The witness said he had no reason for not having testified to that fact at the Mays trial and explained that did not, it was due to the failure of the Government prosecutor to question him on the subject. He admitted having told the prosecution of such a conversa-tion with Mays before the trial of Mays

Tarpley also admitted on cross-examnation that he had been convicted on a charge of conspiracy about five years ago, but had not been sentenced, Anago, but had not been sentenced, Another conspiracy charge is pending against Tarpley. Before the Mays trial, Tarpley had several conversations with Mr. Heney and Mr. Becker, when he agreed to tell all he knew in connection with the creation of the reserve if called as a witness. He also related that he at no time had any conversation or cor-respondence with Hermann and that Hermann was not present at any fime Mays had declared that men in Washington were being paid by Mays and his assoclates for their services in creating the Conspiracy Is Shown.

The entire forenoon session of the trial was occupied by Attorney Heney in establishing the fact that a conspiracy was entered into for the unlawful acquisition of state school lands in the proposed Blue Mountain Forest Reserve. He showed that Franklin P. Mays, Willard N. Jones and the late H. A. Smith were prime movers in the scheme. These were mem-bers of the Oregon Legislature who assisted in the election of Senator Mitchell 1901, just prior to the launching of Blue Mountain Forest Reserve con-

When Flegel was engaged in drawing the will of H. A. Smith, he said, he learned that Smith was in-terested in certain school lands in East-ern Oregon and that his partners were F. P. Mays and Willard N. Jones. After the death of Smith a claim of $2000 was filed against the estate by Mays, because of moneys advanced in promoting the purchase of the school lands. Ormsby Told of Reserve.

Tarpley testified that he first heard of the creation of the Blue Mountain For-est Reserve while visiting the office of Forest Superintendent Ormsby at Salem. He had previously arranged with Mer-ritt Ormsby for Ormsby to inform him of any proposed reserves in this state. Young Ormsby exhibited a letter from the Commissioner of the General Land Office instructing the Forest Superina map of the district, took it to the of-fice of the State Land Board and school holdings in the district were va cant. That night he came to Portland and informed McKinley of the case. They hunted up S. Y. Hyde, who advanced $4.000, and Tarpley and McKinley returned to Salem the same night. As soon as the land office opened next morning they prepayed 10.000 across morning they purchased 10,000 acres. Tarpley said he and McKinley filled in the descriptions of the land on the blanks obtained in the North End, and that Tarpley acknowledged them Notary Public. Two days later Tarpley and McKinley returned to the State Land Office and made an additional purchase of 7,600 acres, the money being advanced by Mc-Kinley. After I told him, Mays said the lands were a part of those he had expected to hiv. part of those he had expected to buy, and he demanded.50 per cent of our holdings. I told him I didn't know why we should de that, and Mays replied that it would require 50 per cent to pay the expense of creating the reserve. I refused to comply with his demand and went away.

Mays Demands Half.

"Along about the time the Reserve was (Continued from First Page.)

In the cross-examination of this witness in the cross-examination of this witness Attorney Warthington, by referring to Tarpley's testimony at the Mays trial, showed that at that time Tarpley had falled to testify to the alleged conversation he recited yesterday to the effect that Mays had told him of having men at Washington on the payroll in connection.

"Along about the time the Reserve was created I came from Salem and met Attorney La Force, who showed me a list torney La Force, who showed me a list of the lands which Mays wanted Mc-Kinley and I to give him. I went to Jones sent me to Mays. When I got there he still insisted that we should give up one-half of our school lands, and he told me that if we did not do so he would have the new reserve checkerwould have the new reserve checker-boarded so as to feave us out. I mean he would have the lines of the reserve changed so as to leave out the school lands we owned.

"I then offered Mays 50 cents an acre or $8.500, which he refused with the re-mark that such a sum would not pay the fellows in Washington. I told Mays he was demanding lands from McKinley and myself which were worth at least $40,000, and that the reserve would be rather ex-pensive if everybody put up money in the same proportion be sought from us."

Tarpley said he had entered into a written agreement with Merritt Ormsby whereby the latter was to have a one eighth interest in the school land, chased by McKinley and Tarpiey. witness considered that the school lands possessed a market value of from $5 to $5.50 an acre as base lands, for exchange under the provisions of the lieu land

On cross-examination, Tarpley said he refused to yield to the demands of Mays and surrender to him one-half of the school lands held by the witness and Mc Kinley, even though Mays threatened to see that the boundaries of the reserve were so established that the Tarpley-Mc-Kinley lands would be left out. As it was Tarpley said about 3500 acres of their lands were excluded from the reserve as it finally was created.

In his testimony, McKinley, who fol-owed Tarpley, corroborated the statements of Tarpley as to the alleged con versation with Mays, in which Mays had said there were "fellows" at Washing-ton who had to be paid if the reserve were created McKinley, on the suggestion of Sorenson, called on Mays early in 1902 and Mays demanded that McKinley and Tarpley convey to Mays and his associates one-half of the total acreage they had acquired. McKinley refused to comply with this demand, telling Mays he would see him again. At a subsequent interview, at which only McKinley and Mays were present. McKinley said he of-fered to pay Mays 50 cents for each acre held by him and Tarpley. It was then that Mays remarked that the $5000 which would come from that arrangement would of moneys advanced in promoting the purchase of the school lands. It was allowed and paid, although Flegel did not see the certificates covering the purchase of the property. The certificates were retained by Mays. Flegel said he had been informed that the total amount of land owned jointly by Mays, Jones and Smith was about 24 600 acres. The deal proposed that Merritt Ormsby, who gave the information which enabled Merrit or making the control of the school lands. and Tarpley to get in on the school lands within the reserve, was to receive an undivided one-eighth interest, McKinley and Tarpley were to have a three-eighths interest, while the other one-half was to go to Hyde for financing the project. Ormsby later received $100 for his interest in the lands

JAPANESE BARBER OF PORTLAND AND CHINESE WOMAN WITH WHOM HE ELOPED

Ohanna Kim Far, the wife of Lee Foo, a prosperous Chinese merchant, 81 North Fourth street, is now being sought by

The disappearance of the couple, the despair of the deserted husband over the loss of his money and his wife, have created the biggest sensation in Celestial circles which has stirred Chinatown since the new colony in the North End was established.

Okada was employed at a little barber shop conducted by a fellow countryman near Front and Main streets. He dressed In the latest fashion, and was considered one of the dudes of the Asiatic colonies of the city. He first formed the ac-quaintance of Lee Foo and his wife about a year ago, at which time he began buying goods at the store of the Chi-Acquaintance Grows to Friendship.

The acquaintance of the merchant and the barber finally ripened into a warm' friendship and Okada was taken into the inner family circle and made acquainted with Ohana, who was half Chinese and half Japanese.

The story of the desertion and robbery told by Lee Foo last night, through an interpreter, is as follows:
"I never would have suspected my wife.
She was so quiet. About noon on Monday she told me that she was going to visit my cousin Tong Wing, at Third and Main streets. As I afterwards found out, she went to the safe deposit vaults in the Chamber of Commerce building at five minutes after 1 o'clock and took everything out. I had worked hard all my life left to me by my father. "Shortly after this I heard from her over the telephone. She was at my cousin's and said that she wanted my little son to be sent up to her after he had returned from school.

'I learned from my cousin afterwards that she went up there to get three diamond rings which belonged to me, but which she had loaned to his daugh-ters. She left there in the afternoon and was not afterwards seen in this city. She sometimes visited my cousin's 10 or 11 o'clock at night and I did not think anything of her absence until it reached midnight and then I telephoned all over the city to our friends and could find no trace of her. My suspicions were aroused immediately, so I rushed to Oka-da's lodgings, which are over Aoki's res-taurant at Second and Everett street. His bed had not been occupied and all night he remained away. I reported the matter to the police.

Loss Is $10,000.

"I told the police my loss was $10,000 It will be more than that. Fully half was in cash. Most of the money was in gold pieces and a small part of it in bills, the largest of which were $20. The jewelry was in solid gold and diamonds. Both my wife and I had always been fond of diamonds. I don't mind the loss of the money so much as I do my wife's desertion of her little boy. We have one son, Lee Fong, 6 years old. I can make more money but I am at a loss to proposite the search of the erly rear my child now without a wife A reward of $200 each has been offered for the runaways. TALKSONTEETH BY THE REX DENTAL CO., DENTISTS

Absit Invidia

To the dog, it's the tick on the dog's back. Our talks on teeth are intended to edify the public regarding the highest of high-class dentistry, and to condemn the bargain counter article. We have no intention of entering into a controversy with the cheap skate who seeks to gain a little publicity for himself at our expense. The Rex Dental Co. have nine offices in the West. In each city we have the same standing that we have established for ourselves here—the reputation of doing the best, most beautiful. artistic and durable work that is possible in dentistry. We are the originators and owners of the Alveolar method, have same patented both in the United States and each state in which we do business, by patents, copyright and trademark. We have treated hundreds of people in this city, many of them are among the best-known people here. We unhesitatingly refer to them, feeling sure that each and every one, when asked, will say that the Alveolar work we did for them is satisfactory in every way, and that it far exceeded their expectations, in looks, comfort and service. We also have samples, counterparts or original cases, in our offices, which speak for themselves. What a man sees he knows. We can also show you work in the mouth or being put in. As at all times we have patients in our offices having this work done.

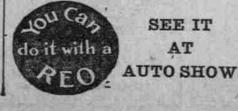

In condemning the bargain-counter dentists' work we do not mean that it is impossible to get a good job done by such, but if you do it's an accident. We know some few dental parior dentists who do good work and get a fair price for it. Yet it stands to reason that if goid and skill are the most expensive of the commodities, if you get both, it costs more than ordinary work. A pig is sure to squeal if you stick him, and the fellow whom the shoe pinches it pretty apt to be a pig. Remember, please, that while our specialty is the great ALVEOLAR method of replacing missing teeth without resorting to those unsanitary makeshifts, the antiquated bridgework and partial plates, and the curing of pyorrhea (loose (No Offense Intended.)
