

UNBIBLICAL FEAR OF BIAS IN CENSUS

Doubt of Non-Partisan Character of Enumeration Expressed in Debate.

NEGRO VOTERS "RALLIED"

Appointments in South, Democrat Charges Have Political Color. Data on Butchering of Animals to Be Obtained.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—A lively political debate occupied nearly the entire time of the House today in defense of the bill to amend the census law so as to provide an enumeration of animals slaughtered in country butchering establishments and of hides produced in such establishments.

SNARE BRIDGE BUILT ILLEGALLY GETS O. K.

CHICAGO, Feb. 2.—(Special.)—Interstate control of meat prices is now believed to be a subject for investigation by Judge Landis, Federal grand jury. It has become known that Special United States District Attorney William R. Maderes, who was transferred to United States District Attorney Edwin W. Sims' office from the Ohio district several months ago, has been in New York on a quiet investigation several weeks, and that he has suggested three witnesses to come to Chicago and testify before the grand jury.

NEW YORK BUTCHER CALLED.

Although great secrecy is maintained by Federal officers here as to this feature of the inquiry, the name of one of the men summoned from New York has become known. He is W. M. Marks, a member of the New York Butchers' Association. The East one of the packers whose business is being looked into in Chicago, as well as being the head of a packing company, has been suspected of being a subsidiary of the alleged beef trust.

Official Is Annoyed.

Arthur Colby, assistant treasurer, and Ralph Crowe, counsel for the National Packing Company, were before the grand jury today. They were recalled to throw further light on the books of the concern and were dismissed, subject to being summoned again later. Mr. Colby left the grand jury room at 12:30 o'clock. His face appeared flushed and he put on his overcoat and muffler as though annoyed.

Official Is Annoyed.

Bartholdt of Missouri, calling attention to the absence of his colleague, Mr. Crowe, said that Mr. Crowe evidently spoke for himself only and in no way spoke for the appointing power of the census.

Sanction Not Given.

"The Director of the Census would authorize no man to give such information," said Mr. Bartholdt. "He merely exceeded his authority in representing the Administration."

Partisan Census Feared.

"I have a reason to be voted on to inquire of the Secretary whether that is the case," said Mr. Bartholdt. In an extended speech, Mr. Sims of Tennessee declared that if a non-partisan census was desired, the Administration would appoint Republicans and Democrats to do the work of the census.

Partisan Census Feared.

Representatives Gains of West Virginia, Langley of Kentucky and Crumpacker of Indiana said that a non-partisan enumeration of the census would be made if Republicans only were appointed.

Partisan Census Feared.

"The man they appointed in Chicago as supervisor was not a Republican at all," said Mr. Mansel of Illinois. "Was he a Democrat?" asked Mr. Tucker of Missouri.

Partisan Census Feared.

"Was he a Democrat?" retorted Mr. Mansel. Color Question Raised.

Charging that a rule of the census provides that in the South negroes should be appointed to enumerate negroes, Representative Harlow of Georgia declared it was being done to "rally the negro vote and to rally negro delegates to the National convention of the Republican party."

Partisan Census Feared.

Representative Madden, of Illinois, said that supervisors of the census were appointed without political consideration, saying that he knew that was the case in Chicago. He did not believe the color of a citizen should be a bar in taking the census.

Partisan Census Feared.

"Men," he said, "should be taken as men, regardless of their color, as of their creed."

Partisan Census Feared.

While Representative Keffer, of Ohio, was speaking of the nonpartisan character of the census takers, Representative Heilin, of Alabama, interrupted to ask whether he would appoint negroes to enumerate the white people of the South if he could do so.

Partisan Census Feared.

"If they were as well qualified as the whites, I would," replied Mr. Keffer. "The President asked me to suggest some good men for supervisors of the census in place of a supervisor who died," said Mr. Hamlin, of Missouri. "But he insisted that the man be a Republican, and I told him I had no advice to give."

Partisan Census Feared.

Representative Hardy, of Texas, asserted that parliamentarism was the keynote of Federal appointments in his state.

PAPER SHOULD BE CHEAPER

With Competition, Price Could Be $35 Per, Says Publisher.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 5.—At the annual meeting of associated Ohio papers comprising 124 daily newspapers in Ohio, held today in this city, a statement upon the price which publishers should pay for this paper," was made by John Norris, chairman of the committee on paper of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association.

PAPER SHOULD BE CHEAPER

Mr. Norris said if free competition and normal conditions prevailed in the paper trade, newsprint should be delivered in pressrooms at $35 a ton, or $1.75 per 100 pounds.

STOCKS DOWN, ON FAILURE

Fisk & Robinson Troubles Due to Shrinkage in Bonds.

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—The suspension of Fisk & Robinson, a bond and bank-

GRAND JURY LOOKS INTO MEAT PRICES

Official of National Packing Company Is Annoyed After Examination.

EASTERN BUTCHER CALLED

New York Witnesses Expected to Throw Light on Charge That Trust Controlled Business. District Attorney Secretive.

CHICAGO, Feb. 2.—(Special.)—Interstate control of meat prices is now believed to be a subject for investigation by Judge Landis, Federal grand jury. It has become known that Special United States District Attorney William R. Maderes, who was transferred to United States District Attorney Edwin W. Sims' office from the Ohio district several months ago, has been in New York on a quiet investigation several weeks, and that he has suggested three witnesses to come to Chicago and testify before the grand jury.

NEW YORK BUTCHER CALLED.

Although great secrecy is maintained by Federal officers here as to this feature of the inquiry, the name of one of the men summoned from New York has become known. He is W. M. Marks, a member of the New York Butchers' Association. The East one of the packers whose business is being looked into in Chicago, as well as being the head of a packing company, has been suspected of being a subsidiary of the alleged beef trust.

Official Is Annoyed.

Arthur Colby, assistant treasurer, and Ralph Crowe, counsel for the National Packing Company, were before the grand jury today. They were recalled to throw further light on the books of the concern and were dismissed, subject to being summoned again later. Mr. Colby left the grand jury room at 12:30 o'clock. His face appeared flushed and he put on his overcoat and muffler as though annoyed.

Official Is Annoyed.

Bartholdt of Missouri, calling attention to the absence of his colleague, Mr. Crowe, said that Mr. Crowe evidently spoke for himself only and in no way spoke for the appointing power of the census.

Sanction Not Given.

"The Director of the Census would authorize no man to give such information," said Mr. Bartholdt. "He merely exceeded his authority in representing the Administration."

Partisan Census Feared.

"I have a reason to be voted on to inquire of the Secretary whether that is the case," said Mr. Bartholdt. In an extended speech, Mr. Sims of Tennessee declared that if a non-partisan census was desired, the Administration would appoint Republicans and Democrats to do the work of the census.

Partisan Census Feared.

Representatives Gains of West Virginia, Langley of Kentucky and Crumpacker of Indiana said that a non-partisan enumeration of the census would be made if Republicans only were appointed.

Partisan Census Feared.

"The man they appointed in Chicago as supervisor was not a Republican at all," said Mr. Mansel of Illinois. "Was he a Democrat?" asked Mr. Tucker of Missouri.

Partisan Census Feared.

"Was he a Democrat?" retorted Mr. Mansel. Color Question Raised.

Charging that a rule of the census provides that in the South negroes should be appointed to enumerate negroes, Representative Harlow of Georgia declared it was being done to "rally the negro vote and to rally negro delegates to the National convention of the Republican party."

Partisan Census Feared.

Representative Madden, of Illinois, said that supervisors of the census were appointed without political consideration, saying that he knew that was the case in Chicago. He did not believe the color of a citizen should be a bar in taking the census.

Partisan Census Feared.

"Men," he said, "should be taken as men, regardless of their color, as of their creed."

Partisan Census Feared.

While Representative Keffer, of Ohio, was speaking of the nonpartisan character of the census takers, Representative Heilin, of Alabama, interrupted to ask whether he would appoint negroes to enumerate the white people of the South if he could do so.

Partisan Census Feared.

"If they were as well qualified as the whites, I would," replied Mr. Keffer. "The President asked me to suggest some good men for supervisors of the census in place of a supervisor who died," said Mr. Hamlin, of Missouri. "But he insisted that the man be a Republican, and I told him I had no advice to give."

Partisan Census Feared.

Representative Hardy, of Texas, asserted that parliamentarism was the keynote of Federal appointments in his state.

PAPER SHOULD BE CHEAPER

With Competition, Price Could Be $35 Per, Says Publisher.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 5.—At the annual meeting of associated Ohio papers comprising 124 daily newspapers in Ohio, held today in this city, a statement upon the price which publishers should pay for this paper," was made by John Norris, chairman of the committee on paper of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association.

PAPER SHOULD BE CHEAPER

Mr. Norris said if free competition and normal conditions prevailed in the paper trade, newsprint should be delivered in pressrooms at $35 a ton, or $1.75 per 100 pounds.

STOCKS DOWN, ON FAILURE

Fisk & Robinson Troubles Due to Shrinkage in Bonds.

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—The suspension of Fisk & Robinson, a bond and bank-

GRAND JURY LOOKS INTO MEAT PRICES

Official of National Packing Company Is Annoyed After Examination.

EASTERN BUTCHER CALLED

New York Witnesses Expected to Throw Light on Charge That Trust Controlled Business. District Attorney Secretive.

CHICAGO, Feb. 2.—(Special.)—Interstate control of meat prices is now believed to be a subject for investigation by Judge Landis, Federal grand jury. It has become known that Special United States District Attorney William R. Maderes, who was transferred to United States District Attorney Edwin W. Sims' office from the Ohio district several months ago, has been in New York on a quiet investigation several weeks, and that he has suggested three witnesses to come to Chicago and testify before the grand jury.

NEW YORK BUTCHER CALLED.

Although great secrecy is maintained by Federal officers here as to this feature of the inquiry, the name of one of the men summoned from New York has become known. He is W. M. Marks, a member of the New York Butchers' Association. The East one of the packers whose business is being looked into in Chicago, as well as being the head of a packing company, has been suspected of being a subsidiary of the alleged beef trust.

Official Is Annoyed.

Arthur Colby, assistant treasurer, and Ralph Crowe, counsel for the National Packing Company, were before the grand jury today. They were recalled to throw further light on the books of the concern and were dismissed, subject to being summoned again later. Mr. Colby left the grand jury room at 12:30 o'clock. His face appeared flushed and he put on his overcoat and muffler as though annoyed.

Official Is Annoyed.

Bartholdt of Missouri, calling attention to the absence of his colleague, Mr. Crowe, said that Mr. Crowe evidently spoke for himself only and in no way spoke for the appointing power of the census.

Sanction Not Given.

"The Director of the Census would authorize no man to give such information," said Mr. Bartholdt. "He merely exceeded his authority in representing the Administration."

Partisan Census Feared.

"I have a reason to be voted on to inquire of the Secretary whether that is the case," said Mr. Bartholdt. In an extended speech, Mr. Sims of Tennessee declared that if a non-partisan census was desired, the Administration would appoint Republicans and Democrats to do the work of the census.

Partisan Census Feared.

Representatives Gains of West Virginia, Langley of Kentucky and Crumpacker of Indiana said that a non-partisan enumeration of the census would be made if Republicans only were appointed.

Partisan Census Feared.

"The man they appointed in Chicago as supervisor was not a Republican at all," said Mr. Mansel of Illinois. "Was he a Democrat?" asked Mr. Tucker of Missouri.

Partisan Census Feared.

"Was he a Democrat?" retorted Mr. Mansel. Color Question Raised.

Charging that a rule of the census provides that in the South negroes should be appointed to enumerate negroes, Representative Harlow of Georgia declared it was being done to "rally the negro vote and to rally negro delegates to the National convention of the Republican party."

Partisan Census Feared.

Representative Madden, of Illinois, said that supervisors of the census were appointed without political consideration, saying that he knew that was the case in Chicago. He did not believe the color of a citizen should be a bar in taking the census.

Partisan Census Feared.

"Men," he said, "should be taken as men, regardless of their color, as of their creed."

Partisan Census Feared.

While Representative Keffer, of Ohio, was speaking of the nonpartisan character of the census takers, Representative Heilin, of Alabama, interrupted to ask whether he would appoint negroes to enumerate the white people of the South if he could do so.

Partisan Census Feared.

"If they were as well qualified as the whites, I would," replied Mr. Keffer. "The President asked me to suggest some good men for supervisors of the census in place of a supervisor who died," said Mr. Hamlin, of Missouri. "But he insisted that the man be a Republican, and I told him I had no advice to give."

Partisan Census Feared.

Representative Hardy, of Texas, asserted that parliamentarism was the keynote of Federal appointments in his state.

PAPER SHOULD BE CHEAPER

With Competition, Price Could Be $35 Per, Says Publisher.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 5.—At the annual meeting of associated Ohio papers comprising 124 daily newspapers in Ohio, held today in this city, a statement upon the price which publishers should pay for this paper," was made by John Norris, chairman of the committee on paper of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association.

PAPER SHOULD BE CHEAPER

Mr. Norris said if free competition and normal conditions prevailed in the paper trade, newsprint should be delivered in pressrooms at $35 a ton, or $1.75 per 100 pounds.

STOCKS DOWN, ON FAILURE

Fisk & Robinson Troubles Due to Shrinkage in Bonds.

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—The suspension of Fisk & Robinson, a bond and bank-

GRAND JURY LOOKS INTO MEAT PRICES

Official of National Packing Company Is Annoyed After Examination.

EASTERN BUTCHER CALLED

New York Witnesses Expected to Throw Light on Charge That Trust Controlled Business. District Attorney Secretive.

CHICAGO, Feb. 2.—(Special.)—Interstate control of meat prices is now believed to be a subject for investigation by Judge Landis, Federal grand jury. It has become known that Special United States District Attorney William R. Maderes, who was transferred to United States District Attorney Edwin W. Sims' office from the Ohio district several months ago, has been in New York on a quiet investigation several weeks, and that he has suggested three witnesses to come to Chicago and testify before the grand jury.

NEW YORK BUTCHER CALLED.

Although great secrecy is maintained by Federal officers here as to this feature of the inquiry, the name of one of the men summoned from New York has become known. He is W. M. Marks, a member of the New York Butchers' Association. The East one of the packers whose business is being looked into in Chicago, as well as being the head of a packing company, has been suspected of being a subsidiary of the alleged beef trust.

Official Is Annoyed.

Arthur Colby, assistant treasurer, and Ralph Crowe, counsel for the National Packing Company, were before the grand jury today. They were recalled to throw further light on the books of the concern and were dismissed, subject to being summoned again later. Mr. Colby left the grand jury room at 12:30 o'clock. His face appeared flushed and he put on his overcoat and muffler as though annoyed.

Official Is Annoyed.

Bartholdt of Missouri, calling attention to the absence of his colleague, Mr. Crowe, said that Mr. Crowe evidently spoke for himself only and in no way spoke for the appointing power of the census.

Sanction Not Given.

"The Director of the Census would authorize no man to give such information," said Mr. Bartholdt. "He merely exceeded his authority in representing the Administration."

Partisan Census Feared.

"I have a reason to be voted on to inquire of the Secretary whether that is the case," said Mr. Bartholdt. In an extended speech, Mr. Sims of Tennessee declared that if a non-partisan census was desired, the Administration would appoint Republicans and Democrats to do the work of the census.

Partisan Census Feared.

Representatives Gains of West Virginia, Langley of Kentucky and Crumpacker of Indiana said that a non-partisan enumeration of the census would be made if Republicans only were appointed.

Partisan Census Feared.

"The man they appointed in Chicago as supervisor was not a Republican at all," said Mr. Mansel of Illinois. "Was he a Democrat?" asked Mr. Tucker of Missouri.

Partisan Census Feared.

"Was he a Democrat?" retorted Mr. Mansel. Color Question Raised.

Charging that a rule of the census provides that in the South negroes should be appointed to enumerate negroes, Representative Harlow of Georgia declared it was being done to "rally the negro vote and to rally negro delegates to the National convention of the Republican party."

Partisan Census Feared.

Representative Madden, of Illinois, said that supervisors of the census were appointed without political consideration, saying that he knew that was the case in Chicago. He did not believe the color of a citizen should be a bar in taking the census.

Partisan Census Feared.

"Men," he said, "should be taken as men, regardless of their color, as of their creed."

Partisan Census Feared.

While Representative Keffer, of Ohio, was speaking of the nonpartisan character of the census takers, Representative Heilin, of Alabama, interrupted to ask whether he would appoint negroes to enumerate the white people of the South if he could do so.

Partisan Census Feared.

"If they were as well qualified as the whites, I would," replied Mr. Keffer. "The President asked me to suggest some good men for supervisors of the census in place of a supervisor who died," said Mr. Hamlin, of Missouri. "But he insisted that the man be a Republican, and I told him I had no advice to give."

Partisan Census Feared.

Representative Hardy, of Texas, asserted that parliamentarism was the keynote of Federal appointments in his state.

PAPER SHOULD BE CHEAPER

With Competition, Price Could Be $35 Per, Says Publisher.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 5.—At the annual meeting of associated Ohio papers comprising 124 daily newspapers in Ohio, held today in this city, a statement upon the price which publishers should pay for this paper," was made by John Norris, chairman of the committee on paper of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association.

PAPER SHOULD BE CHEAPER

Mr. Norris said if free competition and normal conditions prevailed in the paper trade, newsprint should be delivered in pressrooms at $35 a ton, or $1.75 per 100 pounds.

STOCKS DOWN, ON FAILURE

Fisk & Robinson Troubles Due to Shrinkage in Bonds.

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—The suspension of Fisk & Robinson, a bond and bank-

GRAND JURY LOOKS INTO MEAT PRICES

Official of National Packing Company Is Annoyed After Examination.

EASTERN BUTCHER CALLED

New York Witnesses Expected to Throw Light on Charge That Trust Controlled Business. District Attorney Secretive.

CHICAGO, Feb. 2.—(Special.)—Interstate control of meat prices is now believed to be a subject for investigation by Judge Landis, Federal grand jury. It has become known that Special United States District Attorney William R. Maderes, who was transferred to United States District Attorney Edwin W. Sims' office from the Ohio district several months ago, has been in New York on a quiet investigation several weeks, and that he has suggested three witnesses to come to Chicago and testify before the grand jury.

NEW YORK BUTCHER CALLED.

Although great secrecy is maintained by Federal officers here as to this feature of the inquiry, the name of one of the men summoned from New York has become known. He is W. M. Marks, a member of the New York Butchers' Association. The East one of the packers whose business is being looked into in Chicago, as well as being the head of a packing company, has been suspected of being a subsidiary of the alleged beef trust.

Official Is Annoyed.

Arthur Colby, assistant treasurer, and Ralph Crowe, counsel for the National Packing Company, were before the grand jury today. They were recalled to throw further light on the books of the concern and were dismissed, subject to being summoned again later. Mr. Colby left the grand jury room at 12:30 o'clock. His face appeared flushed and he put on his overcoat and muffler as though annoyed.

Official Is Annoyed.

Bartholdt of Missouri, calling attention to the absence of his colleague, Mr. Crowe, said that Mr. Crowe evidently spoke for himself only and in no way spoke for the appointing power of the census.

Sanction Not Given.

"The Director of the Census would authorize no man to give such information," said Mr. Bartholdt. "He merely exceeded his authority in representing the Administration."

Partisan Census Feared.

"I have a reason to be voted on to inquire of the Secretary whether that is the case," said Mr. Bartholdt. In an extended speech, Mr. Sims of Tennessee declared that if a non-partisan census was desired, the Administration would appoint Republicans and Democrats to do the work of the census.

Partisan Census Feared.

Representatives Gains of West Virginia, Langley of Kentucky and Crumpacker of Indiana said that a non-partisan enumeration of the census would be made if Republicans only were appointed.

Partisan Census Feared.

"The man they appointed in Chicago as supervisor was not a Republican at all," said Mr. Mansel of Illinois. "Was he a Democrat?" asked Mr. Tucker of Missouri.

Partisan Census Feared.

"Was he a Democrat?" retorted Mr. Mansel. Color Question Raised.

Charging that a rule of the census provides that in the South negroes should be appointed to enumerate negroes, Representative Harlow of Georgia declared it was being done to "rally the negro vote and to rally negro delegates to the National convention of the Republican party."

Partisan Census Feared.

Representative Madden, of Illinois, said that supervisors of the census were appointed without political consideration, saying that he knew that was the case in Chicago. He did not believe the color of a citizen should be a bar in taking the census.

Partisan Census Feared.

"Men," he said, "should be taken as men, regardless of their color, as of their creed."

Partisan Census Feared.

While Representative Keffer, of Ohio, was speaking of the nonpartisan character of the census takers, Representative Heilin, of Alabama, interrupted to ask whether he would appoint negroes to enumerate the white people of the South if he could do so.

Partisan Census Feared.

"If they were as well qualified as the whites, I would," replied Mr. Keffer. "The President asked me to suggest some good men for supervisors of the census in place of a supervisor who died," said Mr. Hamlin, of Missouri. "But he insisted that the man be a Republican, and I told him I had no advice to give."

Partisan Census Feared.

Representative Hardy, of Texas, asserted that parliamentarism was the keynote of Federal appointments in his state.

PAPER SHOULD BE CHEAPER

With Competition, Price Could Be $35 Per, Says Publisher.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 5.—At the annual meeting of associated Ohio papers comprising 124 daily newspapers in Ohio, held today in this city, a statement upon the price which publishers should pay for this paper," was made by John Norris, chairman of the committee on paper of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association.

PAPER SHOULD BE CHEAPER

Mr. Norris said if free competition and normal conditions prevailed in the paper trade, newsprint should be delivered in pressrooms at $35 a ton, or $1.75 per 100 pounds.

STOCKS DOWN, ON FAILURE

Fisk & Robinson Troubles Due to Shrinkage in Bonds.