NEW TODAY.
PESSIMIST OR OPTIMIST—WHICH?
The pessimist, who cannot see that Portland is expanding into a vast city, but expects property to be cheaper at some indefinite time in the future, need not answer this advertisement; he will wait till doom-day before investing. I want to do business now. The optimist—who understands what the present tremendous development of both state and city means—who sees the time, not far distant, when Portland will extend to Oregon City, Gresham and Troutdale, the man I want to talk with. In my enthusiasm I have slightly overdone it, but I want to sell a small portion in order to hold the balance and relieve money pressure. For $2500 cash—no trade—I can turn over to you a piece of undeveloped acreage near Portland, which will increase steadily in value, as sure as a plowshare, as the city extends to Oregon City and Washington, and the Thompson Theater at Pine and 4th. The idea is to put your money there, forget about it, and let it increase with the expansion of the city; and then some fine morning, two or three years hence, wake up to find your holding doubled and trebled in value. Requires optimism to do this; but look around you and you will see that it is the optimist who are on top, and the pessimist who are at the bottom. You will find my price is right—it is better than any other. I will accept cash or carry to cartline, the title perfect; my necessity is your opportunity; if interested address AG 555, Oregonian.
