"He has not been reading the news papers in the last few days and is not responsible for the statements issued those who were acting as spokesmen. In sending his data Copenhagen, Dr. Cook has fulfilled his obligations to the public."

The foregoing was issued by the explorer's brother in view of the fact that the doctor's apparent seclusion caused great anxiety on the part of his friends, leaving even John R. Bradley, his financial backer, puzzled and ex-

Mrs. Cook is also in New York City, but her exact whereabouts has no been announced.

Many Seek Explorer

The audden shift of base by which Dr. Cook, the seeker, became Dr. Cook, the sought, has enlisted a small army of eager explorers, who have been able to contribute facts of collateral interest only. Dr. Cook was still in retreat tonight, Mr. Wack, his counsel, has gone to the country for a week, also to seek seclusion. Mr. Wack, his confident, still affirms he knows where Dr. Cook is, and that he is not going to tell.

Cook's Friends Explain.

· Friends of Dr. Cook undertook to explain the situation today in this wise: "It is true." they say, "that the doctor's fears have been greatly overworked on by the belief of some of those with whom he associated that there exists a plot to steal his records, even to spirit him away in person. He even engaged two privats detectives to shadow his ned shadowers.

"Mrs. Cook and those in her confidence felt that this atmosphere was not good for the doctor, and arranged to have him conveyed into seclusion. loctor intended no mystery. All that aspect of his affairs has resulted from cement made by Mr. Wack, who has not seen Dr. Cook for a week. and merely acted on the presumption that he was to sail on the Caronia."

Mrs. Cook Also Gone.

Mrs. Cook's whereabouts are as much a mystery as those of her husband. She is supposed to be staying somewhere in the city, but just where could not be learned.

Dr. Cook's health is matter of great concern among his friends. Prior to his sudden retirement, he was reported to on the verge of nervous breakdown, and it is assumed by some that the necessity for absolute rest may have prompted his wife to insist on his seclu-

OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU, Wash gton, Nov. 28.-If Congress carries out all the recommendations made by Secretary of the Interior Bullinger in his an nual report to the President, practical and fair-minded advocates of conservation of natural resources will have noth ing to ask beyond a strict enforcement of the law. The Secretary's report, made public today, has been read and approved by President Taft, and therefore may be regarded as volcing his own views and opinions upon the various subjects dealt with, and to that extent is an indication dent himself will submit to Congress later. when it convenes next Monday

Report, Plain, Strong.

Secretary Ballinger's report is, in no degree sensational. It is a plain, force ful recital of conditions as they exist. In it the many weaknesses of the public land laws are pointed out, and practical rem edles are suggested. The report gives evidence of great study of the variou problems discussed, and indicates the minuteness with which the new Secre tary of the Interior has gone into the details of the work of his department. From first to last the report is free urisdiction of the Secretary of the Interior. There is no reference to friction with the Forest Service, but at places reading between the lines, can be found indications of the Secretary's desire that States Government, Congress shall absolutely define the powers of the Secretary of the Interior, so that in future there will be no excuse ment undertaking to dictate questions of of the Government service.

Power Sites Foremost.

Because of the prominence given to the question of water powers through newspapers and magazines of late, Secretary Ballinger's views on that subject perhaps outshadow all other features of his report. In discussing power-sites, the Se retary presents a complete plan of legislation, which is offered as a suggestion for the guidance of Congress, and not with the idea that his recommendations will be followed explicitly. Rather, the plan is presented as a basis for discussion, and incidentally it may be said it is the first definite plan of power-site leg- WASCO RESIDENCE BURNED islation yet presented by any Government official. With reference to this topic the Secretary says:

Secretary says:

In anticipation of new legislation by Congress to prevent the acquisition of power sites on the public domain by private persons or corporations with the view of monopolizing or adversely controlling them against the public interests, there have been temporarily withdrawn from all forms of entry approximately 605.355 acres, covering all locations known to possess power possibilities on unappropriated lands outside of National forests. Without such withdrawais these sites would be enterable under existing laws, and their patenting would leave (Concluded on Page 9.)

the liberal leaders in a letter in which he stated that, so far as he was officially concerned he had decided to consider the fusion as an accomplished fact and, in view of this, he would make appointments to his Cabinet without reference to the particular faction of the Liberal party to which the appointee might have belonged. The attitude of the president was particularly objectionable to the Zayasites because the important post of secretary of state recently was made vacant by the resignation of Justo Garcia Velez, a prominent member of the faction, and it was stated the president would fill it with one of his own supporters.

The incident has served to defer the accomplishment of actual fusion and, should it result in breaking off existing negotiations, it is not improbable that the administration will have two opposing parties with which to deal.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28 .- (Special.)-The lew York Times, in its Washington correspondence, prints a voluminous report from the American Vice-Consul-General at Mukden, showing how American trade has been injured by Japanese commercial methods in Manchuria, and virtually charges that the report was suppressed by the State Department because it depicted a situation different from what it is desired to have believed with refere to Japan, China and the open door, At first denied by State Depart-as "arithmetically interesting" only. The article in the Times, which was followed by another of similar material today, has attracted much attention in business circles which have felt that the American State Department was taking the Japanese side in Oriental diplomacy as against the Chinese.
