Sorenson Tells Plot.

Sorenson said he had been a resident of Portland for 37 years. His acquaintance with F. P. Mays, D. W. Tarpley, H. G. McKinley, S. A. D. Puter and H. A. Smith extended more than 15 years in most instances, while he had always been a supporter of Senator Mitchell

"I was in attendance at the session of the Legislature in 1901 when Mitchell was elected to the United States Senate," said Sorenson. "Mays was a member at that time and so was H. A. Smith, Democrat, elected from Multnomah County on the Citizens' ticket. Prior to the election of Senator Mitchell I had come across a pamphlet issued by the Government and giving a lot of information about proposed forest reserves. I found that an addition to the Cascade reserve had been recommended by Forest Superintendent Ormsby. Quietly I bought up all the school lands within the proposed additions. I then had a talk with Senator Mitchell. I thought it a good idea to have the Senator help the thing along, and I agreed to pay him $500 to help secure the additions.

"The additions had been hanging fire for some time and I wanted to rush the case along to get the moncy out of the school lands. Senator Mitchell advised me to get out a petition addressed to Commissioner Hermann and have all the members of the Multnomah County delegation to the Legislature sign it. I went to some of the men, and Smith helped with others. Alex Sweek and the whole crowd signed it. It asked the Commissioner to rush action on the Cascade reserve because the settlers there desired fire protection through the work the forest rangers were doing. Mays wrote the petition for me, and later sent it to Mr. Hermann. He told me he had also sent a personal letter. Mays and Smith both knew that I owned the school lands, "In the following Summer I called on Mays at his office in the Chamber of imerce building and proposed that we have a forest reserve created in the Blue Mountains. Mays said all right, and that it was a good idea. Mays said we would have to talk with Jones and Smith.

"A few days later we all met and talked the thing over, deciding where we would place the lines, etc., and we agreed on a division of the work, Each one was to do his part. Smith and Mays said they would take care of the Washington end and have the reserve recom mended by Mitchell and Binger Hermann Jones said he would do what he could and I was to attend to buying the land and getting up the petitions

Petitions Are Circulated.

"We first decided to get up a petition carrying the names of a lot of prominent men and to fill in enough to make up 1000 names. That plan was abandoned later and we decided to get out petitions among the people in the various countles in which the proposed reserve would be located. Smith attended to the county

"Everybody understood I was to get the lands in the usual way. I was to go down in the slums of the North End and pay men to sign applications, then deposit them at the Land Office and pay 25 cents an acre on the lands. Mays had been interested with me more than once in that sort of thing. I had made deals with Jones and Smith also.

"The way I did it was to hunt up fellows who were well acquainted. They would bring in a lot of men and I would seek them if they had over bought school.

ask them if they had ever bought school lands. If they had not bought lands, I would ask them if they wanted to earn a dollar by signing their names to an application and an assignment. They always and land and a supplication are the second to the second plication and an assignment. They always did. Usually I would not have enough applications to go around. At one time I got about 50 applications in this way for H. A. Smith, and at another lime furnished Jones a batch for his use. It cost them $1 for each application, besides expenses of drinks." sides expenses of drinks." At this point in the examination of Sorenson the court adjourned.

Land Board Involved.

George G. Brown, chief clerk of the State Land Board at Salem, who for-merly was a subaltern in that office, resumed testifying at the opening of the trial in the morning. Under a grill-ing examination by Attorney Heney for the Government and Atterney Worthington for the defense, Brown admitted that he had entertained suspicion that fraud was connected with filing of hunches of applications by Sorenson, Puter. Tarpley, McKinley and others. Brown said he was only a clerk in the office and it was not his business to confide his fears to the Land Board, of which Governor Geer was president; that he understood his business was to obey orders as given him by Chief Clerk Chamberlain. He was instructed, he said, to receive and file all applications presented so long as they were filled out properly and acknowledged. When pressed by Attorney Worthington as to whether the Land Board itself know of the existence of applicafraud was connected with filing of lociters of the school funds, Mr. Brown did not give a direct answer.

"What I want to know is, did the Land Board know of the frauds that were being practiced in this state, and did it wink at evasions of the law?" thundered the attorney for the defense.

"I can't say," replied Brown.

Then Attorney Hency took a hand at questioning Brown.

questioning Brown. "Do you meant to say to this jury and court, Mr. Brown, that when Puter, Mays, McKinley. Jones and the other land-fraud experts rushed up to Salem to protest against the sale of school lands to Hyde and Benson, after the creation of the addition to the Warner Mountain Forest Reserve, that you and the Land Board were not aware of the the Land Board were not aware of the fact that frauds were being carried out?" asked Attorney Heney.

In explanation of the formation of the Warner Mountain Reserve, Attorney Hency later said that Hyde and Benson had caused the California reserve to be extended into Oregon, and had purchased all the school lands in the addition before Jones, Mays and Puter heard of it. C. E. S. Wood, as a witness for the Government, testified that he was local agent for the owners of the Willamette Valley and Cascade Mountain Wagon Road grant, owning lands extending six miles on either side of the right of way. In June, 1902, Mr. Wood said, Mays called upon him and wanted to purchase two townships of the lands owned by the Wagon Road Commany. owned by the Wagon Road Company, and asked Wood to recommend a price. Mays at the time explained that the Blue Mountain Forest Reserve was going to be created and that he wanted the townships that he could have them included within the withdrawal. Mays explained that the lands had been logged off and were of little value. After Colonel Wood had declined to make the sale, he said that Mays came back and wanted an agreement whereby the company was to fix a minimum orics of 75 cents or $1 an acre on the lands. Mays would then have them lands. Mays would then have them placed in the reserve, and wanted to sell the scrip which could be obtained for them in exchange. Mays and the company to divide the profits above the minimum price. The offer was rejected and afterward the entire tract was left out of the reserve. Mays insisted on speedy action, saying "his parties in Washington" were about to fix the boundaries, and it was necessary for him to forward the information.

As its next witness the Government called John D. Mann, now secretary for the Star Brewing Company, of Port-the Star Brewing Company, of Port-land. Mann experienced a bad hour over questions by attorneys and jurors. the testified that he had been admitted to practice law, and that in 1902 had retired from that profession and was a Notary Public. Mann said that on three occasions he had accompanied George Sorenson to a saloon at Second and Burnside streets, where each time he acknowledged applications by 10 or 15 persons for the purchase of school lands. At the same time, said Mann, the applicants would sign an assignment of their purchase.

Fraud Not Noticed.

"I read the applications to each per son as he signed," said the witness, "but cannot remember whether the blanks had been completely filled out."
The witness said that, as a lawyer, he did not know that fraud was being practiced by the applicants. Questioned by jurors, Mann said Sorenson paid him 50 cents for each set of papers acknowledged, and, as that was cheaper than the fees allowed by law, it was considered a wholesale price.

"Are you still a Notary Public?" asked Attorney Westbingtry asked Attorney Worthington,

"Have you been regularly appointed every two years?"
"Yes."

"Did you ever testify previous to this time that you assisted Sorenson in the manner you have stated?"

"Don't you have to be recommended as a man of good moral character before you are appointed?"

"Yes."

"Yes."
"Who recommended you?"
"Sol Blumauer and Eugene Hoch."
Mann was excused as a witness after denying that he had seen Sorenson pay any money to the men who signed applications in the North End resorts. The prosecution showing him an affidavit he had signed wherein such an admission was made, Mann then returned to the courtroom and testified that he had seen Sorenson pay money. that he had seen Sorenson pay money-to the men, as well as buy them several rounds of drinks.

Indemnity Selection Made.

E. P. McCornack, of Salem, called as a witness for the Government, testified that he was employed by W. N. Jones in that he was employed by W. N. Jones in 1902 to make an indemnity selection list of lands. The witness was not a member of the Land Board, but said he prepared the list as directed and handed it to byton Geer, who, at that time, was State Land Agent, and the check for the fees was handed to a clerk in his office. The money was furnished by Jones McCornack identified the list of lands which he had prepared and said that the lands used as base for exchange with the Government. used as base for exchange with the Gov-ernment were all unsurveyed and sit-uated within the boundaries of the proposed Blue Mountain forest reserve. The reserve had not, at that time, been created permanently by proclamation of the President. It was only a withdrawal the President. It was only a withdrawal for purposes of investigation.

The witness said the indemnity list was forwarded to The Dalles and the Land Board asked for lands in place of those used as a base in another part of the state.

Oswald West, State Land Agent in 1903, and now a member of the State Railroad Commission, identified the indemnity lists, saying the lands, which the state asked incemnity, were surveyed lands soon afterward became a part of the Maury Mountain forest reserve and which the Mays-Jones-Sorenson combination nurchased from the state.

"It was a roundabout way of acquiring acreage equal to all the unsold lands in Eque Mountain reserve," said Mr.

J. J. Fitzgerald, Deputy District Attorney, testified that while acting in that capacity under District Attorney Hume, in 1901, he took a number of acknowl-edgments for Sorenson.

DOBSON QUITS SOON

Building Inspector's Resignation Effective March 1.

STRICTER QUIZ DISCUSED

Secretary Kennedy, of Civil Service Board, Would Have Official's Successor Possess Five Years' Experience.

Building Inspector Dobson will resign n the near future, his resignation to take effect March 1, when Mayor Simon will appoint a successor. Mr. Dobson will engage in business. This announcement was made by Secretary Kennedy, of the Civil Service Commission, at the commission's meeting yesterday afternoon, when a wider scope of examination for the office was discussed.

Secretary Kennedy had discussed the scope of the examination with various architects, and submitted a new plan, which calls for five years of actual experience and a four years' course in a technical school, or eight years of experience without the school course. This was thought necessary by the architects with whom Major Kennedy talked, but Civil Service Commissioner Willis felt that so much experience is not required to secure good results.

"Probably the best Building Inspector we ever had was Mr. Spencer, a young man, just out of school when appointed." said Commissioner Willis. "He took the office and made good, although he had not the experience many architects thought he should have for the position. He knew his business, but he did not stay very long, for he got something better and quit. I fail to see the necessity for all of this long experience. Probably the architects who have been consulted have been in business here a long time and feel that anyone who is to be Build-ing Inspector should go through the same experience they have, but I cannot see that way.

After debating the subject for time, it was decided that it would be wise to consider further before taking definite action. The subject will be taken up at the next meeting of the commission of the commission. sion. Two weeks' notice is required in calling for an examination, so there will be ample time to hold one before March 1, when it will be necessary to appoint

Mr. Dobson's successor.
Since Portland began to build numerous clars A buildings, as well as scores of other large structures, the office of other large structures, the office of Building Inspector has become one of the most important of the municipal positions. Mr. Dobson has served two years, and gave general satisfaction, although at times he met with strong opposition from certain Councilmen and local architects. The position pays $175 a month.

Despondency over a love affair and scarcity of money caused Alvin Wood-cox, an Oregon City youth, to fire a .32-caliber bullet into his body in the Arcade Hotel, 1461/2 First street, at 7

The bullet was deflected by a rib and lodged beneath the skin at the pit of his right arm. It was extracted by surgeons at St. Vincent's Hospital later. His condition is not regarded as seri-

When he falled to effect a reconciliation he came to Portland. In the early evening he entertained Wesley Green, a friend from Oregon City, in his room. Woodcox loaded the weapon with which he en-deavored to end his life. As he laid it on a dresser, he centered his remarks upon the loaded revolver and said: "If I was in Oregon City now, some Woodcox is said to have been a pulp

This beautiful country, with its rich soils, being a heavy sandy loam, having great depth, more so than the average, with natural and perfect drainage, is now ready for settlement.

The 40 miles of canals, which water 20,000 acres, is entirely completed, having a carrying capacity of over five feet deep for each acre, each year. This deep lava ash soil possesses phenomenal growing powers, and it holds moisture with certainty. Here it is-no experiment, as all the farmers are making big money for their investment. This country grows all kinds of fruit incident to a temperate climate. It is the best alfalfa country of the Northwest. Here you can find more reasons why you should select your future home than from any other place. It has the climate, soil, water, markets, schools, churches, transportation and other advantages. No other country surpasses it. Prices for land are low, and liberal, for five and ten-acre tracts up. It is surveyed, being platted. I have some fine unpatented land in blocks of 40 acres and up for cash. Big snaps for the man who buys 40 acres for eash, and at a way down low figure. There is a reason why land can be sold low in five and ten-acre tracts, with liberal terms. This is a live country, as hundreds of people will be brought in here this Spring.
