FRUIT COUNTRY DEVELOPS. - W. R. Stokes, Portland, who was elected president of Estacada Fruitgrowers' Association, has returned from Estacada where tion, has returned from Estacada, where he had been for some time. He said yesterday that he was elected president of the sasociation during his absence, but now that he had been elected he should do all in his power to develop that district along high-grade fruit lines. The board of directors will hold a meeting Saturday and lay plans for future action. Mr. Stokes says that many people have bought land for fruitgrowing, that the district is a large one, and the prospects district is a large one, and the prospects district is a large one, and the prospects for developing a fruitsrowing section are excellent. Some young orchards have al-ready been set out and a large acreage will be set out to high-grade fruit during the present year. The association plans to encourage the cultivation of first-class fruits. Mr. Stokes is senior member of the firm of Stokes & Zeller, Portland

Longshobeman Crushet a Work.—Caught between a scow and the British steamship M. S. The brace on the seat under the pad was broken. The harness had an open fancy bridle with a broken bit. The mare colt weighs about 700 pounds, is dark bay with black spots on her left side; and has nails in her knofe although she is not now shoot. She has a black mane and tail. Further THE programme at the Orpheum this week, more than fills the expects week, more than fills the expectaweek, more than fills the expectations of patrons. The return of Paul Seldoms and his plastic poems is a welcome event. A trio of men and beautifully formed women whose bodies glisten and appear like marble give an exhibition remarkable for its art value. Antique as well as modern masters are represented in the choice of subjects. As if carved from marble, these handsome plastic figures, either singly or in groups, stand on high pedestals, or pose in has relief in absolute repose. The immobility of the figures is a triumph. Truly marvelous is the work She has a black mane and tail. Further particulars may be had from Sheriff Stevens. Phone Main 7180 or A 5436. Stevens. Phone Main 7180 or A 5436.

BELTING THIEF GETS YEAR ON ROCKPILE.

Louis Shafer was sentenced to one year on the rockpile yesterday morning in Municipal Court. He had been arrested by Detectives Craddock and Mallett in the act of removing stolen property from the place where he had cached it. Shafer stole a roll of leather belting 50 feet long from the West Side Lumber Company, where he was formerly an employe. He had been seen to hide it at the foot of Mill street and this information reached the police. The two officers who arrested him had waited at the cache for nearly 24 hours before Shafer umph. Truly marvelous is the work of Erna Claren, who is known as Sel-dom's Venus. In many of the groups she is the central figure, as in "The Fountain." "Sampson Bound" and he for nearly 24 hours before Shafer she is the central figure, as in "The Fountain." "Sampson Bound" and "Reaching the Winning Post."

Next in favor is probably Toby Claude, a brilliant little comedienne, about the size of a good healthy peanut, who emanates foy. Much on the order of Alice Lloyd's act is this diminutive damsel's offering. She has a Coster song that makes a hit, and a ballad "She Hadn't Done Her Hair Up Yet," that is rather foolish and new. Toby the tiny is a speaking proof of the assection that the best goods come in small packages. She is most generous with her encores and this liberality, together with her utter lack of affectation, helps to make her a general favorite. She has become best known throughout the country as star in "Fantana," "A Knight for a Day," "A Chinese Honeymoon" and other musical comedy successes.

The Mowatts are a quintet of lads who do al sorts of things with "injun" clubs, and somehow they do them faster than the others of their ilk who have come our way. The Gatling-gun style of exchanging and twirling the giftering clubs with marvelous dexterty and speed make an illumination on the stage.
