PLEASURES

METHOD OF INSTRUCTION POPULAR WITH STUDENTS.

Captain Evenden, Who Leads College Squad, Won His Position Because of Qualifications.

OREGON AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, Corvallis, Oct. 3.—(Special.)—The two men who will have the most to do in the determination of the O. A. C. football fortunes this year are Captain James Evenden and Coach Sol Metzger. In the event of a successful season, the coach will be largely to the efforts of these men; if unsuccessful they will be forced to bear the brunt of the criticism.

Conditions make their problem a difficult one. Two years ago the college turned out a team which finished the season with the best record on the Northwest championship. Last year, practically the same team under the tutelage of the same coach finished the season almost at the bottom. They were able to win only one of the four big games in their schedule. Those who followed the fortunes of the team through the season were unanimous in attributing the failure to over confidence. This confidence, may be counted as an asset among the influences which bear upon the present situation because it has taught the men that over confidence is fatal in the best of teams.

On the other hand only three of the men who went through this experience are available for the team this year. These men have only played the one year and consequently have not had the experience of playing on a winning team. With only this little squad of veterans and a bunch of green men, many of whom have never before stood on a gridiron, from which to win, the Coach and Captain Evenden have had to build their team.

Captain Evenden was advanced to a place in the regular team last year. He played a consistent game at guard throughout the season. His active, aggressive work on the field this year caused Metzger to switch him to the tackle position. His earnest efforts won for him the captaincy. He is proving himself a good tackle and an able leader. Metzger's known ability, both as a player and a coach, has won for him the support of the student body and the confidence of his proteges at the very opening of the season. His methods of coaching and his style of play were entirely new to this college and to a certain extent to the Northwest. What will be the measure of his success in the intercollegiate contests remains to be seen, but in so far as good results may be judged in other ways than by intercollegiate competition his work has been successful.

LA GRANDE, Or., Nov. 3.—(Special.)—Four of the leading fruit-raising sections of Union County, Elgin, Cover, Union and La Grande are uniting in collecting an exhibit of apples for the National apple show in Spokane in this

CORVALLIS WILL SEND 2000

Students and Faculty Will Go to See Game With University.

OREGON AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, Corvallis, Nov. 3.—(Special.)—Students and faculty will go to Eugene November 13 to witness the annual football game between the College and University teams. This was assured by the action of the faculty last night in voting to suspend all classes on that day.

It is estimated that approximately 2000 people will go from this city to witness the big game. Arrangements will be made for special trains which will leave here in the morning of the day of the contest and return at night.

Old boilers will be replaced with new fitted to burn oil fuel, as oil can be more readily loaded than coal and is lighter. Engines will be lowered one deck and quarters of officers and men rearranged. If funds are ample, two additional pumps will be installed, making four in all, thus doubling the speed with which dredging can be done.

Repairs must be completed within six months. There is $200,000 available to make repairs and operate the dredge.

CITY'S POWER CO-ORDINATE

Judge Hanna Upholds Conviction of Liquor Law Violators.

GRANTS PASS, Or., Nov. 3.—(Special.)—At an adjourned session of the Circuit Court for the First Judicial District, Judge H. K. Hanna presiding, a number of opinions were handed down yesterday that were taken under advisement at the close of the September term of court.

Among others was a writ of review taken from the City Police Court, where the defendant, W. T. Coburn, and August Fetich, desired to test the right of the city to legislate upon the question of whether the city could pass an ordinance co-ordinate with the local option law or pass an ordinance making it a nuisance to sell liquor in violation of law. The defendants were convicted in the Police Court upon the charge of maintaining a nuisance.

In sustaining the city's right to legislate upon matters of this character, the court cited Wong vs. City of Astoria, which arose over the question of jurisdiction. The court held the ordinance was not in conflict with the laws of the state, but was co-ordinate and that a city had a right to pass ordinances which would in substance give the city power to co-operate indirectly with the state as a police regulation and that the local option law has not taken away this right.

That under the ordinance the keeping of bottles and liquor in violation of law was a nuisance per se and gave the city ample jurisdiction to legislate against such offenses.

The defendants gave notice of appeal to the Supreme Court.

However, more men are being sought to do the work and the construction companies are doing what they can to increase their list of employees.

The wages paid are $2.25 on the grade and $3 for men. These wages include the use of the bunk-houses, but laborers furnish their own bedding. Meals are furnished at 25 cents.

precipitation was 2.6 inches. November 1 there was a deficiency of 2.2 inches, dating from the beginning of the rainy season, September 1. During the past three days this has been reduced to 0.63 inch. The heaviest rainfall for October was in 1902, when 11.93 inches fell. STORAGE BOOMS TEAR LOOSE

Loss in Grays Harbor Will Amount to Thousands of Dollars.

ABERDEEN, Wash., Nov. 3.—Recent heavy rains in the Grays Harbor district, which have continued more than 10 days, have swelled the Chehalis, Satsop and Wynoochee rivers to overflowing, and millions of feet of logs have been lost from booms and are floating down the rivers to the sea.

With the Chehalis River choked with logs and thousands of them slipping past all obstructions and passing down the bay or to sea where they will never be recovered, loggers of Chehalis County stand to lose thousands of dollars by reason of the freshet.

The river came after a dry spell and found the Satsop, the Wynoochee and the Chehalis rivers full of logs. They came down in such numbers and so suddenly that the mouth of the sheer boom of the Chehalis Boom Company, which operates on the Chehalis River and controls the output of the loggers on the three rivers, became jammed, and the river was soon filled with logs from bank to bank. Since then the river has been filled with logs.

It is stated that the river from Cosmopolis east is literally choked and navigation is interrupted. A launch which started for Montesano this morning was forced to turn back. For three miles above Cosmopolis the river was filled with logs and they were still coming as far as the eye could see. At the Northern Pacific Railway bridge in South Aberdeen a jam has formed and the channel of the stream is practically closed. There is another jam near the Union Mill Company's plant which extends more than half way across the river and still another at Cosmopolis.

Seven tug boats were engaged today in picking up the floating logs, but thousands have been lost. The Chehalis Boom Company on the Chehalis, Satsop and Wynoochee rivers serves 15 firms and each of these concerns stands to lose several thousand dollars by reason of the freshet, making the total loss close to $75,000.

RIVER SEEKS NEW CHANNEL

Flood in Lewis May Seriously Damage Valley Farms.

KALAMIA, Wash., Nov. 3.—The downpour of rain has been almost continuous in this vicinity during the past four days and all local streams are swollen to the danger point. Much damage has already been done on the Lewis River and that stream is still rising. It is out of its banks and over the country road in the vicinity of Klager's Farm, and it is feared that a new channel may be cut across the valley, beginning at the old Robinson place above Woodland. The Lewis River Boom Company's boom at the mouth of the Lewis River broke away under the terrific strain of the flood and drift wood, and over 15,000,000 feet of logs were set adrift in the Columbia River. A large portion of these logs belonged to the Krogstad Logging Company. About 30,000 railroad ties, belonging to the Lewis River Lumber Company, were lost besides 8000 ties belonging to John Peterson and 5000 ties belonging to McFarland Bros.

PUGET SOUND RIVERS RISE

Disastrous Floods Are Threatened if Rainfall Continues.

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 3.—(Special.)—Floods and serious damage to property are threatened at Puyallup through the phenomenal rapid rise of the Puyallup River. The river today is as high as during the disastrous floods of three years ago. Much debris is coming down the stream. At McMillan, the water is cutting away the soft banks. A dam, caused by debris, has formed at Riverton and preparations are under way to blast the obstruction, it being feared that unless immediate action is taken the river will overflow the lowlands and cause heavy property damage.

If the heavy rains continue, severe floods may be recorded in the White River Valley.

During the last 48 hours the rainfall has been 1.24 inches, or double the usual precipitation in King County, even during heavy storms. L. B. Youngs, superintendent of the Municipal Water & Light Department, received advice today that Cedar River has risen three and a half feet and is still rising. The White River, at several points, already has overflowed its low banks, inundating adjacent low-lying areas. The Green River at Auburn is flush with its banks.

E. J. Decker battled for his life in the waters of Green River eight miles from Auburn yesterday afternoon, when he attempted to drive his team over a little bridge. The foundations were undermined by the rushing waters and he buckled. Decker was driving a wagon filled with traps for the fish hatchery situated not far from Auburn. The wagon and team fell into the river. Decker, after a hard struggle, reached shore. The team was drowned and the contents of the wagon lost.

While no fears are expressed of any disastrous floods in the valleys because of the unusually heavy rains, it is believed that the high water will cause considerable inconvenience to the farmers to the southward and will impede traffic over wagon roads to a great extent.

At Renton Junction, the White River has risen three feet. The water is now flush with its banks.

Castle Rock Believes Danger of Flood Is Lessened.

CASTLE ROCK, Wash., Nov. 3.—(Special.)—The Cowitz River was nine feet above low water mark at 11 A. M., and is still rising. There is little fear of flooding because there is little if any snow left in the mountains. A few cords of shingle bolts were lost by the Cowitz Shingle Company yesterday, because they came down in fast and furious water. The trouble was caused this week when the students prepared to hold the concert in Villard, rather than pay what they say are the unreasonable rates asked by Smith. The theater manager declares he will have all the show houses on the Northwest theatrical circuit barred to the club, and all its contracts cancelled unless the action is rescinded. The club is booked to play in Portland shortly after Thanksgiving, and was to have made a Southern Oregon tour just before that.

Rather than pay Smith's rate of 20 per cent of all the receipts, which they say is twice what they pay in most of the road towns, the club members say they will disband. Many of the patrons of the local theater are university students. Unless the trouble is adjusted they declare they will not patronize the house.

Patriotism

The stomach is a larger factor in "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness" than most people are aware in. Patriotism can withstand hunger but not dyspepsia. The confirmed dyspeptic "is fit for treason, stratagems and spoils." The man who goes to the front for his country with a weak stomach will be a weak soldier and a fault finder. A sound stomach makes for good citizenship as well as for health and happiness.
