After waiting nearly a day and a half for the arrival of the delayed dele-gates from Eastern Washington and Idaho to arrive and then learning that they would be still further delayed on account of washouts, the convention was called to order a little before noon yesterday and came to an end late in the afternoon. The absent delegates were informed by wire that further delay on their behalf was not possible, as many of the delegates present had to hurry home to look after their business affairs.

For years the retail dealers have befighting peddlers, whom they charge with having an unfair advantage over them by escaping the payments of local taxes and not being required to carry on hand large and expensive stocks. Laws were adopted in Oregon and Washington requiring peddlers' licenses and the Washington law was attacked in the courts of that state on the grounds that it was not constitutional. Both the lower and the Supreme Court pronounced the law valid and then it was announced that the matter would was announced that the matter would taken to the Supreme Court of the United States.

It is to aid in carrying this fight through the United States Supreme Court that the dealers are now conferring. The delegates appointed yesterday to go to the Eugene convention are: H. C. Gar-nett, of Medford; F. J. Berger, of Eugene, and W. H. Marvin, of Albany.

That more states might be represented among the officers of the Federation, it was decided to increase the number of vice-presidents from one to three. After this was done, the following officers were elected: President, George H. Smith, were elected; President, George H. Smith, of Oakland, Cal.; first vice-president, H. C. It was agreed that the next annual meeting should be held in San Francisco when the state organization of California meets, which will be in March of next year.

An important feature of yesterday's meeting was the passage of a resolution condemning price fixing, or combinations that would injure legitimate competition.

FLORENCE ROBERTS PUZZLED BY TOASTS

Portland's Clever Rhymers Prove Almost Too Clever for Actress. Who Experiences Trouble in Choosing Second Best Offering.

OOR Florence Roberts! With

Toasts to the left of her, toasts to the right of her.
While into the valley of them rides her press agent.
The morning after the announcement in The Oregonian that she would give the stage box to the one sending her the cleverest toast to Paris, there arrived at the theater and at her hotel letters, special deliveries, messenger boys and chauffeurs, bringing toastslong toasts and short toasts, nice toasts and naughty toasts. Even the telephone has been pressed into service as a toast-conveyer. "Please say," said Miss Roberts to the interviewer from The Oregonian, who came to find how the contest was progressing. "Please say that I am overwhelmed by the cleverness of Portland. In other cities I have tried this contest, but always experienced no difficulty in deciding upon the best toast. Here I have had so many close seconds that I must walt until the last mail before I award the prize. Here's to beautiful Paris,

They tell us that what lan't there is

The small shops of "Quartier Latin,"
Or the big ones like "Bon Marche."
Will all get your money, so come along.

my personal representative insists on

In purchasing a residence site did you ever stop to think that the mere matter of the land cuts no figure? It is the community value, the sur-roundings, the character of the people you have for neighbors and the character of their improvements that count. In Irvington Park we have developed along the proper lines to make an ideal residence neighborhood, and the 100 high-class dwellings now built or building, and the happy, prosperous people living there, go to show that we have builded aright, Irvington Park is nearly all sold, and mostly to home builders. Those who have bought have made money, those who buy now will make money. This is pleasant for them, and it is pleasant for come. Go out to the Irvington and Holla day districts and see what they are. Price the property. Then go to Irvington and Holla day districts and see what they are. Price the property. Then go to Irvington Park and find the same class of improvements, the same class of improvements, the same cars at the same fare. Then compare the prices—$450 in Irvington Park and up as high as $7500, but a few minutes closer in. And that is just where Irvington Park will stand in the way of values in a very short time. These are facts so plain that any person of ordinary intelligence can comprehend them. Call at the office of the F. B. Holbrook Co., Room 1, Worcester building, and let us show you.
