INFECTED TREES ARE DESTROYED .- Fruit Inspector Stansberry obtained good re sults from his inspection the past week on the East Side. Many thoroughly in on the East Side. Many thoroughly in-fected and worthless trees are being de-stroyed. On the quarter block at East Ankeny street and Grand avenue all the trees have been cut down. In Stephens Addition trees are being cut down in many places by the owners. When no attention is paid to a notice from the in spector the cases are turned over to th District Attorney. With few exception owners are co-operating with the in-spector in getting rid of hopelessly dis-eased trees. Inspector Staneberry has a list of men who do spraying, which he will furnish to those who want their trees sprayed. Many persons would spray if they knew where to find men to do the work.

CLUB TO HONOR JUDGE WILLIAMS' STHE BIRTHDAY.—Judge George H. Williams, Oregon's "grand old man," will be the guest of honor at a banquet in celebration of his 87th birthday, March 27. The dinner will be given at the Portland Commercial Club under the auspices of the Portland Republican Club, of which Judge Williams is one of the three hon-orary members, the other two being President Taft and Theodore Roosevelt. The suggestion that such a dinner be given in Judge Williams' honor was made at the annual dinner of the club Saturday night by C. W. Fulton, ex-United States Senator. A committee was imme-diately directed to make all necessary

EAST SIDE OPPOSES RENAMING STREETS.

The plan for renaming the streets suggested by the City Engineer is opposed by the people of the East Side. The civic organizations on that side of the river favor a change that will eliminate the word "Fast" on streets running east and sub-"East" on streets running east and sub-stituting "avenue." This is the plan sug-gested by M. G. Munly, president of the United East Side Push Clubs, and ap-proved by other push clubs. This change would make these streets running east read Morrison avenue, Couch avenue, Washington avenue and so on. This matter of renaming the streets will be con-sidered at the mass meeting of the United Push Clubs Wednesday night, February 9.

MILLER KEPT ON MOVE

O. R. & N. TRAFFIC MANAGER HOME; GOES EAST SOON.

Special Conferences of Railroad Officials Believed to Mean Adjustment of Terminal Trouble.

R. B. Miller, traffic manager for the O R. & N., and the Oregon & Washington returned late Saturday night from Chi cago and New York after an absence of a month. Mr. Miller declined to discuss the purpose of his Eastern trip, aside from saying that, while the trip was not of public interest, it would be necessary for him to return to New York next week for a further conference with his suminal differences between the two sysnificant that C. H. Carey, of the legal firm of Carey & Kerr, general counsel for the Hill lines, is now in the East. J. P. #### LOOSE TALK ARREST CAUSE

Free-for-All Fight, Started by Jealousy, Ends in Jail.

Much loud and loose talk the flourish ing of a long razor and a free-for-all light in the rear of 74 North Grand avenue led yesterday afternoon to a hurry call to police headquarters. Mounted officers, plainclothes men and patrolmen were dispatched to the scene post haste. Investigation proved that Martha West,

PASTOR SAYS ADIEU

Dr. Brougher Preaches Farewell at White Temple.

SUCCESSOR IS NOT KNOWN

Clergyman to Visit Relatives in Stockton, Cal., on Way to Los Angeles-Church Crowded in Good-by Service.

Dr. J. Whitcomb Brougher, pastor of the White Temple for the last six years, will leave Portland with nis years, will leave Portland with his family tonight, for Stockton, Cal., where he will visit his mother and sister for a few days before going to his new field of service, Los Angeles. He expects to reach Los Angeles next Friday morning, and to preach his first sermon as pastor of Temple Baptist Church next Sunday. The local church has as yet no one in view to succeed. has, as yet, no one in view to successhim. Dr. Brougher preached his fare has, as yet, no one in view to succeed him. Dr. Brougher preached his farewell sermon last night to a crowded church. Mrs. J. W. Belcher sang the old son, "Where Is My Wandering Boy Tonight?" the quartet answering with, "Tell Mother I'll Be There."

The platform and choir loft had been decorated under the direction of Peter Peterson, with a wealth of palms, plants and cut flowers, among which carnations predominated. In the center, suspended from the choir loft just above the baptistry, was a loft just above the baptistry, was a framed portrait of Dr. Brougher, which the organized classes of the church and the Young People's So-clety had purchased. It will be hung in the White Temple reception room. His Converts Numerous.

At the opening of the evening service many were baptized, and a large company of new members received the liand of fellowship, their names having been placed on the church roll this month. During Dr. Brougher's pastorate 1400 persons joined the church.

Dr. Brougher's pastorate 1400 persons joined the church.

Great crowds passed by the platform at the close of Dr. Brougher's sermon last night, as well as at the close of yesterday morning's service, bidding him and Mrs. Brougher adieu.

"Character" was the theme of Dr. Brougher's sermon last night. "For me to live is Christ," said the pastor, quoting the words of the Apostle Paul. Dr. Brougher regretted that many placed cash above character, and dress above morals.

He expressed great appreciation for all the kindness shown him during his Portland pastorate. He never expected, he said, to have a more loyal, devoted church; but was going to Los Angeles because he felt that his special gifts fitted him to meet the crisis of the present situation in Temple Baptist Church, Los Angeles The congregation of the First Angeles. The congregation of the First Baptist Church at Chattanooga, Tenn., felt, he said, much regret when he came to the White Temple. He felt then as now that he was meeting a crisis.

Pastor Praises Portland.

He was glad, he said, to leave the city with the confidence, love and good wishes of a great host of friends, and of his enemies, if he had any, he said he for-gave them, and trusted they would be as generous. He had none but good words for Portland and its people. He would be glad to come back to visit friends, and speak in Portland whenever opportunity was offered.

Asked specifically if his New York mission did not involve negotiations looking to a final adjustment of the vexatious terminal situation in this city, Mr. Miller said this was a detail which did not come under his jurisdiction.

Lunity was offered.

He said with Dr. Robert Burdette as pastor emeritus and with other helpers and assistants he proposed to make Temple Baptist Church of Los Angeles the greatest Baptist church in the world. He expressed the hope, however, that the under his jurisdiction.

It has been rumored that the recent signing of a truce between the Hill and Harriman interests by which both roads will be permitted to construct a railroad up the Deschutes into Central Oregon, presages an early adjustment of the terminal differences between the two averages. church for the help they had given him in his work, and said while he regretted exceedingly to leave the city of Portland he was delighted to go under such pleasant and auspicious circumstances.

BREWSTER'S MILLIONS.

A BETTER pleased audience than the one that witnessed "Brewster's Millons" at the Baker yesterday would be difficult to find. The place was crowded capacity, and to a man enjoyed the unique comedy, now on its third visit, but as good as it ever was, and as good as new to even those who have seen

It before.

It is its refreshing quality, despite its improbable plot, that makes this piay a favorite, even as the book by George Barr McCutcheon made a great bid for interest. The dramatization is the joint work of Winchell Smith and Byron Onely and the company is sent out by Ongly and the company is sent out by Cohan & Harris-magic names in theater

The story has much ingenuity and the sidelights of humor and sentiment emphasize its charm. Royal Tracy, an effervescent and spontaneous young man, is seen as Monty, the chap who is suddenly left $1.000,000 by his grandfather, and who suddenly receives a second lewery in the suddenly receives a second legacy in the form of $7,000,000, with the proviso that he must get rid of the original millior within a year. In voice and mannerisms

Donald Bowles, a local favorite, but there the resemblance ends. Mr. Tracy possesses a buoyancy, and a magnetism that radiate constantly. His chuckle, his twistings and turnings of body and facial contortions are assets that would make a mint of money for that would make a mint of money for a vaudeville stage.

One might imagine the part to be built about Mr. Tracy, so excellent is his interpretations of the character.

In every instance the cast is adequate. Looming big on the horizon is the work of Gus Christie, who portrays Sunshine, one of the quintet of friends who conscientiously try to prevent Monty from tumbling all his castles about his ears. Mr. Christie's naturainess and perfectly simulated peeve were mirth-provokers. Franklin George as Nopper Harrison rose to dramatic heights in several instances. The women of the cast are all good-looking and have ability. Louise Sanford perhaps deserves the palm for her chaperon. Morgia Lytton is seen as Peggy the girl, and a dainty picturesque bit of femininity she is, too.

Peggy the girl, and a dainty picturesque bit of femininity she is, too.

The lines abound in comedy from beginning to end, and a large company take full advantage of every line and situation. Particularly beautiful is the setting of the third act, when the deck of the auxiliary yacht Flitter is shown in the Mediterranean Sea. The storm, with low clouds scudding rapidly across the sky and an effect of high-rolling waves dashing past, are the acme of realism. This ing past, are the acme of realism scene received so many encores that it got to be a habit almost.
