"Success in apple-growing and attain-ing satisfactory results depends on git-ting started right," said Professor Cole-a-member of the State Agricultural College at Corvallia. "First the selection of location with the right kind of soil, where location with the right kind of soil, where climatic conditions, elevation, water supply, water and air drainage, distance to transportation or railroad are favorable. The condition of the soil, varieties of trees best suited to the locality, the size and quality of the trees, are of the greatest importance, for the reason that the first year's growth of a fruit tree has everything to do both with the life of the tree and its productiveness". We selected the right kind of soil in the most favorable locality and are selling five and ten-acre tracks planted to apples, located 33 miles south of Portland, two miles from a railroad station, on easy terms. We will guarantee as income each terms. We will guarantee as income each year until your orchard comes into bearing. If you are interested in apple-growing call on us. Let us show you our contracts, explain our methods; and you will find our offer one of the most attractive and liberal ones. Woodburn Orchard Company, Inc. 505-50. Henry uilding. Fourth and Oak streets.

RESCUE WORK TO UPLIFT PORT-LAND YOUTH.

With "Purity" as Her Motto, Mrs. Florence Roberts Will Labor Among Young.

Mrs, Florence Roberts, from Chittenden Cal., and better known among the large cities of California as "Mother Roberts," came to Portland yesterday, and is stay ingsat the Portland Hotel. "Mother Rob erts" came to this city at the request of the Pacific Coast Rescue and Protec-tive Association, and will remain here several weeks, carrying on her work of uplifting the youth of the city. This is the first time Mrs. Roberts has worked outside the State of California. During her stay here she, wal carry on her general rescue work among the young people, and particularly among the giris. "Absolute purity and no double stand-

"Absolute purity and no double standard," is her motto.

"I confine my work to no particular line," said Mrs. Roberts yesterday. "I work wherever there is a chance to uplift and save mankind. I will work in the slums or among any class of people that need me. I have spent most of my life in this cause, and I feel I have saved life in this cause, and I feel I have saved many a young person from ruin.

"I work particularly among girls and boys at the age of about 13 or 14 years. It is at this age that girls especially are susceptible to the call of evil, and if they can be tided over the age of transition they are generally safe after that. Most girls go astray through ignorance, and because they do not realize what the final outcome of the evil deeds will be.

outcome of the evil deeds will be.
"In the majority of cases, both among the high and low classes of people, the parents are to blame for the waywardness parents are to blame for the waywardness of their children. Such parents deserve the severest kind of censure. I endeavor to impress upon girls that some day they will be the mothers of boys and girls, and they should try to lead the kind of lives that will enable them to instruct their offspring correctly."

Mrs. Roberts brings with her letters of commendation of her noble work from many high state and city officials, and from officers of institutions. Among these
