LADD FARM IS SITE OF REED INSTITUTE

Trustees Believe Details Will Be Completed at Meeting Today.

Site Chosen From Among Many Has Commanding View and Building Restrictions Will Conform to Plan for Beautifying.

After negotiating for several months Institute have settled upon the Ladd Crystal Springs farm as the site for the big college to be built in Portland from the $2,000,000 endowment of Amanda Reed. Although the arrangement has not been definitely closed, this one site has been chosen as the most suitable from a long list submitted. It is a beautifully leasted to most suitable from a long list sub-mitted. It is a beautifully located 40-acres tract in the heart of the Ladd Crystal Springs farm. Rev. Mr. T. L. Eliot, chairman of the board of trustees of the Reed In-stitute, declined to make a definite statement last night. Dr. Eliot ad-mitted that this one site was being considered above all others. Today's meeting, he said, doubtless would be conclusive.

Asked whether there was any probability that this site would be rejected and any other site chosen, Dr. Ellot said:

"I would much rather not say. You know there is always a possibility of conditions being imposed by owners of a tract which we are not now aware will be imposed. The entire matter is now just at the point of termination and doubtiess will be settled shortly, probably temorrow, out until it is settled I cannot make a definite statement. In fact, there will be a meeting with the owners of the tract tomorrow, and after that we possibly will be able to make a definite announcement."

The site in question is in the exact center of Eastmoreland, recently platted by the Columbia Trust Company, it also lies in the center of the Ladd Crystal Springs form. Although the entire addition has been platted, none of the plats has been filed and a replat will be made, omitting the 40 acres in the Reed site.

Adjacent to the proposed site of the institute are 20 fine springs, from which the farm originally derived its name. There is also a lake of 15 acres adjoining the site and this, with the springs and beautiful natural growth, will be set aside as a city park and developed in connection with the institute. The park will consist of 30 or 40 acres. The institute site lies on a hill back of the proposed park. It is level ground and affords a view of every part of the city.

Eastmoreland addition consists of about 506 acres yet undeveloped. The owners of the addition will pave every street, put in water, sewers, sidewalks and other improvements and with high building restrictions will require that the property adjacent to the institute is developed along the high lines demanded by the directors.

STATE SCHOOLS NAME DATE Eugene and Corvallis May Play in Portland October 12.

October 12 is the date arranged at yesterday's intercollegiate conference for the annual football game between the University of Oregon and Oregon Agricultural College. Whether this game will be played in Portland or on the campus at Contains. he campus at Corvallis will be decided the campus at Corvallis will be decided later.

Manager Angell, who has charge of athletica at Oregon Agricultural College, says that the game may be played in Portland, though he cannot make any definite announcement at this time. According to the alternating schedule the Aggles can choose the place, and Mr. Angell wishes to confer with the Oregon Agricultural faculty before making a decision.

The Oregon Agricultural College is to meet Washington State College on the gridiron during the coming season for the first time in a number of years. Yesterday Managers Angell and Jones held a conference and agreed to schools to be played at Corvallis on October 29. This should be one of the best games in Willamette Valley next season.

All Fear Expense Item.

None of the colleges is ready to take he responsibility of financing the meet this year. The two Oregon members consider it out of the question to guarantee expenses for such a competition in home cities, and are not even willing to back a meet in Portland, which, in addition to the advantage in population, is more central. The meet, however, has not been given up.

The committee having the matter of the track meet in charge is composed of William Hayward, of the University of Oregon; Victor Zednick, of the University of Washington, and John S. Grogan, of the University of Idaho.

There is a disposition among the members of the conference to hold the games in Portland, if satisfactory arangements can be made. It is estimated that the expenses would be as much as $2000, but if time could be set aside for the competitions during the Rose Festival, there is a general feeling that the project would be a paying one. The Multnomah Club has agreed to allow the conference the use of its grounds for 25 per cent of the gate receipts.

If the Rose Festival Association If the Rose Festival Association would come to the rescue of the conference with a guarantee of at least half of the expenses, the meet would be assured, and it would be the biggest athletic affair ever held in the Pacific Northwest. In the past the track meets of this section of the country have been confined to competitions between two or three of the colleges, excepting the old Oregon State League, which has gone out of existence. A track meet with all of the members of the "Big Six" represented, would be a tremendous-boost for athletics. dous boost for athletics.

The Oregon Agricultural College is to meet Washington State College on the gridiron during the coming season for the first time in a number of years. Yesterday Managers Angell and Jones held a conference and agreed to schedule a game between these two schools to be played at Corvailis on October 2P. This should be one of the best games in Willamette Valley next season.

Portland Favored by All.

Graduate Manager Zednick last night announced that he would favor the holding of the meet in Portland if the conference can be guaranteed against financial loss. If such a guarantee is not forthcoming, he will vote against holding the meet at all. The representatives of the University of Oregon and Oregon Agricultural College would like to have the meet held in Portland during the Rose Festival week, and the other delegates approve of the idea, but are dublous only about the item of expense.

Each member of the conference would be on hand with teams of from ten to 18 athletes and trainers, and the expenses of these men to and from their colleges or homes would have to be paid by the conference.

When the application of Whitworth College for admission into the conference was considered, the delegates seemed of the opinion that Whitworth had failed to demonstrate stress for admission.

"Cyclone" Johnny Thompson, the little Eastern whirlwind boxer, may appear before the Oregon Athletic Club in a boxing exhibition here in the near future. At present the Oregon Club is negotiating to bring him to Portland to give an exhibition with Frankie Smith, of Alameda, and if the match is made the bout will be presented on February 15.
