One London Firm Manipulating Hop Market.

KEEPS THE BREWERS BACK

Sold the Current Crop Short at Low Price and Is Now Trying to Prevent Values From Advancing.

What has puzzled hop dealers all over the country, and particularly on the Facific Const, has been the course the market has taken since the completion of harvest. With the world's production less than the requirements and an actual shortage indicated—even allowing for the supplies rarried over from previous growths—prices have shown an inclination to stand still rather than advance, as they should under the circumstances. It was plain from this halting action of the market either that the position had been figured out wrong or that forces were at work to keep prices down. As the trade has every means of learning the airmost exact outturn of hops the world over, and the carryover surplus has also been established approximately, it seemed incredible that an error could have been made in the reasoning of the speculators, who have been investing millions in hops. Therefore, the suspicion has been created that some dealer, or combination of dealers, has been fealer, or combination of dealers, has been manipulating the market.

That the stagnation in the price movement has been dur to the latter cause has ment has been due to the inter cause more been established beyond dispute. The great bear in the game is a London dealer one of the largest dealers in the English metropolis, and a man who annually handles thousands of bales of Oregon and Califorms hops. It has been discovered that he is heavily short on the 1909 crop, and as he has an important following in the English brewing trade, has been able to keep the brewers out of the market up to the present time. There is also reason to believe that one or two other large London dealers are on the short side and engaged in the same way in trying to bear the market.

This expining to near the market.

This expining the inactivity of the expert market at this end, and, therefore, the mability of prices to rise. American dealers at the Eastern seaboard are naturally interested in seeing prices kept down and do nothing to counteract the English manipulanothing to counteract the English manipua-tion. In the meantime, the speculative ele-ment is hanging on grimly and shows no slan of weakless, and the larger growers are backing tham by their persistent refusal to sell. If statistics count for anything, there must be a reaction before long, and it will not be in huyers' favor either. There are also important firms, both in America and in England, that are likely to enter the market at any time and turn the tide to

WHEAT PRICES ARE FIRMLY HELD. Farmers' Ideas Not Weakened by the Inactive Market.

The wheat market was quiet yesterday, both here and in the country. In spite of the duliness, however, it was not possible to buy wheat under the prices current last week. The coarse grains were also quiet and draily bold. There were no new developments in the flour situation on Puget Sound. Two of the larger millers are still holding to the cut prices. It is possible the trouble will be patched up this week.

PRODUCE MARKET WELL SUPPLIED.

No Searcity of Fruits or Vegetables, Not-withstanding the Blockade.

No produce has arrived from California by Tail for several days, because of the cave-in down the line, but in spite of the fact, the market is getting along very well. Local receipts have been large and a good supply of southern truck has come in by heat, so no one is suffering. In fact, there were more fruits and vogetables on the street yesterday than the trade needed. The demand, as has been the case for some time past, was light, but prices were held

RECENT HOP SALES IN OREGON. Transfers Made at Duyton, Porest Grove and McMinnville.

Among the transactions in the hop market yesterday was the sale of the Wester lot of 100 bales at Forest Grove to a Salem Genier. The price was reported to be 23% cents. H. L. Hart bought 45 hales from James Martin, of Dayton, at 23% cents, and 40 bales from Daniels & Blahop, of McMinnville, at 24% cents.

Wolf & Netter's London cable

Mail advices from New York note the purchase by the Anheurer-Busch Company of 1200 bairs of states at McGIS cents in Oceano County. This deal has stiffered the market in that section of New York State and at the same time reduced the unsold stocks in first hands to about 25 per cent of the crop. In other sections of the state the market is quiet but firm for choice grades

Unsettled State of Sugar Market As was previously announced, one of the outside jobbers doing business here yesterday made a 10-cent cut in sugar prices and is reported to have done an active business during the day. The cut was not openly niet, however, by the local wholesalers, and the market, therefore, continues as unsettled as ever.

Course of Foreign Money Markets. Amalgamated Copper Strong on Combine Rumors-Pres-

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—The initial upward impetus to stocks today came from professional buying to cover short contracts and was based upon the decision of the Imperial Bank of Germany to leave its minimum discount rate unchanged. The cloring was easy.

The weekly returns of the Imperial Bank of Germany showed that the bank ban regained but $1,245,200 of the $10,354,000 in gold lost last week. The Bank of England secured the $1,231,000 of South African gold available in the London market, but the London control of New York's gold was reassasted in the resumption of outgo of gold to South America, engagements of more than $1,000,000 being announced for that destination for shipment on Wednesday. The Bank of England also borrowed from the London open market. The movement of the sterling exchinge rate at Paris which advanced a full sentime to above the par of exchange, raised discussion of a possible movement of gold from Paris to London. Exports of grain are now running heavy and making exchange.

A notably strong feature of the market was Amisgamated copper. The influence back of this movement was the persistence of rumors of the progress towards a working agreement for various interests. A full in the sales of pig Iron since the first of November was an item which may have aggravated the selling pressure on United States Steel.

The late rise in call loans to 5 per cent also was against the market. Foreign exchange rose strongly in the face of the stiffening of the money market, and New York exchange rose strongly in the face of the stiffening of the money market, and New York exchange rose strongly in the face of the stiffening of the money market, and New York exchange rose strongly in the face of the stiffening of the money market, and New York exchange unchanged on call.

The corn market developed a decided weakenes after the publication of the Government report. The close was weak with prices at the bottom.

Oliver returned last evening from Billings, Mont., where he attended the Dry Farming Congress, taking with him a collection of agricultural products from Klamath County, collected by himself from non-irrigated farms.
