

UNDERWORLD REAL ISSUE IN SEATTLE

Four Republicans, Three Democrats, Would Be Mayor of Sound City.

INCUMBENT OUT OF FIGHT

Policies Many and Varied, but Red-Light District Seems Paramount. Pulpits Are Campaign Rostra. Primaries February 8.

SEATTLE, Jan. 17.—(Special.)—Seattle is getting ready to elect a Mayor. There are seven aspirants, four Republicans and three Democrats, and the question of nominees will be settled at the primaries February 8.

Republican candidates for nomination are: Hiram C. Gill, president of the city council; V. Bouillon, deputy superintendent of public utilities; Austin E. Griffiths, lawyer, whose most conspicuous public service was removal of the president of the Seattle playgrounds association; and Ben Humes, member of the paid fire department. Democratic candidates are: William Hickman Moore, lawyer, and ex-Mayor; Charles H. Miller, union labor advocate and lawyer, who in 1907 failed to be elected to Congress; and Oliver T. Erickson, president of the Manufacturers Association.

Every one of the aspirants has tried to define the paramount policy which he declared that the paramount policy looks to reduced expenses, a cutting-down of municipal employes and a weeding-out of incompetents whom nobody has the nerve to discharge, a lowering of the tax rate, the encouragement of factories, and the upbuilding of a more beautiful Seattle.

Whether Seattle will admit it or not, an issue greater than these has come into view, and really the biggest factor in the campaign. What shall be done with the red-light district. That is the question which stirs the city. Within ten days the Protestant churches, which have backed into the campaign. They have come almost as a unit, as if their demands concerning the underworld were premeditated and unanimous.

Miller Is Out of Fight.

It is significant that Mayor Miller is not trying for reelection. Shortly after he rode into office with a majority of 600 over Moore, he abolished the red-light district. It has remained abolished. That is to say, the red-light district is not aggregated. It has been scattered to the four winds. Formerly the abandoned habitues of the restricted district, regularly every month, were made the recipient of a stated sum, which presumably at length found its way by devious course into the city treasury. Today there is no district, but Delilah, who could not be killed, or drowned, or run out of town, is still here. She has no immunity. Often times, on complaint of the responsible or the disolute, she is "stuck up" by a patrolman, just as is the victim of thug or blackjack artist. Observers competent to judge declare that never have conditions among the helpless and pitiable dregs of society been so onerous and intolerable as they are now. The powers that prey on the misfortunes of the fallen, while not abating one jot of their tribute, have been obliged to change their methods of collection.

How Much Must I Spend?

Last spring a man spent a total of $16,000 advertising a new fabric. In ninety days he had secured 700 new accounts, sold 1,250,000 yards more than he had expected, at an average net advance of 3c. per yard.

And, during the same year, another advertiser in a kindred line, who has been in our columns continually for nineteen years, spent $80,000 in our publications.

Success in merchandizing of fabrics depends not so much on the size of the appropriation as upon the intelligence and thoroughness of method.

As the foremost women's publication, THE LADIES' HOME JOURNAL would naturally be the first medium in a fabric-merchandizing campaign. And yet—

"Method," rather than space selling, is what we would first like to discuss with you.

The Curtis Publishing Company Philadelphia New York Chicago Boston

The circulation of THE LADIES' HOME JOURNAL is more than 1,300,000 copies each month. The same forces which have created the LADIES' HOME JOURNAL have, at the same time, made it an advertising medium of unique power.
