U. S. AFTER WATER

Government to Adjust Umatilla Water Rights.

OLD CLAIMS ARE INVOLVED

Department of Justice Orders Suit Under Recent Oregon Law—Hearings to Be Held at Several Different Points.

In an effort to determine the amount of water which may be available for the Umatilla project, the United States has begun action for the adjudication of 90,000 acre feet of water rights which are known to exist along the Umatilla River and its tributaries. Many extend as far back as 20 years, and in securing their recognition before the State Board of Control it will be necessary to gather the testimony of many of the pioneers of Eastern Oregon. Much of the testimony as to the earlier appropriations and their priority rights to water for irrigation purposes will depend upon the dates of the application of the flow of the stream for beneficial purposes. The Department of Justice has ordered the proceedings begun under the laws of the State of Oregon on act having been passed by the last Legislature making provision for such adjudication. United States District Attorney McCourt will be assisted by Special Assistant Oliver P. Merton of the Reclamation Service in the litigation. The suit will be given prompt hearing for the reason that it was the first one filed under the new act. The Oregon statute provides that upon petition being presented the water rights by such claimants, such surplus water would be available for the Umatilla project reservoir, as well as a large percentage of the flood waters which run from the Umatilla watershed. In many instances it is believed that actual users of water have neglected to file their claims in the state office and will depend upon proof they may be able to produce as to the date when they actually turned the water into their ditches. RANCH SELLS FOR $55,000

J. M. Kennedy, Washuena, Wash., Makes For Fortune.

SPOKANE, Wash., Feb. 6.—(Special.)—J. M. Kennedy has sold his ranch, 12 miles east of Washuena, Wash., to E. A. Hooper, son of the late A. J. Hooper and a member of the Hooper Land & Livestock Company. The ranch comprises 4500 acres and brought $55,000 cash. The transfer includes 400 cattle, 250 tons of hay, horses and farm machinery. Kennedy is one of the oldest settlers in Adams County. He came West to make his fortune in 1849, during the gold rush into California, and located on Cow Creek, in Adams County, in 1873, and raised cattle and sheep. At one time he and his partner, Lewis Smith, owned several thousand head of cattle, but in the winter of 1881-2 lost practically all. Mr. Neice then moved to Waitsburg, Wash., purchased land and stock and is now reputed to be worth $1,000,000.

HILLSBORO, Or., Feb. 6.—(Special.)

William Davenport Hare, pioneer of 1853, and for many years a noted orator of the Northwest, died at the family home this morning from pneumonia. Mr. Hare was born in Wheeling, W. Va., September 1, 1824, the oldest son of Rev. and Mrs. Joseph Hare, descendants of old English families. His mother, Frances Ellen Hare, lives in Astoria and is 99 years old. In company with Jesse Edwards, of Benton County, Mr. Hare came to Oregon in 1853, over the Council Bluffs route. Arriving at Portland, he secured a position as purser on the steamboat Fashion, and served three years, acting at times as pilot and captain.

In 1857 he was delegated to copy the records of that part of Washington County, which had been annexed to Multnomah by legislative enactment. At the conclusion of this work he was appointed auditor of Washington County vice William Caldwell resigned.

In 1858 he was elected County Clerk.

He was made a Mason in Tuality Lodge of Masons, in this city in 1862 and in 1871 was chosen grand master of Oregon. He was prominently connected with the Ancient Order of United Workmen in the days of the great strength of that order, and was several times the state executive of the organization and was also supreme representative.

Judge Hare's conception of life and death is summed up in a memorial he delivered in the State Senate in 1885, when, in paying a tribute to the late Henry Warren, Senator from Yamhill, he said: "The Stoics tell us that death is oblivion; that human affection only bids us over the tomb of our departed friends, plant the sprig of acacia and blooming flowers; the moderns, however, tell us to do all this, and also build monuments of marble to their memory and upon these monuments write epitaphs; but the best epitaph that can or will be written will be the deeds and acts of a life. Death is not oblivion; 'tis only the opening of a better and higher life. Men in this life build their own characters, and the highest aim of every man should be so to order his own life that when the end comes, it can truly be said of him, 'He lived a life void of offense towards God and man.'"

Church Cornerstone Laid.

VANCOUVER, Wash., Feb. 6.—(Special.)—Invoking ceremonies marked the laying of the cornerstone of the Second Presbyterian Church of Vancouver this afternoon. Rev. Henry Macroft, pastor of the Westminster Presbyterian Church, of Portland, delivered the sermon, in which he maintained that industry on the part of church members and ministers was a prime factor in the uplifting of an efficient church. Dr. Calvin S. White, of Portland, delivered the oration at the laying of the cornerstone. Rev. D. O. Gormely, of Tacoma, synodical missionary for the State of Washington, gave a historical review of the establishing of the new mission church. The city council of Easton, Me., voted by a large majority to ask the legislature to amend the city charter so as to give its municipal suffrage to women owning $500 worth of property. HEALTH IS MENAGED

A. L. Mills Denounces Delay in Building Crematory.

GUILD'S LAKE POOR SITE

"Pettness of Ward Politics" Is Blamed—Complaints Against Milk Supply Not Unfounded, Is the Speaker's Firm Belief.

Health Is Menaged

A. L. Mills, president of the First National Bank, emphasized Portland's need of a garbage crematory by his address on the "Public Health" at the Unitarion Church last night, by referring to the ill at Guild's Lake as a "five-acre garbage park, maintained by the City Beautiful." He declared this a menace to the public health and agreed upon a site, as the reason no crematory has been built.

The speaker maintained that Guild's Lake is a poor site for the new crematory, because of the long haul necessary, and that Sellwood, South Portland, and Albina garbage will continue to be dumped into vacant sloughs. He criticized the City Council for "carefully draining the lifeblood of a site from the crematory measure before submitting it to the voters." He also spoke of the unsanitary carts now in use.

Advanced Programme Favored. Mr. Mills declared himself in favor of flushing the streets, of more hard-surfaced pavements, of enforcement of the anti-spitting ordinance, of continued market inspection and medical examination of public school children and of pure milk for the city. He eulogized the Visiting Nurse Association, the Consumers' League, the Council of Jewish Women, the Portland Women's Club and the Fruit and Flower Mission, besides saying that the Board of Health is giving Portland more protection than the fire or police departments. Portland's Board of Health expenditure of $19,843 in 1908 was compared with Seattle's $116,000.

The speaker spoke of the fact that until two years ago Portland had no ambulance, remarking that "the unfortunate victim of an accident was jolted and tortured in the police patrol to the hospital, while persons with contagious diseases were conveyed in an express wagon. This barbaric treatment is unheard of in Eastern cities of the size of Portland," he continued. "Today there is an ambulance service, but no attendant physician to render first aid to the injured."

Milk Supply Impure. Regarding the milk supply, the speaker said the complaints were not unfounded; that 287 cases of typhoid fever last Fall preceded in the Summer by the deaths of 24 infants, in spite of a pure water supply, pointed almost conclusively to impure milk.
