

ONE READ, 2 SHOT AT ROBBER'S HAND

Boy Bank Thief Kills Cashier, Wounds President and Negro Chauffeur.

RUSE BLOCKS LYNCHING

Escaping in Skiff, Motor Boat Rans Down New Albany, Ind., Desperado—Captor, Saying Captive Took Poison, Fools Mob.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 11.—J. H. Fawcett, cashier of the Merchants' National Bank, of New Albany, Ind., was killed; John K. Woodward, president of the same institution, was dangerously wounded, and James B. Tucker, a negro chauffeur of Louisville, was probably fatally wounded this morning when a young man, partially identified as Arthur Hall, a Louisville dealer in second-hand furniture, entered the bank, and, after commanding everyone to throw up their hands and "get in the vault," began shooting.

Cashier Dies Instantly. Mr. Fawcett died almost instantly. He was shot through the neck and chest. Woodward was shot through the liver and intestines, and Tucker, shot through the body, may die.

Following the shooting the murderer rushed from the bank and tried to make his escape in a stolen automobile. But the chauffeur, paralyzed with terror, and apparently incapable of action, sat still. The robber jumped from the car and sent a bullet through the negro's body. Turning down the river bank a distance perhaps of two blocks, the murderer ran with great speed. He quickly approached a skiff and started for the Kentucky shore.

Ruse Prevents Lynching.

An alarm was given through a megaphone from a drowboat, and in a short time the police of the little city had started in pursuit in a fast motor boat. They captured their man and brought him to shore, only to confront the new peril of a lynching. By a clever ruse, Captain Adams, of the police, stood off the crowd of 200 that thronged the dock as the boat landed. Commanding the boat to stop, the captain announced that the man had taken poison and was dead, meanwhile carrying him to the patrol wagon and giving the word to drive ahead. The robber was taken to the New Albany jail.

A few moments later, to escape the mob, he was removed to the Southern Indiana Reformatory at Jeffersonville. There the prisoner talked only under pressure. He said he did not know Tucker, the chauffeur.

Refuses to Give Name.

"I won't tell my name. I have seven brothers and six sisters, but my father does not live with my mother, and all of them are not within 90 miles of this place. I never smoked a cigarette, chewed nor drank. Oh, yes, I smoked a cigar in Covington two years ago, but never again. I never was in trouble but once. That was at Lexington, Ky., on Halloween, a long time ago. I seemed to be accused, but apparently it is not insane. He confessed that he planned the bank robbery, and says he had no assistance. The robber is a good-looking young chap, with red hair, neatly cut. His face is effeminate. He is not more than 20 years old.

Not Insane, Simply Mean.

Tonight the robber was identified as Thomas Jefferson Hall, and, according to William J. Hall, his father, is but 17 years old. The elder Hall, who has a furniture store at 801 Preston street in this city, said that young Hall was a household tyrant and not insane at all.

Robbers Tie Up Family

Police Chauffeur Graves were dispatched to the place immediately by Chief Cox, but were unable only to secure a description of the men. From this, however, the detectives profess to have their suspicions of the perpetrators and are at work on that theory.

The Bittner home is located in an isolated section of Irvington. There is not another residence in several blocks and the land is densely wooded in that part of the city. The house is a fine new bungalow, handsomely furnished, and was built by Mr. Bittner during the summer.

Only Money Wanted.

The leader spoke first. "Do not be alarmed," he said. "I will not be your money. You will have to hold up your hands. Now stand up and get over there against the wall. Quickly. We haven't any time to spare."

"The exigencies of the hour, you know," he said.

Soon after the robbers had gone, the beat or horses' hoofs on the pavement was heard less than a block away. The detectives are inclined to think the taller of the two men is an experienced highwayman and house robber. Although suspicious of both, they are in doubt of his identity. Neither used any slang in his conversation and moved about on the waxed floor as if familiar with such surroundings. One of them even inquired the make of the piano, venturing that it was one of the best upright instruments made. He was familiar with such surroundings. Hamlin, American Tenor in Concert

Large Audience Hears Delightful Program at Bungalow, and Singer Tells He is Still Leader Among His Kind.

BY JOSEPH M. QUENTIN. IT IS a remarkable tribute to the art of song, that the word of George John Hamlin that he is still the leading tenor in America, is being heard by a large audience of singing soft love songs, and in the face of severe competition. He has won this golden crown, this goal for which many American boys would give their all, by his ability as a student and singer, and his industry in the selection of music peculiarly suited to his lyric tenor voice.

Mr. Hamlin was the solo artist at a high-class concert given last night at the Bungalow Theater, under the direction of Lois Steers-Wynn Coman. The audience was large but somewhat slow in arriving, and late-comers somewhat spoiled the beginning of the musical treat by the noise made in finding their seats. This should be remedied next time.

Mr. Hamlin made many friends by the fine program he gave at his concert here about two years ago, and Portland then formed a favorable estimate of his high merit as a tenor. He again showed skill last night in the musical selections he made, and his audience thought kind was somewhat late in waiting up to the feast of good things in store.

Mr. Hamlin is just a finished concert tenor, and as such he has won renown by singing before the principal musical clubs and societies of this country and Germany.

Mr. Hamlin sang last night up to B in all his songs, a skillful use of what experts call the upper thin voice, to which is wedded the falsetto. Mr. Hamlin reached in this manner his highest notes with ease, but when he sang the greater part of the program, and Mr. Hamlin evidently believed in a judicious use of the German language, where in his rendition of the "lieder" he wins his most artistic triumphs. There is great enthusiasm over his singing of the Schneider songs, "Your Eyes" and "Flower Rain," and he was forced to repeat those numbers. His other favorites were "Over the Hills and Far Away," "Auf der Heide," "Year at the Spring" (Beach), and "The Day is Gone."

By Miss Margaret Lang, of Chicago. Mr. Hamlin's music was every much helped by the really artistic piano accompaniments played by Edwin Schneider, of Chicago.

WOMAN ON TRIAL NOW NEAR DEATH

Mrs. Allen F. Read, Facing Extortion Charge, Is Taken Suddenly Ill.

MRS. PHIPPS TELLS STORY

Denver Woman Relates How Interview Was Secured in Which Alleged Demand for $100,000 Was Made.

DENVER, Colo., Nov. 11.—Seized with violent convulsions during her trial on the charge of attempting to secure $100,000 from Mrs. Generosa Chandler Phipps on the threat of death by dynamite, Mrs. Allen F. Read lies at the point of death at the home of her sister, Miss Jennie Campbell, tonight.

Mrs. Reed first collapsed during the noon recess, but was revived and reappeared at the afternoon session. A few moments later she again became unconscious, and was removed to the home of her sister.

Mrs. Phipps, the complaining witness, again took the stand today and was cross-examined by Mrs. Read's attorney. In answer to questions in regard to the methods by which Mrs. Read had secured an interview with her, Mrs. Phipps said Mrs. Read had told her she was in the Phipps household, who was endeavoring to secure material for a sequel to Joseph Medill Patterson's "Little Brothers of the Rich," had been placed there by Henry Phipps, of New York, an uncle of her divorced husband, Lawrence Phipps, in an effort to prove that she regarded money far beyond her children, and that she was an unfit person to have the custody of her two daughters.

In spite of the grilling cross-examination, Mrs. Phipps adhered strictly to the story told yesterday. She again told of how Mrs. Read had proposed to return the amount she attempted to force from Mrs. Phipps by insuring her life for the same amount and committing suicide by dynamite while visiting a marble quarry.

Insanity to Be Plea.

Mrs. Read was surrounded by allentists this morning, and should see be able to face the tribunal after her collapse today, her attorneys will introduce the plea of insanity.

Mrs. Phipps' two daughters, Helen and Dorothy, the first of whom was held as a hostage by Mrs. Read while her mother negotiated the securing of the money from the bank, sat in the courtroom during the trial this morning, accompanied by Mrs. Phipps' father, C. H. Chandler, of Bellingham, Wash.

CAR JAMMED, SHE FAINTS

POOR BROADWAY SERVICE IS AGAIN EXEMPLIFIED. Conductor Assists Stricken Woman to Sidewalk—Mass Meeting to Demand Better Schedule.

Agitation by the people of Broadway for an improved streetcar service received an unexpected impetus last evening when, because of the overcrowded condition of a Broadway car, a woman passenger fainted and had to be assisted from the coach. The woman's name was not learned but she was a passenger on the Broadway car that left Third and Washington streets at 6:15 o'clock last evening. Every available inch in the car was occupied and it was because of the resulting oppressiveness that the woman took ill and had to be removed from the car at Ninth and Broadway. It was necessary for the conductor to assist her to the sidewalk.

Early next week a mass meeting of the residents of Broadway will be held in the Irvington clubhouse, when a campaign will be outlined by which these people hope to secure better streetcar service. They will take their grievance formally to the officials of the Portland Railway, Light & Power Co. The Broadwayites will ask for a ten-minute service during the day, with cars every seven minutes during the early part of the night. The streetcar company will also be asked to give these people a special car which will not make any stops west of Union avenue and Broadway.

TROOPS ARE EXCHANGED

TWO VANCOUVER BATTERIES WILL BE REPLACED. Division of Second Artillery Will Be Taken to Vancouver Post From Wyoming.

VANCOUVER, Wash., Nov. 11.—(Special.)—Orders were received at Vancouver Barracks today to prepare to have Batteries A and B, Fourth Field Artillery, leave for Fort Russell, Wyo., upon the arrival of two Batteries, A and B, of the Second Field Artillery. Orders had been expected for some weeks and now the rumor has been confirmed. The troops will be ready to leave on short notice when the other soldiers arrive.

A and B Batteries, Second Field Artillery, are the new organization of what was once the 7th and 8th Field Artillery. They were stationed at Vancouver Barracks and went from here to Cuba three years ago.

With the removal of the two batteries of the Fourth Field Artillery from this post will go the headquarters of what do the troops here will start for Wyoming. There are now at Fort Russell several other batteries of the Fourth Field Artillery and the transfer of the two from Vancouver Barracks will bring the full regiment together. The troops will board a special train inside the barracks, go there in a spur running from the North Bank road into the post.

TACOMA, Nov. 11.—Mrs. Martin A. Kvalshaug, on trial for complicity in the murder of her husband, for which Charles Newcombe is under sentence to be hanged, today made answer to the report that she has been endeavoring to hypnotize members of the jury and state's counsel. "I wish to God I could," she declared. She denied that she had been making any attempt, however.

Strong testimony against the woman was given this morning. One woman testified to having heard Mrs. Kvalshaug tell Newcombe at the dance on the night of the murder it was time for him to go. Newcombe, the witness said, left the hall, going, it has been shown, to lie in ambush for her husband. On a night preceding the murder a woman friend of the defendant testified she walked with Mrs. Kvalshaug along the same path on which her husband was waylaid and killed. A rustling in the bushes was heard, and the friend, knowing of trouble between the Kvalshaugs because of Newcombe, suggested it might be the husband.

"Some day he'll get his d-d head blown off," Mrs. Kvalshaug is said to have answered.

John A. Lehner, superintendent of the Arlington Club, accompanied by Mrs. Lehner, left Tuesday for New York, where he will assist in the selection of some of the new equipment which will be installed when the Arlington Club removes to its new home at Park and Salmon streets.

Mr. Lehner is popular among hotel and clubmen in the East. He is well known not alone in New York City, but also in Chicago, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington and Pittsburg. For six years Mr. Lehner was superintendent of the celebrated Clarion on Riverside Drive, New York, and later served for five years in the same capacity at Rectors, Forty-second and Broadway, and the exclusive New York Club, Fifth avenue and Thirty-fifth street. Mr. Lehner was induced to come to Portland and accept the position of superintendent of the Arlington Club five years ago by Robert Gerry, of New York. Mr. and Mrs. Lehner will be absent about a month and will spend a part of the time visiting Mr. Lehner's aged mother at Pittsburg, Pa.

Kitchener Collects Porcelains. VICTORIA, B. C., Nov. 11.—(Special.)—Lord Kitchener, who is visiting Japan, has been making great collections of Chinese and Japanese porcelains in keeping with his hobby. He affects chiefly the porcelains of the Kangshu, Yung Ching and Chien Lung era and at Pekin spent $25,000 adding to his collection. He ransacked Manchurian cities for porcelains, but failed to find specimens he sought.

Talks on Teeth

BY THE REX DENTAL CO. BEAUTIFUL TEETH

One of the most things of the Alveolar Method of restoring missing teeth without the aid of plates or ordinary bridgework is their absolute naturalness. When they are complete and in the mouth they are so perfect that the one who wears them is constantly being complimented on their teeth. We never have heard of anybody, who wears a partial plate or bridgework, being complimented on their natural teeth. There is nothing about them that needs to be favored; in fact, they are practically no pain in the mouth, either while it is being done or afterwards; the gums keep healthy, and the teeth can be brushed and kept clean exactly the same as if they were natural teeth and had grown in the gum.

In cases where all the teeth are gone we can do nothing except furnish a perfect and perfect fitting plate, something that most dentists can't do. But if two or more teeth are left in either jaw we can restore all those that are missing by the Alveolar Method, and give a patient a set of teeth that are as near nature as it is possible to get. The natural teeth will scarcely be noticed. The work is practically painless, calls for no surgical operation as in the old-time method, and when done is permanent. The wearer can use the Alveolar Teeth with almost as much satisfaction as if they had grown in his jaws, and we defy any one, dentist or otherwise, to tell them from the most beautiful and perfect natural teeth.

Pyorrhea, the most dreaded disease of the dental profession, commonly known as "loose teeth," a disease that is almost incurable, we claim to cure and guarantee the cure to be permanent. We have hundreds of cases to refer to right here in this city and state. There is seldom a day that we do not discharge one or more patients from our office as cured of this awful disease.

REMEMBER, please, that cheap dentistry is the most expensive in the end. Most of our business comes from those who have had their teeth restored with permanence. Dental work should be artistic and beautiful as well as serviceable and lasting.
