START ROAD FUND

Portland Business Firms Head Subscription List.

OBJECT IS GOOD HIGHWAYS

Sums Aggregating $240 a Month, and $15,000 Is Wanted in Two Years-Convict Labor on Thoroughfares Proposed.

Good roads for the entire State of Oregon is the object of a number of Portland business men who held a meeting at the Commercial Club last night, when a subscription list was started with contracts for payments totaling $20 a month for two years, to be used as a campaign fund for the project. It is hoped to increase the subscriptions until they will total at least $15,000 for the two years, at the end of which time it is believed the good roads movement will have such a at the end of which time it is believed the good roads movement will have such a momentum that it will care for itself.

The plan adopted for the good roads campaign consists of creating a central basis for the work in this city, and to send men to every section of the state to interest the people in behalf of better highways. Lionel R. Webster, County Judge, chairman of the executive committee of the local Good Roads Organization, presented a detailed plan to the meeting last night for acquiring better roads for the state at a low cost. The plan outlined by him consists of having the state constitution changed so as to authorize counties to sell bonds for the construction of the roads. When these are built, it is planned to have the state pay one-third of the expenses, the respective counties to pay one-third and the remainder to be paid by interested property owners.

spective counties to paid by interested property owners.

It was suggested by Judge Webster that much of the work on the roads can be done at a nominal cost by having the convicts from the Penitenitary and the prisoners from the city and county jails set to work on them. This method, he declared, would result in a benefit for everybody and competition with nobody.

The plan outlined by Mr. Webster will form the basis of the campaign that is to be launched as soon as the subscription lists are complete. Offices of the campaign committee are to be opened up in Portland, and a manager is to be placed in it to direct the work.

The plan for having the prisoners work the roads has been before the Legislature twice before, and through a lack of energetic backing, explained Judge Webster, it has been defeated each time.

"But it's going to be presented to a lack of energetic backins, explained Judge Webster, it has been defeated each time.

"But it's going to be presented to the Legislature again and again until it is adopted," declared the speaker with much emphasis.

The first work, however, will be to create a public sentiment in favor of the plan and to get the constitution changed so as to admit of baving the counties pay their respective dues toward better highways.

A number of business men were pro-toward better highways.

A number of business men were provided last night with blank contracts, which they will ask ail interested people of the city who are financially able to sign. These contracts will provide for monthly payments to the fund for two years, each payment being for from $2.50 to $25 a month.

Contracts for monthly payments as follows were signed at the meeting last night, and a large number of more signatures have been promised: Implement Lealers' Club of Portland, $50: Howard M. Covey, $25; Meier & Frank Company, $25: Beal & Company, $25: Dr. Andrew C. Smith, $25: Journal Publishing Company, $25: E. Henry Wemme, $20: Security Vanit & Metal Works, $15; M. C.
